Dexter Man Killed In Wreck

BLOOMFIELD — Dennis Wayne Moore, 25, Sam Drive, Dexter, died instantly Thursday at 12 p.m. north of Bloomfield on highway 25 when his 1966 Chevrolet pickup traveling south hit headon with a 1971 Ford truck driven by Ronald Martin of Ozark. Both were apparently in the center of the road. Martin was taken to the Dexter Memorial hospital with a broken leg and cuts and was reported today in satisfactory condition.

Moore was born Oct. 24, 1946 near Fisk. He married Brenda Ray Jan. 9, 1965 at Dexter. He was a truck driver for Monarch Feed Mills at Dexter.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Gale Wayne Moore and one daughter, Sherry Lynn Moore, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Moore of Dexter; two brothers, Carol Moore of Kennett and Ronnie Moore of Dexter.

Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Rainey Funeral Home chapel in Dexter with Rev. Gerald W. Beam officiating. Burial in the Dexter cemetery.

Sikeston Fender Bender

Two Sikeston residents were involved in a minor two-car accident in front of the Cream Castle drive-in on East Malone about 5 p.m. yesterday.

Police said that a 1964 Pontiac driven by Ina Claire Tate, Box 701, pulled out of the Cream Castle parking lot and into the path of an eastbound city cab driven by Ollie Cole, of 221 Ruth.

The Tate woman was charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Pravda Analyzes Peace Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda's correspondent in Hanoi reported today that President Nixon's peace plan is being "attentively analyzed" by North Vietnamese leaders.

"Outwardly these proposals could be seen as something new," correspondent A. Serbin wrote, "but here, in the political circles of Hanoi, their real contents are being attentively analyzed and note is being taken of what is hidden behind the new cover."

He said Nixon's offer to withdraw all U. S. forces within six months after an agreement does not reply to the Viet Cong demand for an unconditional U. S. withdrawal after a firm date has been named.

Serbin said the cease-fire proposed by Nixon is regarded in Hanoi as "a striving on the one hand to retain pro-American regimes in countries of Indochina and on the other hand to deprive the peoples of these countries of the opportunity to fight for their rights of self-determination."

Nixon's proposal for new elections in South Vietnam came in for the sharpest criticism.

"Local political circles note that the so-called 'elections' ... will only repeat the farce of the presidential elections held in Vietnam last October," Serbin said.

Named MU Chancellor

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Hebert W. Schooling has been named chancellor of the University of Missouri's Columbia campus, C. Brice Ratchford, university president, announced today.

Dr. Ratchford's recommendation of Schooling as chancellor received the approval of the university board of curators.

Dr. Schooling has been serving as interim chancellor the past year, after the resignation of John W. Schwada, who left the university to become president of Arizona State, Tempe.

In making the announcement, Ratchford said "in the past 13 months he has done a tremendous job as interim chancellor in handling the many difficult matters requiring his attention, as well as providing necessary guidance and leadership."

Dr. Schooling began his administrative career on the Columbia campus as dean of the college of Education on Sept. 1, 1963. He was the first person to be named provost of the Columbia campus and second to become dean of faculties.

He was named to the latest post Feb. 1, 1966 and was given the added assignment of provost in 1969.

Born in Lawrence County near Pierce City in 1912, Schooling was superintendent of schools at Webster Grove for six yearsn associate professor of education and director of pre-collegiate education at the University of Chicago for two years and superintendent of schools at North Kansas City, where he served 11 years.

Schooling received his doctorate of education at the University of Missouri in 1954. He is a graduate of Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield.

Fred E. Wachter, Jackson Route 1; Charles Arnold, Scott City, and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrill Dirnberger, Chaffee Route 1, were among 85 agents of the Farmers Mutual Hail Insurance Co. of Columbia, Mo., attending a district meeting Thursday in Sikeston. Local fieldmen in charge of the meeting were Henry Butler of Dexter and Robert Hesselrode of Kennett.

Longshoremen And Teamsters

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Longshoremen and Teamsters Union members opened a picket line today at the Mexican border that stopped cargo from crossing into California from the Baja California port of Ensenada.

About 60 pickets were marching peacefully in a circle at the San Ysidro border crossing, and trucks from Mexico stopped short of the line, apparently in some confusion, about what to do, said Robert Lasher, supervisor of the U.S. Customs office there.

It was the first time the longshoremen and teamsters had tried to seal off cargo getting through this end of their 2,000mile-long strike line. Throughout the strike, many ships have unloaded their cargo in the Ensenada port, and trucks have brought it into the United States.

At Vancouver, B.C., Canadian members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union reportedly are set to refuse work on any ships diverted from struck American ports. The Canadians have been uninvolved in the dispute which has idled 24 ports in California, Oregon and Washington since Jan. 17.

Hayti Girl Hit By Bus

A four- year- old Hayti girl suffered a broken hip yesterday when she was hit by a school bus on a gravel road on the south edge of Hayti.

Sagryln Elaine Mason was struck by a bus driven by Embree Kingcad, 59, of Hayti. Kingcad told the highway patrol that he had stopped to let children off the bus and hit the girl when he started up. He said that he thought that all the children had cleared the bus.

Seven Elected To MU Council

Seven persons have elected to the University of Missouri Extension council in Stoddard county.

They are John F. Johnson of Painton, Fred Skelton of Puxico, Leo Lowery of Puxico, Mrs. Paul Ralaford of Bloomfield, Jim Miller of Dexter, Earl Swinger of Essex, and Rudy Robinson of Dexter.

All were elected to two year terms.

U.S. Aid Offer To Hanoi Disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam was told last year it might get up to $2.5 billion of a potential $7.5-billion, five-year U.S. postwar reconstruction program for Indochina following a peace settlement, Nixon administration officials have disclosed.

Administration strategists said also that the test still lies ahead on whether Hanoi will negotiate seriously on President Nixon's eight-point peace offer.

A current theory here is that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, reportedly building up for an offensive next month, will want to decide first whether South Vietnam can defend itself without U.S. troops and whether Nixon's offer has wide public support in the United States.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told newsmen Thursday he was somewhat encouraged because North Vietnamese negotiators did not reject Nixon's plan as it was publicly presented at Paris that morning, though they piled invective on it. He said it was a good sign that they asked questions about it.

But Rogers acknowledged the continuing clash of goals. He said the North Vietnamese insist that a "Communist government takeover" in Saigon and "we can't accept that."

In his Tuesday night disclosure of secret negotiations by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger in Paris, Nixon said an aid offer was made last July 26, but he gave no figures.

Administration officials said that the "illustrative" figure of $7.5 billion over 5 years for Indochina's reconstruction, with up to one-third going to North Vietnam, was given after Hanoi envoys had presented their secret nine-point settlement plan.

One of the nine points called for reparations, the officials said. They said the reparations demand was rejected because, in the U.S. view, to pay this would be an admission of guilt by the United States.

For this reason Nixon's response totaled eight points instead of nine, they said, and the prospective U.S. aid following the war was outlined separately.

The $7.5 billion for the two Vietnams, Cambodia and Laos, if it came to pass, would be a massive amount by current U.S. economic-aid standards.

The Agency for International Development figures its worldwide economic-aid authorization this year at $1.87 billion. Nixon is seeking $2.26 billion for next year.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson proposed a $1-billion postwar economic-development outlay for all of Southeast Asia, including North Vietnam, in his April 1967 peace offer.

Sikeston Hit With Ice Storm

The ice storm has made it's weight felt throughout the Sikeston area, bringing down utility lines, trees, and causing a rash of accidents.

Power and telephone lines are down throughout the area. Most of the lines have been brought down by falling trees, although some may have come down under the weight of the ice. Work crews have been busy through the night trying to restore the lines.

A spokesman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Shirley Davidson, said that as of 9:15 a.m. today, 90 telephone lines were reported down with 139 telephones out of order. In Charleston 60 lines were reported down.

Extra work crews from Perryville, Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Farmington, Van Buren, Hayti and Kennett are in Sikeston helping to repair the lines, Mrs. Davidson said.

Long distances circuits to Risco, Bernie, Malden, and Gideon are out of service, she said. Mobile units have been set up in Malden and Bernie to enable residents to make emergency calls.

Mrs. Davidson said the Southwestern Bell hopes to have all service restored today.

Dick Inman of the Sikeston Light and Water Co. reported that all sections of the city were without power for a time last night including the east side of town, which was without power for over an hour.

The Missouri Utilites Co. reported that their lines to over 150 houses and businesses were down. A spokesman said that the company hopes to have power restored by tonight.

The R.E.A. Electrical Co-op reported that it too had a large number of lines down, but no time was given as to when their power would be restored.

Police reported a rash of minor traffic accidents due to the icy conditions. throughout the area. No serious accidents caused by the bad conditions were reported . In one unusual accident, James Earl Chappell reported to police that two cars parked at his home at 814 Lake St. were damaged last night whan a large ice coved tree broke in half and fell on the cars.

The fire department responded to three calls last night. At 6:35 p.m. they were called to the Blanche Jones residence at 711 E. Katheleen. A neighbor told the fire department that there were wires down in the back yard and that the house might catch fire but it did not.

At 8:48 p.m. they were called to 504 Carroll where a broken wire had set fire to a light pole. The fire department said that damage was minor.

At 9:35 p.m., fireman were called to a trailer park at 810 Hunter where broken lines had set fire to a tree that stood over a butane gas tank. The fire was quickly extinguished.

Candidate Protection Plan May Exclude Two Hopefuls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to provide Secret Service protection for presidential candidates according to their standing in public-opinion polls could exclude two prominent Democratic hopefuls: Sens. George S. McGovern and Henry M. Jackson.

The plan, drawn up Thursday by the Candidate Protection Advisory Commission and likely to be accepted by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, could give protection to the party's most prominent noncandidate, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The protection is unlikely to begin until March 20, which means the current large field of Democratic candidates will have to campaign through the March 7 New Hampshire and March 14 Florida primaries without the aid of the Secret Service.

But those primaries could narrow the field of candidates.

Under the commission proposal, Secret Service protection would be provided starting March 20 to announced candidates receiving at least 5 per cent in either the Harris or Gallup polls, and unannounced candidates receiving 20 per cent in either poll "subject to the legal determination of the secretary of the Treasury under the law."

The most-recent polls show Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey well above 5 per cent, and former Senm Eugene J. McCarthy and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay at or barely above that figure.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, also seeking the Democratic presidential nomination prior to a likely repeat of his 1968 third-party race, has not been measured in the recent Gallup and Harris polls.

Bike Stolen

Greg Gipson, Rt. 3, told police that the theft occurred sometime Wednesday night. He placed the value of the bike at $200.

Workmen Ruff It

Funds Requested

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Marvin Jones, chairman of the Missouri Public Service Commission, said today he has requested Congress to supply funds for an investigation of several aspects of the telephone industry.

The Federal Communications Commission has declined past requests for such an investigation, Jones said.

In a telegram to members of Congress, Jones urged that an investigation focus on four points:

—Allocation of costs between interstate and intrastate calling.

—Consequences of allowing competition from specialized communication companies.

—Use of customer-owned equipment.

—Prices and profits of Western Electric, which supplies subsidiaries of American Telphone and Telegraph with equipment.

Jones charged the FCC with failure to carry out its responsibilities in those areas and said only Congressional action could correct that failure.

Signs Of New Tet Offensive Mount

SAIGON (AP) — Sharp fighting broke out today only 10 miles from Saigon in one of the closest battles to the capital since the enemy's Tet offensive of 1968, the Saigon military radio said.

The surprise battle was reported as new intelligence reports indicated the enemy was preparing for a second Tet offensive next month. As a result, the big U.S. military base at nearby Bien Hoa was placed on increased alert.

The Saigon military radio reported two battalions of South Vietnamese rangers battled enemy troops for seven hours beginning at dawn just to the east and southeast of the Quang Trung Military Training Center. This was the scene of heavy fighting in the last Tet offensive.

The radio claimed 23 enemy soldiers were killed in the clash and many important documents were captured. There was no report on South Vietnamese casualties.

Military sources in Saigon were unable to verify the report as given by the military radio.

Field officers said the alert at Bien Hoa, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, was ordered after captured enemy prisoners told interrogators attacks were being planned in that area during Tet, which falls on Feb. 15.

In the central chighlands, North Vietnamese troops were reported moving into positions to encircle a fire base on the frontier. a possible forerunner to a big attack.

The U.S. Command indicated that a higher state of readiness would be ordered shortly for all American forces throughout South Vietnam to guard against increased enemy rocket, mortar, sapper and terror attacks during Tet.

The command also reported the 20th air strike inside North Vietnam this year and the loss of two American aircraft due to mechanical failures.

Killing Of 2 Policemen Called Assassination

NEW YORK (AP) — Two young city policemen, who had been Marine Corps buddies in Vietnam, were fatally shot Thursday night in what officials called an "out-and-out assassination."

Deputy Police Commissioner Robert Daley said the two men had walked past their killers on a street in Manhattan's East Village and were shot in the back.

The officers had volunteered for one of the city's new neighborhood police teams and had asked to be partners because of their experiences together in Vietnam.

Sgt. Frederick Reddy, commander of the team, called them "two of the best men we had—young, aggressive, intelligent...tough but fair."

Witnesses told police they saw three men fleeing from the scene, one of them waving a gun aloft and firing into the air as if in glee. The attackers took the service revolvers of both policemen.

A police artist went to work on composite sketches of the three men, although there were no witnesses to the shooting itself.

The fatal shootings were the first of New York City patrolmen this year. Nine were killed in the line of duty last year.

Police scoured the area and within an hour of the 10:50 p.m. shooting had seized at least 30 men, some armed, for questioning. None was listed as a suspect, however.

Killed were Patrolman Gregory Foster, 22, who was hit eight times, and his partner, Rocco Laurie, 25, who was hit seven times, police said.

Tree Limbs Down

THIS LARGE TREE on the corner of Tanner St. and Park Ave. came down Thursday afternoon under a heavy load of ice. City work crews began clearing fallen trees early this morning, beginning first with trees blocking streets, according to city officials. Clean up work will continue until all trees and branches are removed.

National Guard Is Prepared Better Today

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. AP - A reorganization of the Missouri National Guard to make it "better prepared than ever before in its history" was announced today by Maj. Gen. L.B. Admas Jr., adjutant general.

He said the reorganization was necessary to keep guard units organized parallel to their regular Army counterparts. Total number of units will be unchanged when the reorganization becomes effective March 1 and authorized strength is approximately the same.

With the reorganization will come such new equipment, including "Huey" helicopters, new model Army personnel carriers, newer communications equipment and other modern items.

WEST GERMANY EDGES TOWARD SOVIETS

"A totally new foreign policy" by West Germany under Chancellor Willy Brandt was the subject of a recent warning talk to the National Press Club in Washington. The speaker was Axel Springer, widely known West German publisher. He said:

"When I discuss today here in Washington the trends of the present West German policies towards Communist Europe, I do so because I fear that by these policies the whole West is endangered.

"If this goes on unchanged, the result will not be a peaceful, prosperous, quiet, united Europe which is a partner of the United States; the result will be rather a Europe whose total resources would be at the disposal of the Soviet Union."

He pointed out that in the West's agreement of Sept. 3, 1971, with the Soviet Government, Berlin was split away from West Germany by acceptance of the Moscow demand that no sessions of the Bonn Parliament nor of the Congress that elects the West German President may take place in Berlin. West Berliners will be allowed to visit East Berlin, but East Berliners will stay forever behind the Wall.

Mr. Springer sees in the new West German treaties with the Soviet and Polish Communist Governments the "first sign of a reversal of alliances," even though "the majority of Europeans and most certainly the majority of my countrymen still hope for the pax Americana (American - dominated peace)."

This is a grave charge. Foreign affairs are too important to the American people to be left entirely in the hands of diplomats. A new Soviet - German alliance would upset the entire coherence of the free world. It cannot be allowed to creep up on us and happen. The time to talk about this trend is now.

Among the numerous items that come across our desk, we noted that the federal government was struck with $13.3 million in unpaid loans to college students as of last Sept. 30.

According to congressional auditors this is a threefold increase in an eight month period.

A lack of forceful collection is officially blamed for this raid on the treasury. Maybe so. Private lenders are not so inclined to let debts slide, as the government in this case seems to do.

The moral of this story is not in the lackadaisical collection, but in the obvious philosophy of these students that "we have a right to an education" and "and the government owes us..." They've not learned their economics lessons, because the money they were loaned came from plain, ordinary taxpayers.

How can integrity and responsibility have escaped so many intelligent young Americans? Where is their sense of personal pride in repaying what belongs to someone else?

To put it bluntly, the delinquent borrower is nothing more than a thief, making off with the tax money of Mr. Citizen.

There are indications that unless further steps are taken to improve the climate for the nation's independent business sector, the anticipated improvement of the economy in 1972 will not materialize.

This conclusion is drawn from the continuous field survey of the National Federation of Independent Business. Currently the data shows a decline in inventory investments, a critical indice.

Dollar value of the inventories held by the independents dropped a significant four points in October over August. The question is asked respondents how inventory dollars compare with the previous year, with no adjustments made for the increased cost of goods. In August, 66 per cent reported higher dollar inventories than in the previous year, but this dropped to 62 per cent in October.

However, the most significant data shows up when the retailers and wholesalers, who account for 72 per cent of the distributive function are stripped out, the margin widens.

In July, 77 per cent of both retailers and wholesalers reported higher dollar inventories but in October this had dropped to 73 per cent for retailers and 72 per cent for wholesalers.

While the investment incentive tax credit will aid all sectors of business, the major need of the independent business sector, according to Federation surveys, appears to be legislation to permit tax credits to build up inventories due to the erosion of inventory capital over the past two years through higher taxes and inflation. Increased manufacturing capacity anticiapted from the investment credit incentive will require a healthy distributive system.

The prevailing problem is tersely stated by the owner of an Ohio shoe store who says, "I'm rather new at running a small business, since my husband passed away a year ago. As new as I am, I have learned a few things. It is difficult to get ahead of the taxes, just when you think you have a few extra dollars, taxes takes it. The average employer cannot compete with union wages to hire new and good help, nor offer all union benefits. I employnine women, several on Social Security, and I believe they should earn more than $1,680 if physically able. As a recent widow I could not raise my three teenage children, one in college with Social Security benefits alone, therefore I'm grateful to be able to carry on my husband's business for extra income.

"This is far from a gripe letter, for I'm thankful for what we work for. I would say my way of life, as a small independent retailer, with a mortgaged home, and three children is average, but each day it gets a little harder."

UNVEILING MARS' SECRETS

Predicting earth's weather sometimes seems to be more of an art than a science. Men still have so much to learn about the stupendously complex mechanics of atmospheric phenomena.

Yet today, this early in the brief history of the space age, we are taking for granted daily weather reports from another planet.

Mariner 9, sent into orbit around Mars (another miracle accepted as a matter of course), is not designed to function as a weather satellite. Its mission is to scan the Martian surface with its television eyes and relay photographs back to earth which may tell scientists if there are any areas on the red planet that could support life.

But little Mariner's arrival happened to coincide with the worst dust storm — at least, they think it's a dust storm — on Mars that astronomers have ever observed. Thus its first asignment has been to photograph this conspicious aspect of Martian "Weather."

Mariner will also record, and perhaps help explain, the mysterious waves of darkenings which creep down from the Martian poles each spring. More weather in the form of some kind of precipitation?

Two Russian probes follow hard upon Mariner, and one or both will attempt soft landings. If they are as successful as Mariner, we may soon be able to say of Mars what is said of the moon — that we know more about it than we do about the bottom of our own oceans.

ENERGY—SAVING BUILDINGS URGED

The United States will have fewer power shortages and less air pollution if its buildings are designed to stop wasting energy, according to Chas. E. Pack, construction group vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.

"Inefficient buildings are wasting millions of barrels of heating oil, billions of cubic feet of gas and millions of kilowatts of electricity each year. And all of that waste fuel is spewed out into the air as pollution," Mr. Peck asserted.

He mentioned such energy-conserving building elements as reflective windows to reduce air-conditioning loads and greater insulation thicknesses. "Though initially more expensive than standard materials, these products more than make up the difference in conservation of heating fuel and the energy needed for air conditioning," he said.

HERE COMES WALLACE

Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace hasn't quit trying. Here he comes flying into the Florida presidential primary, and hinting of plans to enter those in other states.

The interesting thing is that this year, unlike 1968 when he was touting the American Independent Party, he is choosing to run as a Democratic Party candidate.

Well, for the sake of the American two-party system that's to the good. Along with a covey of other Democratic hopefuls he should make the election interesting. Although Governor Wallace has been hot on the school busing issue and critical of the Supreme Court, he does seem to have simmered down a bit.

His appeal appears to be aimed at middle-class laboring people, as it was four years ago, but this time he has decided that being a third-party candidate is not the best approach.

While President Nixon sits back to wait to see who his opponent will be, Governor Wallace is going to give the herd of Democratic hopefuls a maverick to contend with. That, at least, should strip up some interest in this year's election.---Commercial Appeal.

A new survey by the First National City Bank of New York showed that petroleum company earnings after taxes were slightly below the average for all manufacturing firms during 1968, Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said.

"The mineral, depletion provision, which was enacted in 1926, is the all-time favorite 'whipping boy' of the critics," Ikard continued. "But this provision in our tax law to encourage the search for oil and other minerals has been reviewed time and time again and been found to be valid.

"It is even more valid today," the API president said, noting that a decrease in exploratory drilling in 1968 continued a 12-year decline. "The need for incentives such as the depletion provision to spur the search for oil was never more urgent, because the nation is using up its proved reserves faster than new supplies are being found."

"Current attackes on percentage depletion can only discourage this search, and discourage investment capital," Ikard noted.

TAX AID URGED BY INDUSTRY IN POLLUTION FIGHT

Equitable tax treatment of industrial pollution control facilities by all levels of government has been urged by a special task force of the National Association of Manufacturers.

State and local tax laws, according to the task force chairman, William J. Harnisch, Legislative Counsel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, frequently penalize the environmental protection efforts of industry and thus have the effect of a "disincentive."

U. S. Red Tape — Federal measures to provide meaningful incentives to install pollution control equipment have been crippled by complicated and time-consuming regulations and restrictions, he said.

In a letter to Dan Throop Smith, chairman of the task force on the impact of tax policy on the environment of The Council on Environmental Quality, Mr. Harnisch made a number of recommendations regarding tax policy at each level of government.

Model Act Needed — Mr. Harnisch said NAM's studies indicated it would be desirable to have a model state act on tax treatment of pollution control facilities. Thirty-seven states now have at least one law on the subject, and there are many variations in the tax relief allowed. In some instances it takes the form of exemptions from real estate and personal property taxation; in others, exemption from sales and use taxes; in still others, an accelerated write-off over a period from one to five years for state income tax and/or franchise tax purposes.

"We strongly urge a model state act incorporating the best features of the existing state laws," he said. He urged that the Council on Environmental Quality recommend such action to the Council of State Governments.

COMMUNISM AND CHILDREN

One of the greatest evils of Communism is its effect on children. Under Communist tyranny, children belong to the state; their whole education and upbringing are designed to make them tools of the state.

In Castro's Cuba, the dictatorial government is not satisfied with stunting the minds of children so that they can be of use when they are older. The Cuban dictator uses children for what essentially amounts to slave labor.

Hundreds of children have been forcibly removed from their homes and brought to the Isle of Pines. There they are made to work on 30,000 acres of citrus fruit trees while living in what are little more than concentration camps. They are indoctrinated in Communist propaganda to make them submissive to this tyranny.

Castro has resorted to forced child labor because many adult members of the work force are chafing under the Communist system. Production has fallen drastically and the Cu an economy is constantly on the verge of collapse. There can be no doubt at all that Cuba is exactly the opposite of a workers' paradise.

But more importantly, the children's slave labor camp is clear proof of Communism's utter disregard for human values. A primary aim of any Communist dictatorship is the destruction of the family, and Castro's Cuba is no exception. It is no surprise that so many parents have risked everything to escape from Cuba in order to safeguard the lives and souls of their children.

Communism is not simply an alternative economic system. It ruthlessly aims for total control of the human person, including helpless children. HLH

Crackling Election Issue: Meany Fights Nixon's Bid for Compulsory Power to End Bridges' Western Dock Strike

WASHINGTON: -- Two hours before President Nixon drove up the Hill with his State of the Union message, he swiftly scrawled some words into the script --words which will become one of the truly eruptive issues of this Presidential campaign.

"The nation cannot and will not tolerate that kind of irresponsible labor tieup in the future," he wrote, referring to Harry Bridges' harassing West Coast longshore waterfront paralysis.

The next day, after applying hydraulic personal pressure on Secretary of Labor Hodgson, to whip up a written remedy in 24 rather than 72 hours, Mr. Nixon demanded Congressional power to force a settlement.

And AFL-CIO President George Meany, now back on virtually full cigar- and -Nixon-chewing schedule in his eighth-floor office, decided the labor movement would become the immovable object in the way of what traditionally has been Presidential irresistible force.

"We will fight it all the way," said one of Meany's colleagues -- a fully authorized source -- referring to Mr. Nixon's ultra-emergency demand for Congress to empower him to ask Labor Secretary Hodgson to appoint a three-man arbitration board to dictate a settlement.

"We will not buy compulsory arbitration against anyone, any place for any reason. The fact that it is aimed at Harry Bridges (whose left-wing union was ousted from the CIO --VR makes no difference. It is consistent with the policy the federation (AFL-CIO) always has taken. And we're also opposed to his other proposed legislation for the long haul."

This was a jab at what President Nixon now has begun calling the Crippling Strikes Prevention Act, on which he said Congress has been dragging its feet for two years.

And for full measure, the labor federation will oppose confirmation of Judge George (Gid) Boldt as Pay Board chairman. So phase two of the Battle of Bal Harbour continues. Once more Meany, now well rested, and Mr. Nixon will go eyeball to eyeball.

Meany's war cry is they shall not pass --neither the oneshot legislation aimed at the West Coast longshoremen nor the broader bill which would affect all transport by subjecting transportation strikes to final and binding arbitration. Meany always counts the votes before he moves and presumably he believes he has the votes in the Congress and on its key labor committees to checkmate the President.

This confrontation could determine how many votes Mr. Nixon or Meany's candidate gets in November -- which is the final and binding count for the career of each of these powerful men.

There's some obvious political skimming here for the President. Again it is he against the cigar-chomping curmudgeon and the labor troops. It is he -- Mr. Nixon -- who is championing the farmers whose grain has wasted and rotted in fields, small town streets and over-spilled silos. And he can show that he has gone all the way including talking to the 70-year-old Bridges face to face.

It was Bridges who said, a few minutes after the President demanded compulsory arbitration legislation, "Any legislation proposed by the President will not settle the strike." Meaning, of course, that Harry, a little more polished than in the old bloody Embarcadero general strike days, was telling the Congress and the President to go to hell.

But the President is uptight on this one for other than political reasons. As one of his intimates said the other day when asked why the President had scrawled the anti-strike words into the State of the Union speech - which was extraordinarily unusual:

"Well, every time it looked like we might have a settlement --which Bridges once said we'd have in a week -- it would blow. This could have serious long-range effects not only on the economy in California but across the nation. We were just showing recovery from aerospace layoffs. This is a critical moment. Unemployment there is over 6 per cent. Everybody is getting hurt."

What disturbs the President are reports disclosing the strike is costing the 24 West Coast ports -- aside from those in Alaska and Hawaii -- some $24 million daily in cargo losses.

As the President put it, "There is an increasing danger that some of these trade losses will become permanent.....Japan, a billion dollar market for agricultural imports, has already asked other suppliers to step up production so that it can lessen its dependence on American exports."

During the previous West Coast 100-day longshoreman strike late last year, U.S. farmers lost to Japan alone 25 million bushels of wheat worth $40 million. On Jan. 19, hours after the Bridges strike crippled the ports again, Japan bought 8.7 million bushels of what for delivery in March and April -- mostly from Canada and Australia. Only 1.6 million bushels were ordered from the U.S.

That's what's got the President uptight. That's why he used words such as "I am determined that we shall end it at once."

But this will depend on who has the votes on the Hill in coming days -- not in the precincts this coming November.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Poor Man's Philosopher:

"I am a shy and modest maiden, the only one left in our neighborhood, my mother says.

"But I am tired of being single. I want to get married like all my girl griends have, and spend all day lying on the sofa reading books on astrology or playing gin rummy with the janitor. But I don't know how how to win a husband. Since this is Leap Year, can you tell me how to break the ice and land a man?

Weary Wallflower."

Dear Wallflower,

Despite your reticent nature, I think you should be able to get a man to wed you if you simply modernize your views on marriage.

The kind of marriage you visualize rarely exists any more.

You speak of becoming a wife and spending the day on a sofa studying your astrological chart or playing gin rummy with the janitor. How quaint and old-fashioned. You are over 12, aren't you?

Marriage isn't like that anymore. The success of the women's liberation movement has turned things topsy turvy. It isn't the wife who stays home and slops around the house in bedroom slippers all day. It's the husband.

You probably think of a husband as a man pretty much like your father, a man who worked himself to death early trying to earn enough money so his wife could keep up with Mrs. Jones.

Well, get with it, honey. There aren't any men like that left.

What you have to settle for, dear, is a new-fashioned man. This is the kind of man who doesn't want to fight the liberated woman.

You can't win this new type of man by winsome charms or romantic appeals. His attitude toward marriage is cold, crass and realistic—just the same attitude that women used to have before they lost their minds and decided to run the world rather than relax and enjoy it.

I suggest that if you have found the man of your dreams you simply make him the following Leap Year speech:

"Harry, baby, you're living in a fool's paradise, letting all those girls turn your silly head with their gifts of roses and candy. Yes, they're willing to wine and dine you now, but when your good looks fade they'll go for a newer and prettier face and leave you with nothing but a hatful of stale memories.

"Harry, I got a better deal for you, honey. I want to marry you. Now, don't look so startled, honey. Here, let me light you up a four-bit cigar.

"I don't want a fly-by-night affair with you, pet. I want to work my heart to the bone forever for you. I'm making $15,000 a year now. I'll buy you more expensive suits and a snazzier apartment. You can spend every day improving your pool game if you want to, honey, just so you're home when I get there.

"I won't turn you out when you're old and gray and 60, Harry. My $150,000 insurance policy matures then, and you can have it all, my captivating darling. Oh, please, say yes!"

He'll say yes, all right. It would be cheaper for you to buy a cat and become an old maid. But if you want a husband today, Miss Wallflower, you have to move with the times and make it worth his while—or some other liberated woman will.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- The South Vietnamese are now so hostile toward Americans that U. S. commanders are warning their troops to stay off the treets.

We have already disclosed from calssified surveys that the people, for whom American boys have fought and died, are now overwhelmingly anti-American.

Inevitably, their smoldering emotions have boiled over into demonstrations and violence. In sheaf after sheaf of memos and classified reports, U.S. civilian and military bigwigs have cited this accelerated animosity.

A typical memo was issued by Brig. Gen. Willard Scott to billet occupants in the Saigon area. Titled "Vietnamese-US Relations," the Scott memo warns:

"There has been a marked increase in recent weeks throughout Vietnam of apparently innocuous incidents raising tensions and mushrooming into a major confrontation between US and Vietnamese personnel.... Such an occurrence took place last week.

"An accidental splashing of mud on a Vietnamese woman quickly aroused the anger of local nationals. Tempers flared, and a mob quickly gathered, barricading streets and threatening to burn a U.S. installation.

"Similar violence from otherwise inconsequential incidents is likely to occur in the coming weeks. This can be avoided by diminishing the evidence of theAmerican presence on the streets of theSaigon/Cholon/Tan Son Nhut areas.

"U.S. military personnel are advised to 'play it safe.' We ask that all personnel make only those trips which are really essential....Live by the adage, 'discretion is the better part of valor."

A classified "Program Review" states that the potential for such violence exists in every province in South Vietnam, in the cities and countryside alike.

Backing up this secret report, Col. William Humphrey, acting Chief of Staff, Third Regional Assistance Command, warned his men in a recent daily bulletin that "assaults of US forces by ARVN (Vietnamese Army) personnel have been increasing....

"The seriousness of these incidents and the potential impact in terms of loss of life, injuries and damage to cooperation between US and ARVN personnel are obvious."

In summary, American troops in Vietnam are not only fighting a rear guard action against the communists, but must be wary of the South Vietnamese as well, whom the U.S. is supposed to be defending from communism.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Soviet Spy -- U.S. intelligence sources tell us the cultural mission, which brought the Soviet arts and crafts exhibit to Washington, included a ringer. The exhibition's deputy director, Pavel Gevorkyan, say our sources, is a "three-letter man," meaning he works for the KGB, the Soviet secret intelligence agency. The dark-complexioned, nattily dressed Armenian admitted to us he works for Novosti press agency, a well-known cover in Moscow for the KGB. But Gevorkyan heatedly denied he works for the KGB, spluttering: "This is a silly question. I don't like this kind of provocation.

Gas Bills - Householders, who are worried over their rising gas bills, have been assured by the Nixon Administration that it is conducting an independent, impartial survey on the need for high-cost synthetic gas in this country. But the impartiality of the survey should be weighed against our telephone call to the office of Emergency Preparedness which is conducting the study. We asked for the questionnaire on which the study is to be based. To our astonishment, we were referred to the American Gas Association. This group is made up of the gigantic gas companies, which stand to profit most from the import of synthetic gas and the resulting rise in gas bills. The Association's gas supply manager, Ed Hardy, acknowledged to us that not only was he mailing out the forms, but that the gas moguls had drafted the final version of the government questionnaire.

Romance and Espionage -- The French weakness for women has resulted in a spy scandal in the French military attache's office in Prague. The affair has been hused up, but the U.S. military attache in Paris has been given the details. In a secret report to the Pentagon, the attache has quoted the French adjutant in Prague as confessing under interrogation "that he was not the only one mixed up with women." The French have advised the U.S. attache that they "intend to make a detailed analysis of the entire situation not only in Prague but in other iron curtain countries as well with the intention of tightening security."

Tet offensive -- Intelligence reports continue to warn of another, likely limited Tet offensive next month. A typical report states that "boats will be used to ferry men and supplies across rivers and streams during the offensive" and "labor teams will be used to transport food, weapons and ammunition overland, load and unload boats at river crossings, and remove casualties." The source of this report, an agent inside the Viet Cong, "deduced from discussions with other VC cadre that the offensive was to be launched during Tet, 1972."

The Beauty Of Berries

WINTER ICE can produce beauty as well as problems. The ice covered berries found on Malone Ave. help to add a little pleasure and beauty along with the winters chill. The temperature dropped to a low of 20 degrees last night.

Ready For Alert

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force's 1st Airborne Command and Control Squadron waits, as it has for 10 years, for doomsday.

At any hour, day or night, one of its three planes stands fueled and ready for takeoff from a runway only 10 minutes by helicopter from the White House.

Within minutes of alert of impending nuclear attack on the United States, the president and his military command staff could be airborne in one of these flying command posts.

Sophisticated electronics and communications equipment aboard the plane would enable the president to direct the nation's defense and counterattack while cruising more than 40,000 feet above the earth.

The president would be in constant touch with U.S. military commands around the world even if the White House or Pentagon were destroyed in the first wave of a surprise nuclear attack.

An underground sanctuary at Ft. Ritchie, Md., in the Catoctin Mountains, serves as an alternate command post. Or, the president could keep his finger on the nuclear trigger at a hardened underground shelter in Virginia, at the headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command buried deep inside Cheyenne Mountain, Colo., or aboard the flying command posts of the Strategic Air Command.

All are part of an elaborate system designed to maintain uninterrupted control of U.S. air, ground and sea forces under all circumstances.

"Silver Dollar," the code name for the three national emergency airborne command planes based at Andrews AFB, Md., marks its 10th anniversary of operation this year.

Its planes are converted fourengine KC-135 tankers, derived from the commercial Boeing 707 jetliner, which are capable of staying aloft for several days.

Although never used in a real emergency, the planes have piled up thousands of flying hours in simulated alerts.

The Pentagon says the planes are getting old and are too small for the improved electronics computers and communication equipment that has come along in recent years. It wants them replaced with a fleet of seven bigger and more costly Boeing 747 jumbo jets.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird asked Congress this week for $113.8 million to buy four 747s immediately. Two more would be bought next year and the seventh the following year.

With new and bigger planes, Laird explained, "We will be able to obtain greater endurance, more flexibility, larger battle staffs, a larger group of varied experts to support toplevel decision making, and additional space to put improved communication and automatic data-processing equipment as it becomes available."

Laird suggested Soviet weapons developments may have made the existing flying command posts vulnerable to communications blackouts in a nuclear attack.

The presidential command planes are much like the command-post planes operated by the Strategic Air Command since 1961. Pentagon officials indicate the SAC fleet also may be replaced with 747s in the future.

Counter-Advertising Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you've ever wanted to talk back to your television set when a particularly stupid commercial came on, you soon may get your chance.

That's the word from Federal Trade Commission Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick who told a consumers' organization today that guidelines are being considered to give prime air time to people who want to gripe about products.

Kirkpatrick urged the Consumer Federation of America, which opened a three-day convention here, to get behind the "counter-advertising" idea by coordinating a program with its 192 member groups to answer objectionable product promotions on television.

The television campaign which the American Cancer Society staged against cigarette advertising is evidence that counter-advertising is workable, Kirkpatrick said in a statement.

The FTC is encouraging the counter-advertising concept, but it is up to the Federal Communications Commission to set up the ground rules, he explained.

Close Route J Feb. 1

W. H. Shaw, district engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department at Sikeston has announced that Route J in Dunklin County will be closed to through traffic between Route JJ and Route H in Dunklin County on February 1.

The closing of Route J is necessary for the construction of a new bridge on Drainage Ditch No. 12. This work is part of a $500,935.80 roadway improvement on Routes 53 and J. J. W. Githens Company of Poplar Bluff is the contractor on this project.

It is anticipated the project will be completed by late fall 1972.

For The Birds

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Prison is for the birds, says an ex-con who can prove it.

Charles Jeffries has parlayed a parrot training program into a parole, a $25,000 business and a passport to freedom for other prisoners.

He is now instructor of animal psychology at the Institute for Men at Chino, Calif., a minimum security prison.

The 50-year-old Jeffries was serving 18 months at Chino on a securities law violation in 1968 when he hit on the animal rehabilitation project.

He had worked animals acts before, specializing in parrots, and won approval to start an informal training club. It mushroomed and he submitted an outline for a federal grant.

Jeff Wood, manager of Sarasota's Jungle Gardens, had done his college thesis on correctional rehabilitation. He heard about Jeffries' program and made the job contact for Jeffries with the California prison system.

"This was about the only thing of its kind going on in the country," said Wood. "The more I learned about it, the more I was impressed."

Jeffries said in three years 125 prisoners have taken his course and 100 have been paroled. Two have been arrested and returned to jail, he said.

"Inside you see men with high IQs, sitting in a cell rotting," said the Palm Springs, Calif., man. "Nothing to motivate them."

When they are granted parole, he said, they're given a few bucks, a pat on the back and they're back in a cellblock in a year.

"All they needed to learn was self-control and work habits," he explained.

"It's a wonder he didn't con the judge out of his gavel," Don DeSaw, one of Jeffries' pupils at Chino, said with a grin.

The 35-year-old DeSaw is a recent parolee who spent 10 years behind bars.

"I'll never be rich, but I got a job and a choice of dressing on my salad," he said Wednesday at Jungle Gardens, a tourist attraction where Jeffries found DeSaw a job.

Jeffries came with DeSaw from the coast to set up the show at Jungle Gardens. They brought five trained parrots.

"In prison I was withdrawn, afraid if somebody said the wrong thing I'd erupt," Desaw said.

He said he took the animal training course and forgot the hostilities.

"I learned if you work smoothly with them the response is good. They reflect your attitudes," DeSaw said.

Blind Couples Son Has Disease, May Go Blind

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Two-year-old Tommy Davis of St. Joseph has a disease that may cause blindness by the time he reaches maturity but his parents don't consider it an overwhelming affliction.

Tommy's parents are blind.

Thomas A. Davis, sightless since birth, thinks "Blindness is not the end of the world." Neither does his wife, Joan.

Davis is a masseur at the St. Joseph YMCA and maneuvers freely around this city of 72,000 located on the Missouri River about 50 miles north of Kansas City.

He and his wife agree their biggest concern is "other blind people who have not had the opportunity to become self-sufficient."

Tom and Joan Davis manage their lives with the confidence of those who can see, possibly because they are both natives of Iowa, one of the most advanced states in treatment of the blind.

Tom attended the Iowa Braille and Sightseeing School at Vinton and the Iowa Commission for the Blind in Des Moines. He took special training at St. Paul, Minn., to prepare to be a masseur.

His wife was born with a hereditary disease that meant by the time she was a young woman she could distinguish only light and dark. She began to study Braille at the Des Moines center and learned to be a switchboard operator.

The two met at the center, and married in 1968.

Tom was offered the job in St. Joseph in 1970 and arrived alone in the strange city to prepare a home. "The YMCA and Sammy's Drug Store were my bases and from there I learned the pattern of the downtown streets," he says.

A relative helped him move into a duplex on a bus line, and the Davises learned the layout of their new house and location of electrical outlets.

"We didn't need anyone to show us," Joan explained. "We rely on logic and touch. We discover and we remember. In a few days we felt at home."

Organization and order are key words to a blind person. Even 2-year-old Tommy has learned that. He is allowed to strew his toys around the house during the day, but he puts them away at naptime and night.

Joan accomplishes the housework by touch, cleaning the floors on her hands and knees. "This way I feel with one hand and scrub with the other and know when things are clean," she says.

Grocery shopping is Tom's job. He is familiar with one store, and traces the raised numbers on the bottom of cans with his fingers to identify the contents.

The Davises are proud they are bringing up their son on their own. They both became good at bathing, changing and feeding him as a baby.

When he became a toddler, they were careful about objects that could hurt him. Tommy seems to understand his parents' handicap, and follows their directions explicitly. He is showered with affection, and giggles through many roughhouse sessions with his father.

Like all kids he brings his father broken toys to fix, and Tom handily replaced a wheel on a plastic lawnmower.

The Davises love to read and subscribe to Braille periodicals. They have an audio-reader hook-up with Kansas University. Tom plays the piano mostly by ear, and has written about 40 songs. The Davises love to swim, fish and go camping. They are movie and television fans, which they say they enjoy more than one would think.

They recently organized a St. Joseph chapter of the National Federation of the Blind to encourage others without sight toward self-sufficiency.

Although their small ton Tommy can see, he is afflicted with the same disease that made his mother go blind. Medical techniques may slow his visual regression.

But if Tommy does lose his sight, his parents don't consider it a tragedy. They don't think blindness is the end of the world.

Short Work Session Little Accomplished

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bad weather and worsening road conditions cut the Missouri Legislature's session short Thursday with little work accomplished.

Before quitting for the weekend after less than an hour, the Senate moved into position for later passsage a bill to revamp the present retirement systemfor state employes and legislators.

Sponsors say it is being offered as an alternative to a pay increase because state workers would have more take home pay.

State employes would no longer have to contribute toward their pensions and the state would pay $10 per worker to finance a health, accident and life insurance program. Basic benefits would remain unchanged.

Legislators would have their contributions increased from 4 to 5 per cent and their pensions would increase 25 per cent from $30 to $37.50 a month under their separate and more liberal retirement formula.

There was little debate as the bill moved ahead with less than a quorum present.

The Senate tried to take up an important environmental bill that would set up a system of solid waste disposal controls under the stae health division.

Before the bill was alid over because of its controversial nature, the senate defeated an amendment that would have exempted third and fourth class counties from the proposed system. They make up most of the state's area.

Also laid over because of a shortage of members was a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges and another to set up a public defender system along different lines than in a pending house bill.

Sho-Me Power Rate Increase

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission today approved a temporary 17 per cent rate increase for Sho-Me Power Corp. of Marshfield.

The utility provides power in 26 south and Central Missouri counties.

The company said it will seek a permanent rate hike because of a $879,694 deficit in its last fiscal year due to a rate hike granted its supplier, Associated Electric Cooperative Inc.

The PSC said if the rate increase proves excessive, the company will later have to make refunds to its customers.

Sho-Me supplies wholesale power to the communities of Ava, Cabool, Cuba, Ft. Leonard Wood, Houston, Lebanon, Mansfield, Mountain View, Newburg, Richland, Salem, Seymour, St. Robert, Steelville, Sullivan, Waynesville, Willow Springs and Winona.

It also serves about 7,500 retail customers in and around Conway, Camdenton, Doniphan, Diggins, Fordland, Linn Creek, Marshfield, Mountain Grove, Niangua, Northview, Phillipsburg and Rogersville.

Wider Opportunities For Area Girl Scouts

The Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council, in conjunction with the National Council, is facing its responsibility through the Wider Opportunities Program, as a leader in providing for the youth of our area the training, the experience, and the broad outlook so necessary in the life of the well adjusted youth of today. This scouting organization has taken the lead in moving into the field of Social Issues by preparing our youth to meet these issues through training.

1971 was a year brimfull of opportunities for the youth of the Cotton Boll Council. Eighty-three Cotton Boll Girl Scouts were privileged to participate in programs ranging from a fun filled educational trip to Washington, D. C.; live on a plantation setting in North Carolina while experiencing an adventure in the world of arts; attendance of the First Human Relations Conference on the campus of University of New Mexico where the scouts came to know themselves; participating in and planning of a special event entitled "The Road Not Taken", attendance of a State Youth Environmental Quality Conference on a college campus, to a troop experience of a week's stay in the wilds of Wyoming.

1972 has started off with a bang. Miss Liz Ann Davis, Cadette Girl Scout of East Prairie has been selected for an event in New Jersey "Footprints in the Jersey Sands!" The following girls have been selected by Cotton Boll Council as applicants for 1972 Wider Opportunities: Miss Barbara Meredith, Caruthersville, "Treasure Trails; Miss Lynne Baldwin, Poplar Bluff, "Florida Potpourri"; Miss Melodie Powell, Sikeston, "International Opportunity"; Miss Melodie Powell, Sikeston, "Petticoats, "Pot", & Politics"; Miss Michele Fugate, Sikeston, "Tropical Seas"; Miss Megan Wright, Caruthersville, "Trophical Seas"; Miss Susan Dement, Sikeston, "New Mexico mystique"; Miss Kimberly Wolf, Poplar Bluff, "Kentuckian Pedal Pusher"; Miss Caroline Moore, Sikeston, "Kentuckiana Pedal Pushers"; Miss Sheila Hellman, Kennett, "Kentuckiana Pedal Pushers".

On April 29th the Girl Scouts of American will join with the Boy Scouts of America and Keep America Beautiful, Inc., as co-sponsors f of "Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day." This day has been set aside for a massive anti-litter drive focusing attention on the proportions of the litter problem and the benefits of recycling for environmental improvement. Leaders of the business field, labor, government, conservation and national civic organizations have joined forces with the Scouting Organizations in support for the effort.

On July 2nd fifteen Girl Scouts from this Council will be wished a Bon Voyage as they depart from Nassau Harbor on a weeks Caribbean Cruise in the Bahamas. Aboard will be girls interested in oceanography marine ecology, sailing, shell collecting, skin diving, and fishing. The girls attending are: Caroline Moore, Sikeston; Amy Johnson, Caruthersville; Ann Merritt, Kennett; Barbara Miltenberger, Kennett; Candy Poe, Dexter; Linda Greene, Dexer; Sharon DeArman, Dexter; Deborah Pope, Essex; Marshal Dement, Sikeston; Becky Thomason, Charleston; Mary Schuerenberg, Essex; Sondra Little, Gideon; Rosemary Alsup, Sikeston; Alice Franks, Kennett; Karen Lawrence, Dexter.

This year the Girl Scouts of America will celebrate their Sixtieth Anniversary Year. The organization has gone a long way from the cookie baking outdoor image of the past. Today, it takes quite a mature young lady to be a Senior Girl Scout ... It takes years of learning by doing through the program. Wise are the girls who see the advantages of the Girl Scout Program, and wise are the parents who know the depth of training and opportunity available through the Girl Scout Program.

Japan Has Olympic Bunnies

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Keiko Okudaira giggled, blushed and said it takes a tall, dark and handsome man to catch the eye of the Japanese girl.

"I think most of us prefer the slim figure-skating type—not the big bobsledders," she added.

"Clean cut, not much hair, no mustaches and beards," said Misako Date, 21, who can speak articulately in six languages.

"Dark like the Italians and French, not blond like the Scandinavians," said Keiko Akiyama, 21, who has the biggest and most expressive brown eyes in all of Japan.

The two Keikos and Misako are part of the 600-member hostell corps serving as interpreters and aides for the 1,089 athletes from 35 nations, thousands of badge-wearing officials and visitors descending on this remote island outpost for the XI Winter Olympic Games.

They are the "Olympic bunnies."

They move about this festooned winter wonderland like Oriental dolls, always at one's elbow for any emergency. Wind them up and like toys they move with graceful mincing steps, bow, smile and say, "please," "so sorry" and "thank you."

They are the cream of Japanese young womanhood, most of them college girls ranging in age from 18 to 23, few much more than five feet tall, personable, demure and almost indistinguishable in their tall fur hats, black pants suits and snow-white fur-collared coats.

Fifty of the more mature hostesses serve as companions for the Olympic officials and their families, the other 550 performing as interpreters and office personnel at the Olympic Village, press center and various venues.

For most of them it is a great adventure—exposure to the world's most glamorous snow and ice competitors—but promiscuity among them is said to be virtually non-existent.

"You must remember these girls are from the best families," said Marilyn Barber, an English teacher from San Francisco serving as an interpreter in the Olympic headquarters.

Ann Landers

Cruel Mother Needs Counseling

Dear Ann Landers' As I was walking along a busy downtown street, I noticed a woman (no lady) ahead of me, screaming at her child to walk faster. The little girl was no more than three years old. The mother threatened to kick thechild to the next bus stop if she didn't hurry up. Then the mother proceeded to hit the youngster on the head with her purse. As if that wasn't enough she literally kicked the little girl in the backside, causing her to stumble. The poor little thing dirtied her white stockings when she fell. Her mother gave her a hard slap across the cheek for being clumsy.

By this time I was furious. I hurried to catch up with them so that I might give the mother a look of disapproval, but she ignored me. By then I was nearing the parking lot and decided to go to my car and forget the incident. But somehow I can't get it out of my mind. I keep seeing that small child being abused by an insensitive, bully of a mother. What should I have done? Is it proper for a stranger to interfere in a family matter? Please comment. -- Southern Gentleman

Dear Gentleman: That was more than a family matter. It was a case of public injustice and cruelty. Each of us has a responsibility to speak out when we witness brutality.. You should have told the mother that you were sure she didn't realize how hard she was hitting the little girl, and in the interest of her own peace of mind as well as the child's mental health, she should get some counseling.

Dear Ann Landers. I didn't think that letter was very funny -- the one from the bride who gave her husband a vigorous kiss at the altar and yelled, "Turn me loose, will Ya?" The guests all heard and laughed.

When we were married in a large church ceremony my husband didn't kiss me. He just stood there. I was hurt and showed it. Several people mentioned it later and that made the hurt worse. Every time I go to a wedding and see the bride and groom kiss I am reminded that I was a kissless bride and I relive the shame and embarrassment.

Please, Ann, tell all couples that the wedding kiss is the sweetest kiss of all. Those of us who were deprived never forget. --Fort Worth.

Dear F. S.: You told 'em. And I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Do millions of people a favor and print the address of Gamblers Anonymous. It is P. O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, California 90017.

If more people were aware of the help that is available to the compulsive gambler and his family, they would seek it. As one who has lived through hell I can tell you that a gambler's wife gets so desperate after a while she'll try anything. The basic philosophy of Gamblers Anonymous is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous. A.A. has proven that people who share a common problem give one another strength and encouragement. Meeting with folks who have been cured of a sickness is proof that it can be done.

I feel as if my husband owes his life to Gamblers Anonymous. He thinks so, too. Please tell people. Thanks, Ann. --Salvaged

Dear Sal: Here's your letter with an added word from me. Compulsive gambling is as much a sickness as arthritis -- and it can be equally crippling. Gamblers Anonymous has been the answer for thousands. I recommend it and hope your letter generates a zillion responses.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious -- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelopw to this newspaper.

New N.M. Teachers

HOWARDVILLE — New faculty members in New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district are Karen Ann Kramer, Lilbourn, Karen Sue Bagus, Matthews, and Mrs. Barbara Lee Stallings, Matthews.

Pride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy and sloth are the seven capital or deadly sins.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Mend Stretch in Shorts By Adding New Elastic

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. J. H. T. could add a new length of ½-inch elastic to the waistbands of her husband's shorts. Stitch to the elastic already on them as that is quicker than ripping off the stretched-out band. Stretch both the old and the new out fully and stitch the new on the old by machine as you stretch. The new band will draw up the old with it and careful stitching will give a flat job with no bulkiness, all in quick time.—TESSIE

DEAR POLLY—My answer to Mrs. J. H. T.'s stretched elastic problem is to never stretch elastic when it is wet. Hang all elastic-topped articles upside down to dry. I have been washing men's shorts for more than 20 years for my husband and three sons and always have worn-out shorts with still good elastic that can be used on pajamas and the like.—MRS. L. E. C.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I hope someone can tell me how to wash a raincoat that is stained with newsprint. Dry cleaning did not remove it.—C. B.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with parents and organizations who send children out to sell tickets without instructions about overlapping territories or how to approach people when wanting to make a sale. Within five minutes two groups rang my doorbell and with the same approach: "Would you like to buy a ticket to ——?" One little girl came, saying, "Would you like some candy?" and I did not know if she was selling it or giving it away. whether or not it was store bought or homemade nor what she was selling it for.—A. B. C.

DEAR POLLY—Recently our church installed new carpeting and there were many small scraps left. One of our members suggested cutting these into strips to fit in the bottom of the hymn book racks. Now the loud clunking of hymn books being returned to their racks is muffled. Naturally, if I get a Polly Dollar it will go to our church.—MRS. C. M.

Shirley Chisholm Says She Has Brain Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shirley Anita Chisholm nodded toward the chamber of the House of Representatives and said: "They laughed at me seven months ago when I said I might run; but they're not laughing now."

In the House cloakroom, congressmen greeted her, "Hi, Shirley!" The eyes of the first black woman to run for president of the United States flashed as if she had taught a big bully a thing or two.

The Brooklyn-born congresswoman, 47, had returned from a swing through Florida and California to test the political waters. She found them just fine.

"Fantastic, fantastic, fantastic," she described public reception to her plan to announce that she will seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I don't give them warmedover rallies, over-heated cliches or plant nice young women to start the hoopla to make people forget the issues," the New York Democrat said in an interview.

The trim, 100-pound exschoolteacher in 1969 became the first black woman in the U.S. Congress, representing Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant ghetto.

As a freshman she shook up Capitol Hill protocol by challenging the seniority system— she calls it the senility system—and refusing to accept an assignment on the Agriculture Committee's forestry subcommittee. She finally won a seat on the Education and Labor Committee that she considered more relevant to her constituents.

White colleagues haven't been alone in feeling the sting of Mrs. Chisholm's temper. She drew herself up to her full 5foot-4 frame and angrily scolded black leaders at a public meeting last year for leaving her out of a panel discussion on political strategy.

While other black politicians talk about the need to build black political organizations, Mrs. Chisholm talks of a coalition of women, blacks, Chicanos, Indians, Orientals, the young and the poor to squeeze out a better deal from the major parties.

"While they're rapping and napping, I'm mapping," she tells audiences.

One problem that bothers her is news coverage of her campaign. "The Gallup poll people seldom include me in their polls, and the news media don't consider me a serious contender because in the first place I'm not white and worse than that, I'm not male," she said.

In her autobiography, "Unbought and Unbossed," Mrs. Chisholm, the eldest of three daughters born to West Indian parents from the Barbados, described the economic hardships the family went through during the 1920s in New York.

Her mother took the girls to live in Barbados for five years until her husband could save enough money to support the family in the United States.

Mrs. Chisholm is not unduly modest: "I have the brain power. I went through college all on scholarships. I'm a near genius with an I.Q. of 150 or 151." She has a bachelor's degree from Brooklyn College and a master's degree from Columbia University. She majored in sociology and early childhood education.

Mrs. Chisholm married a Jamaican, Conrad Chisholm, a special investigator. They have no children.

The congresswoman, who claimed she has been oppressed more as a woman than as a black, said that if there were more women in politics it would be possible to start cleaning up the system.

Will a lack of money hurt her chances? Mrs. Chisholm said she believes that money isn't everything in politics, but she conceded it's nice to have some around the campaign office. "One candidate said to me: 'Shirley, if you had the money, we might be frightened.'"

Deadline For Nursing Program At Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. -- A deadline has been established for applications for admittance to the second class in the Associate Degree Nursing Program of Three Rivers Community college, Paul H. Hillis, dean of the Division of Occupational Education, announced today.

All applications must be in the hands of the director of admissions by February 18. That applies to new applications and re-applications by those who were not accepted last summer for the first nursing education class. Those not accepted in the first class must re-apply to be considered for the second class, Hillis said.

Two other dates are important to applicants, he pointed out. The first is March 4 when the Missouri College Placement Test will be given, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the Poplar Bluff Senior High School cafeteria. The test must be taken before admittance by all who have not had the test previously. On March 5 the Henmon- Nelson Test will be given in the auditorium of the college Academic Building.

Interviewing of applicants for the nursing education class will be conducted the weeks of April 3 and April 10, Monday through Friday. Those selected will be notified by mail.

The second class, as in the case of the first one, will be limited to 20 students under the terms of the provisional accreditation by the Missouri State Board of Nursing. One new requirement is being established for the second class. Those accepted will start their studies in the summer session by taking Integrated Life Sciences I before the beginning of other studies in the fall semester. The first year's experience indicated that this would be of benefit to most students.

The Three Rivers Community College nursing education program leads to an Associate Degree in Nursing on successful completion of two years of study in classrooms and laboratories and supervised experience in hospitals. The degree qualifies the graduate to take the state examination for certification as a registered nurse.

Women Can Join ROTC At MU

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri-Columbia will accept enrollment of women students in the Air Force ROTC program, Col. Joseph Connolly, professor of aerospace studies, has announced.

Dr. Herbert W. Schooling, interim chancellor, has approved the new program through which women cadets may earn commissions with their degrees.

Recruiting operations will begin immediately with a view of attracting women into the twoyear program next fall. Freshmen and sophomore students may now enroll in general military course classes.

Col. Connolly said women cadets will complete the same Air Force courses and have the same opportunities as other cadets enrolled in the non-flying program.

The coeds also may compete for two-year and three-year scholarships that provide full tuition, fees, textbook allowances and $100 monthly subsistence allowances for the full period of the scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wrather

Wrather-Wibbenmeyer

A candlelit altar decorated by two large bouquets of white mums formed the background for the Jan. 8 wedding of Joanie Wibbenmeyer and Richard Wrather in the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church. Father Justin Monaghan performed the double ring ceremony at seven in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Wibbenmeyer of Sikeston and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earlin Wrather of Canalou.

Mrs. Richard St. Mary of New Madrid sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day O'Beautiful Mother." Mrs. Carl Schorle provided the music.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a Victorian styled gown of winter white peau de soie. The bodice stand up collar and cathedral train were trimmed trellising lace. The Camelot sleeves were also trimmed in the same lace.

She wore a satin bow headpiece with lace petals and leaves with pearls and crystals. The headpiece was secured with an attached three tiered veil of English illusion. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white rose buds.

The maid of honor was Miss Mickey Bass of Memphis and Mrs. Karen Wibbenmeyer of Cape Girardeau was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Debbie Carter, Mrs. Rose Mary Dickhans of Indiana, and Mrs. Marty Boyer.

Junior bridesmaids was Miss Shirley Wibbenmeyer, sister of the bride.

The groom chose for his best man, Charles Wibbenmeyer of Cape Girardeau. Groomsmen were Randy Porter, John Dickhans of Indiana, Bobby Wrather of Canalou and Charles Irwin. Rickey Wrather, Jr., son of the groom, carried the rings.

Kenny and Rickey Wibbenmeyer, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Mary Miles of Vanduser attended the guest book.

The reception was held following the ceremony in the Knights of Columbus hall. A buffet luncheon was served by Connie Bolden, Mrs. Susan Miller and Mary Wrather of Canalou.

After a brief wedding trip the couple returned to their home at 208 Wakefield.

A rehearsal dinner was given Jan. 7 at the Rustic Rock by the groom's parents.

Out of town guests were Margie Theophilus of Dexter; Mr. and Mrs. Barney Blankenship of Cation; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Faulkner of New Madrid; Mr. and Mrs. John Jansen, Miss Carol Balsman, all of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Odell Wrather of Oran; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lumsden of Canalou; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McCollum, Maggie Latham, all of Matthews; Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Ponder, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ponder, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ponder, all of Perryville; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ponder of St. Ann; Mr. and Mrs. John Probst of Vanduser; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Seiler of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schnurbusch, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Schloss, all of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Balsman of Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shy of Chaffee; Mrs. Vickie Chandler, Kim Turner and Nancy Chandler, all of Charleston; Mr. and Mrs. TomMack of Bertrand; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ernst of Morehouse; T. C. Keith and Eva Jean Gamblin both of Portageville.

Window Treatment Workshop Feb. 29

An area Window Treatment Workshop will be held on February 29 at the Hunter Memorial Presbyterian Church in Sikeston. R. L. Cary, a professional designer from St. Louis, Ed Van Weelden, a representative for a shade manufacturing company, from Cape Girardeau, and area home economists will present what is new in fabric and treatments for windows.

According to Mrs. L. O. Whitworth of Sikeston, member of the planning committee, enrollment for the workshop will be limited to 80 persons. She says that persons interested in attending should contact the University of Missouri Extension Center in Benton, Bloomfield, Charleston, or New Madrid for details on enrolling.

Other persons on the planning committee are Mrs. Edna Francis, Oran; Mrs. Jay Blankenship, Kewanee; Mrs. Don Cain, Essex; and Mrs. Freeman Finley, Charleston.

Cary will explain the making of curtains, draperies, valances, and trims. Van Weelden will demonstrate personally designed treatments for window shades.

Jewel Grady and Rebecca Nistendirk, Area Home Economists from Bloomfield and New Madrid will present information on fibers and fabrics. Fredericka Plummer and Virginia Twitty, Area Home Economists from Charleston and Caruthersville, will show functions and principles of window treatments.

Community Club Meets

CANALOU — Mrs. E. B. Hinson, president of the Canalou Community Club, was the hostess for the January meeting at her home last Wednesday.

Mrs. Hinson called the meeting to order using the gavel presented the club by the Sikeston Production Credit in recognition of the clubs standard of achievement for 1971.

Mrs. Frederick Mitchell read a short poem, "Good Memory Rules", then led the prayer for the devotional.

Mrs. David Croom, treasurer, reported a balance of $166.10 at the end of 1971.

Mrs. Elmer Gruen asked the members to collect glass and newspapers for the 4-H members to take to Sikeston Feb. 12 as part of an ecology project.

The members agreed to help the 4-H club with the birthday party they give every month at the Sells Rest Home in Matthews.

Mrs. Nelson Lumsden, New Madrid county president, reported that the council had given $25 to the memorial fund for Mrs. Goldie Twitty.

Mrs. Croom showed slides and gave a talk about her recent trip to Isreal.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 23. Mrs. Fred Lasters will have the program on "Human Relations".

Lanvin Mixes Bright Colors

PARIS (AP) — The Lanvin lady may choose not to be heard, but she definitely will be seen.

Jules-Francois Crahay, whose summer collection for Lanvin was shown Tuesday, is as colorhappy as ever. He mixes red, kelly green and royal blue, purple, apricot and yellow with what would be reckless abandon in anyone else. But his clothes are young, amusing and can't be missed.

For day, he likes striped jersey, awning or chalk-style and often both together. Pants flop loosely over his very high platform sandals. For the beach there are his jumpsuits with bare backs and halter necks. The aperitif hour calls for long double-breasted blazers or bright wool jackets with short sleeves.

Lanvin's first collection will be presented in New York Monday.

For evening, the fabrics are silk crepe and taffeta. Long crepe dresses in pastel shades are pleated all over, belted at the waist and trail big gathered sleeves.

Dior, who showed Monday, has lots of pants for day too. Designer Marc Rohan likes them very wide and cuffed in wool. They come with big suede and wool three-quarter coats and a miniscule beret in any color.

The new length is at midknee for dresses and just over it for the bulky bathrobe coats. Navy is not only for short freeflowing pea jackets but for just about anything, including little suits with white straw rollers.

At night it's crepe Georgette for long dresses with bare backs and white blazers. And, of course, there are innumerable beautiful dresses, beaded, sequined, embroidered and all with nine-foot scarves.

The name dry ice comes from the fact that solid carbon dioxide does not return to liquid form when it melts. It changes directly into a gas.

Plants and trees are very clever. They breathe without lungs: circulate sap hundreds of feet without a pump or arteries; regulate their life processes without a nervous system or glands; distribute their seeds over great distances via winds and animals; derive energy directly from sunlight. Animals put oxygen and hydrogen together to form water; plants take water apart to get oxygen and hydrogen.
Water Refiner units are engineered also to perform spectacular results everywhere in your home. Our patented process removes impurities, chemicals, minerals, and rust, and filters out unpleasant taste and odors from regular tap water. Although compact, the Water Refiner unit does all these tremendous jobs for all the water used in the home. For more information, call

Yanks Sign Owens

Gary Owens of Vanduser became the third Southeast Missouri athlete to sign a professional baseball contract in the past two years when he inked a bonus pact with the New York Yankees today. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Owens.

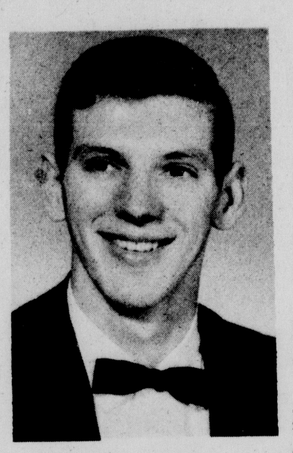
The Yankees signed up Greg Buys of Kennett in 1970 and the Kansas City Royals picked up Gideon's Mark Littell in 1971.

Owens, who stared for the Sikeston American Legion team two years ago, will report to the Yanks Hollywood, Fla., training camp in early March.

The 6-foot-3 athlete, who is better known in the bootheel for his basketball talents which led Scott County Central into the state tournament in 1968, led the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association in batting in 1970 with a .500 average while playing at the School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout, Mo. Last season Ownes batted .437.

New York senior scout, Tom Greenwade, got Owens' signature on the contract today. Greenwade has signed such Yankee greats as Micky Mantle, Hank Bauer, Jerry Lumpe, Bill Verdon, Elston Howard and Clete Boyer.

The Yankees drafted Owens in the 15th round of the regular phase of the baseball drafter in June and signed him to a Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.— contract in the Class A division.



Gary Owens

Owens, who pitched and played first base in high school and Legion ball, will devote his duties to playing the outfield for the Yanks.

Pirates Cheerleader

LEAH BELVIN, five-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Belvin of Mathews, is a member of the Matthews Pirates high school junior varsity cheerleading squad. Leah is currently cheering the Pirates on in the New Madrid county tournament at Risco where the MHS quintet is top seeded.

Shoot-Out Set

RISCO — Clear the streets ...call the doc, because they'll be a shoot out at the Golden Tiger gymnasium tonight when the Matthews Pirates and Lilbourn Panthers tie up for the New Madrid county tournament championships.

The stage was set and casts let Thursday night when New Madrid was eliminated from the seven team affair. Coach Carroll Compton's Indians suffered a 60-52 setback in its junior varsity tilt against Lilbourn and then the varsity quintet took it on the chin, 74-48 at the hands of neighboring Matthews.

New Madrid's JV cagers made a late game bid for victory, but a 16 point lead the Panthers had build early in the second half was too much to overcome. Lilbourn held on for the narrow eight point win and get a chance to redeem themselves against the top seeded MHS cagers tonight at 7 p.m. in the JV title game. The Pirates beat the Panthers one point during the regular season.

Edward Farr pumped in 22 points to head up the Panther offense. Frank Phillips scored 24 for the Indians top effort and high game honors.

Matthews had a rather easy time with New Madrid in the night's varsity tilt as the Indians were playing their first game without the services of their leading scorer and rebounder, Richard Williams.

Coach Sam Wiggins' Pirates breezed to a 20-8 first quarter lead and then out-scored the Tribe in each of the next three quarters to record the victory.

Earl McCaster and Audie Davis teamed for 40 of the Pirates points, scoring 29 and 21 respectively, in leading the MHS cagers into the title bout.

Matthews was playing its second game since losing the services of big center, Raymond Bledsoe.

ABA Stars Assemble

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) -- Disgruntled by the "black tie affair" but safe from the thunder of Archie Bunker, the American Basketball Association's top stars converged on Louisville today to prepare for Saturday night's 5th Annual ABA All-Star game.

Some players came grumbling over having to dress formally for tonight's league dinner—a pomp and ceremony affair for leagues big-wigs and fans willing to cough up $15 per ticket.

"Where does a guy 6-foot-8 find a tuxedo to fit?" mumbled New York Nets star Rick Barry, one of the East's starting forwards.

"If Artis Gilmore, who is 7feet-2, can find a tux," retorted Kentucky Colonels general manager Mike Storen, perpetrator of the black tie edict, "then Barry can find one. I hope he has that much class."

The East, bolstered by the presence of eight of the ABA's top 10 scorers and with superrookie Gilmore providing an intimidating force in the pivot, is favored to break the series' 2-2 tie by repeating its victory of a year ago.

The game will be televised to 70 major markets nationally on a special American Basketball Association Network, with tipoff at 8:30 p.m. EST. That's a half-hour later than originally planned because, one official said, it would avoid conflict with the CBS series "All in the Family" and its beloved bigot, Archie Bunker.

Gilmore will be joined in the East starting lineup by Kentucky's Dan Issel and New York's Barry at forwards, and Virginia's Charlie Scott and New York's Bill Melchionni at guards.

The West will counter with veteran Zelmo Beaty of Utah at center, Utah's Willie Wise and Indiana's Roger Brown at forwards, and Utah's Glen Combs and Denver's Ralph Simpson at guards.

Kentucky's Joe Mullaney will coach the East, with Utah's LaDell Anderson guiding the West.

Tarkenton Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — "Don't worry," one defensive lineman said to another after Fran Tarkenton had eluded them in a wild behind-the-scrmmage-line chase. "He'll be back in a moment."

And so Tarkenton, the quarterback who turned the oncedesperate act of scrambling into a fine art in the National Football League, is, indeed, returning from whence he came.

The New York Giants, who obtained Tarkenton from Minnesota in 1967, traded him back to the Vikings Thursday for a raft of present and prospective talent.

In return for their No. 1 quarterback, who ran and passed New York to a five-year, 33-37 record including last season's 410 last-place finish in the National Conference East, the Giants acquired:

—Bob Grim, the Vikes' AllPro wide receiver whose 1971 performance was the best of his six-year career,

—Norm Snead, a journeyman quarterback who, in his 11th pro year last season, was Minnesota's No. 3 signal-caller behind Gary Cuozzo and Bob Lee,

—Vince Clements, a rookie running back who missed the entire season with a knee injury,

—One of the Vikings' two first-round draft picks in Tuesday's NFL draft of college seniors, and

—Minnesota's second-round choice in the 1973 draft.

Tarkenton was delighted with the trade. Grim was not.

"We are very happy about going home to Minnesota ... back home, almost, to where we started," Tarkenton said from his home in Atlanta.

Grim, on the other hand, finding himself on the four-time NFC Central Division champion one minute and on an also-ran the next, hinted he might balk at the trade.

"Who knows at this time," the disgruntled wide receiver said from his parents' home in Red Bluff, Calif. "But should this trade materialize, I'd say the Giants came out way ahead.

"I'm a little upset about it. I'm not happy about leaving a contender. I don't think any two or three players can make a contender out of a club," Grim said of the Giants, adding that he felt Tarkenton is a fine quarterback "but I think Minnesota gave up too much to get him."

Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks agreed his team gave up a lot, "but I don't think we've destroyed the nucleus for our club."

Tarkenton came off the Georgia campus as the Vikings' No. 3 draft choice in 1961, theer first year of play as an NFL expansion team. Six seasons later he went to the Giants in exchange for four valuable draft picks.

But he had only one winning year in New York—the 9-5 mark in 1970 when the Giants missed the divisional title by one game—then slumped last season to perhaps the poorest of his career.

He completed 226 of 386 passes for 2,567 yards and a 58.5 completion percentage in 1971 but had 21 passes intercepted while connecting on ly 11 for touchdowns.

Grim, meanwhile, blossomed last season as one of the more potent weapons in a generally shaky Minnesota attack.

The No. 2 draft choice from Oregon in 1967 caught 45 passes for 691 yards and seven touchdowns, then grabbed the NFC's only touchdown pass in last Sunday's Pro Bowl game.

Fishing Seminar Set At EP

Fishing expert Art Reid of Carbondale, Ill., will conduct a fishing seminar Monday night at the annual membership meeting of the Mississippi County Recreation Association at the East Prairie High School auditorium.

The meeting, which is open to the general public at no charge, will begin at 7 p.m., according to James Ponder of Charleston, president.

Mr. Reid, founder and editor of "Lunkerhole" magazine, is also a frequent contributor to "Field and Stream" and "Outdoor Life" magazines. He is also tournament master for the bass tournament held at Kentucky Lake, Barkely Lake and Monroe Lake.

The speaker will discuss fishing for several varieties of fish, demonstrate fishing tackle and answer questions from the floor.

Other items on the agenda, Mr. Ponder said, include a report by the project engineer on the 143 - acre Big Lake development project north of Charleston; a discussion by Conservation Commissioner Robert DeLaney of the proposed one - cent tax on soft drinks for conservation; reports from various associated committees; and election of officers and two new board members.

Botts Will Retire

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Tom Botts will end more than 30 years of coaching track and cross country at the University of Missouri this spring.

Botts, 67, announced his retirement Friday and Wilbur Stalcup, athletic director, said a successor would be appointed soon. c

The dean of Big Eight track coaches, Botts became head coach at MU 28 years ago after serving as assistant to the late C. G. Simpson three years.

Missouri won four indoor and four outdoor conference titles and an NCAA indoor title under Botts. The Tigers took five of a possible six indoor and outdoor crowns in 1947-48-49.

Botts was named Cross Country Coach of 1970 after his team won the Big Eight title and placed sixth in the NCAA. In 1961 he helped coach a U.S. team on an undefeated tour of Europe.

He was a member of the gncaa track rules committee, past president of the NCAA Cross Country Coaches Association, and a referee at the Kansas, Texas, Michigan State and Drake Relays.

As a collegian, Botts was a hurdler at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., under Brutus Hamilton, former Missouri Olympian and track coach at Kansas and California.

Although Botts could teach until he is 70, he will sever all academic ties at the university.

"I have no definite longrange plans," he said, "but I hope to keep reasonably active, doing something worthwhile and useful. I feel it is time to retire while my health is good."

Charleston, PB In Tourney Final

POPLAR BLUFF — Top seeded Charleston muscled its way into the championship of the 20th annual Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament Thursday night with a rousing 88-48 win over Twin Rivers while the hosting mules made easy work of the district's 10th rated Kennett Indians, 62-46 to set the state for tonight's 8:30 p.m. title bout.

Coach Lucian Black's CHS Bluejay cagers rolled up a 17-7 first quarter lead and then scored over 20 points in each of the next three quarters to record the win.

Richard Lawrence picked up 23 points to head a 10-player offensive barrage by the Bluejays, which included 18 by Albri Cassell, 15 from Alvin Pierce and 11 by Alfred Gordon. Mike Collard bucketed 14 for Twin Rivers top effort and only double figure mark.

Coach Tom Hoover got a big effort from his Mules to make easy work of second seeded Kennett, 62-46.

Poplar Bluff jumped out to a 20-12 first quarter lead and used its defense to hold the Indians to 28 points through three quarters of play.

Curtis Hinton scored 19 points to lead the PBHS offense, which included four other players in double figures. Griffin had 15 and Holeman and Locke added 13 each. Greg Gilmer had 17 for KHS.

Kennett and Twin Rivers tied up for the consolation prize tonight at 7 p.m.

Stram Signs 10 Yr. Pact

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hank Stram has signed a new 10-year contract as head coach and vice president of team operations for the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League, Lamar Hunt, Chiefs' owner, said today

Hunt hired Stram when the American Football League was formed in 1960 and the Chiefs originated as the Dallas Texans.

Stram has been the only head coach in the team's 12-year history. He was completing a fiveyear contract that began in 1967.

Terms of the new pact were not announced.

"We are very happy to have signed Hank to a new contract," Hunt said. "Though the vice president title is a new one, his responsibilities have not changed dramatically.

"He has earned the distinction as one of the game's great coaches and I am confident he will continue his winning tradition in the next decade."

Hunt said Stram will continue to be in control of all facets of team operation, including scouting, the draft, signing players, trades "and any other responsibilities involved with the preparation of the team for competition."

Stram was the winningest coach in the 10-year-history of the old AFL before it merged with the NFL. He had an 87-485 regular-season record in the AFL.

The Chiefs were the only AFL club to win three league titles and the lone club to represent the AFL in two Super Bowl games.

The highlight of Stram's career came on Jan. 11, 1970, when the Chiefs defeated the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl IV.

Kansas City posted a 10-3-1 record for last season, its seventh straight winning season, bringing Stram's regular-season career total to 104-56-8.

Only George Halas with the Chicago Bears, Steve Own with the New York Giants and Curley Lambeau with the Green Bay Packers have won as many professional games with the same team.

"I sincerely feel that I have the best coaching job in football," Stram said. "I will always be grateful to Lamar for providing me with my initial opportunity to be a head coach and for the confidence he has expressed in me through our 12-year association, as lell as the continued confidence he is diplaying with this new contract."

Royals Sign Pair

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Outfielders Amos Otis and Lou Piniella were among five Kansas City Royals whose contract signings were announced by the American League club today.

Also signing were outfielder Richie Scheinblum, second baseman Bobby Knoop and pitcher Art Demery, bringing the number of ROYALS IN THE fold to seven.

Otis led the league in stolen bases in 1971 with 52, and batted .301. Piniella, hampered by injuries, hit .279 after a .301 season in 1970.

Movie Has Underlying Religious Message

NEW YORK (AP) — A tiny, cheery old lady travels the lecture circuit these days telling how faith in God rescued her from a life wrecked by wealth, self-indulgence and booze.

"Churches call it witnessing or giving a testimonial," says Gert Behanna. "I call it a pitch."

Mrs. Behanna, 77, a pert, snappy woman with merriment in her lined face, is the subject of a current movie, "The Late Liz," starring Anne Baxter, with an underlying religious message.

Based on Mrs. Behanna's autobiography, it portrays her monied, party-going descent through hedonistic flings, three broken marriages and deepening alcoholism to a point of utter desperation and attempted suicide.

There, at the bottom, she cries out, "If there is another way, could I reach for it? Show me the way, God! Oh dear God, is it possible? I do believe!"

From then on, groping at first, uncertain, she starts back up the road to authentic life.

"That's the way it was," she said in an interview, after watching a preview of the movie. "That was me."

In actuality, the turning point came 14 years ago, and ever since Mrs. Behanna, now of San Antonio, Tex., has kept up a heavy schedule of talks, about 300 yearly, before churches, college and other groups, recounting her experience.

"I just tell them what God did for somebody like me," she said. "I don't say what they should do—I just tell what happened to me. All I know is that I was blind and now I can see."

Although she's now an Episcopalian, a member of St. Peter's church of San Antonio, Mrs. Behanna said that in temperament, she is "about as unchurchy as you can get."

"I'm shocked at the lack of love shown by most people in churches," she added. "Christ said He had come to find those who are lost. But if a drunk comes into a church, who will even move over?"

In her own case, she said, her conversion came like that of Paul in the New Testament. "Christ knocked him down," she remarked. "For most people though, it's not by spontaneous combustion like that, but a slow process."

She also had some help at the start from an Episcopal priest, the Rev. Tom Rogers, now associated with the Episcopal Cathedral in Chicago—played by Jack Albertson—with whom this conversation is depicted in the movie:

"I hope God sticks around through my growing pains," she (Miss Baxter) says.

"You're the one who has to stick around," says the priest, advising her to read the Bible daily and that through it God will speak to her.

"In English?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Behanna, daughter of the late millionaire industrialist Samuel Ingram, turned her fortune over to a charitable trust after her conversion, to devote it to helping others.

DAVID POLING, D.D.

Paying for War in Draft, Debt, Death

By REV. DAVID POLING

She has been a waitress for more than 10 years. You know that she needs the job and since the food is good and the service first rate, you always tip heavy when she handles your order.

You never knew her husband and only heard about her son when he went into the Army. Suddenly he was in Vietnam. Connie read his letters to the diner crowd and you could tell that she wanted others to bear the burden of waiting and hoping. Then, toward the end of the war and the conclusion of his tour of duty in Vietnam, he was killed. Dead at 20. Home in a box.

That waitress will never be the same again and all the kidding and all the heavy tips and all the sympathy in the world will not restore her life. Her son is dead and now she will pay through the heartbreak for as long as she remembers.

America is paying for Vietnam, just as the peasants of Southeast Asia are paying. Says Edmund Stillman in this month's issue of Commentary:

"The dominant characteristic of the American Establishment today is exhaustion: exhaustion of will, exhaustion of ideas, and most damaging of all, exhaustion of the power to generate popular faith in its ideals."

Stillman traces the effect of this Asian war and paints a bleak picture for America after Vietnam. Although the damage has been heavily centered in the paddies, hamlets and cities of Southeast Asia, the real, long-term victim is America. It has moved from rugged innocence to wary guilt. Stillman recalls those chilling words of Karl Marx who wrote:

"The redeeming feature of war is that it puts a nation to the test. As exposure to the atmosphere reduces mummies to instant dissolution, so war passes extreme judgment on social systems that have outlived their vitality."

A hundred years after Marx, Karl Barth, perhaps the leading Christian theologian of this century, observed:

"Communism can never be defeated solely by anti-Communist propaganda and military strength. Only if the West works out a positive social order, guaranteeing the freedoms essential for individual and social justice, will it have responded truly to the challenge of the Communists . . . In this respect, the colonial wars of the West are the highest trump cards in the Communist deck."

This gem of the ocean walked into the worst folly of the age and now is paying in so many ways — death, debt and draft. Each of these factors takes its toll in our national life. Our youth have been spent, our resources drained and our future committed to military ways and manners. The effect is already reaching down to the next generation.

Recently, the Central School Boards Committee for Educational Research published its findings of attitudes among schoolchildren, grades 3-8. These children in New York and New Jersey grade schools were asked if war was sometimes necessary. Fifty-four per cent said war was needed. Fifty-two per cent said they would die for their country.

When asked if they thought the President always told the truth, only 22 per cent said they did. Finally, of all the children polled (2,700) three per cent of the white youngsters had a Vietnam death within the family circle. But of the black kids, 12 per cent reported family losses.

Some sections of our society have paid a higher price for this war, but every home is touched when a nation mourns its dead and considers the wariness of its youth.

Evangelical Group Fights Witchcraft

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — An evangelical group is launching the "world's first antiwitchcraft traveling mobile unit" on a nationwide tour.

Stocked with the trappings of the occult, including books, a human skull and the ingredients for witches' brews, the trailer will tour 45 U.S. cities, said a spokesman for World Evangelism Inc.

The trailer "was prepared to warn people of the dangers arising from exposure to the occult and to reveal the innocuous instruments used to lure people into the sinsiter world of evil spirits," says Morris Cerullo, president of World Evangelism, based in San Diego.

The potions and brews aboard the trailer were mixed by Michael Warnke, who described himself as a "satanic dropout." He says he was once a "high priest" in a Satan-worshipping Organization which had 1,500 members. Now he's converted to Christianity.

FAITHFUL WITH POSSESSIONS

It has been said that "when wealth is lost, nothing is lost; when health is lost, something is lost; but when character is lost, all is lost."

Jesus talked more about money and possessions than about any other topics. Nevertheless, there are many who criticize ministers today for what they claim to be excessive sermons about money.

The concern that Jesus stressed was over the way persons utilized their possessions. Too many individuals fail to admit that God gives man the ability to acquire money and other possessions.

Jesus lived in a period when contrasts were evident. He witnessed the wealthy parading around the Temple while others in the community were poor, many starving.

Should He return today He would encounter similar conditions. And he would hear many question the role of our churches that overstress buildings and equipment rather than services for the needy.

The first lesson today is familiar to many Bible readers, the story of the unjust steward. It is a story that can be misquoted and thus misunderstood. It can be quoted out of context with interpretations counter to those Jesus wanted His followers to hear.

Jesus used a corrupt social order to provide today's teaching lesson. When the master fired the "clever steward" for the poor use of his money, the steward made friends with his former debtors to prepare himself for the future.

The steward worked on a commission as did many men in those days. He was accused of mismanagement, not of fraud. When he was fired he called upon the tenants and collected from them, remitting his own share of what they owed.

Such shrewd dealings impressed the master, who applauded his actions.

What was Jesus seeking to teach in this message?

Obviously, we are all stewards, all working on commissions. We all work under one Master, allowed to use our resources as we desire. We should follow Jesus' instructions to make friends with the people who are dependent upon us.

It is questionable whether money is the root of ALL evil. Jesus seeks to instruct us in the wise use of money, not in its accumulation.

It isn't wrong to make money since it is needed for survival. However, it is wrong to lust for money. It is also wrong to place the thought of money ahead of the thought of God.

Obviously there are many ways in which we reveal our lust for money. The land owner who charges his renters more than the houses are worth is guilty of lust. The storekeeper who charges more for his products in ghetto areas than in other areas also is guilty.

Such men were the scribes who went about displaying their proud and pious attitudes. They were greedy men who profitted from their holy offices. They used their position to take advantage of others.

At the opposite end Jesus tells of the widow's mite. She was poor yet sacrificed for God. The wealthy gave more, yet made little sacrifice.

Two concepts are stressed. It is the spirit in which something is given; it isn't what one gives but what he has left.

Billy Graham once said that "God has given us two hands—one to receive with and the other to give with."

Not only is a person judged by the ways in which he receives his money, but also by the ways he spends it. We need to use our material possessions to assure our spiritual future.

New Nazarene Church Pastor Native Of Butler County

The Rev. Coy O. Presson, a Butler County native, is the new pastor of First Church of the Nazarene at the corner of Scott and Trotter Streets.

Rev. Presson assumed the pastorate the last Sunday in November as successor to the Rev. William G. Ardrey, who departed a month earlier to move to Nashville, Tenn.

The Presson family came here from Hannibal where he had pastored for four years. In addition to the Rev. and Mrs. Presson, the family includes a daughter, Dawn, 11, and a son, Kent, 9. Dawn is a sixth grader at junior high and Kent is a fourth grader attending Lee Hunter school.

Other pastorates Rev. Presson has held during 11 years in the ministry were at Caruthersville, Ironton and Redford.

He is a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College of Bethany, Okla. Previously, he attended Arkansas State University at Jonesboro and served two years in the Army. Born and reared in Broseley, he also graduated from Broseley High School.

Mrs. Presson, a Texas native, also attended Bethany College and is a substitute school teacher.

A hobby of Rev. Presson's is collecting old clocks and he now has around 50 he estimates.

First Assembly Installs New Youth Officers

The Christ Ambassadors (CAs), the youth organization of the First Assembly of God Church, 306 South Kingshighway, held a service of installation last Sunday. for newly-elected officers.

Elected president was Don Savage; vice-president, Harvey Hull; and secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Sharon Savage.

Rev. Erny McDonough, minister of music and youth, was in charge of the installation ceremony.

Each officer was given a pledge of office. The president, Don Savage, was presented a gavel and a boutonniere of white carnation symbolizing purity and serenity. Harvey Hull, vice- president, was presented a Bible and a red carnation boutonniere which symbolized courage and enthusiasm. The secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Sharon Savage, was presented the secretary's record book, a money bag, and a corsage of blue carnations trimmed with purple ribbon. The blue symbolizes truth and the purple is symbolic of the royal example of Christ.

After the officers' pledges to lead the youth group in the fear of God, the Christ Ambassadors pledged to cooperate and enthusiastically support the newly elected officers.

Mrs. Edna McKown sang, "Give of Your best to the Master" at the conclusion of the pledges.

Pastor T. A. McDonough spoke to the CAs on the subject, "Tell It Like It Is", and the service was closed as all joined in singing, "To Be Like Jesus.

Missouri Episcopal Annual Meeting Set

ST. LOUIS — The Episcopal Diocese of Missouri will hold its annual convention in Christ Church Cathedral Friday and Saturday, Feb. 4-5. It is expected that about 250 lay delegates and clergy will attend, with an equal number of visitors and observers.

The Diocese of Missouri was formed in 1840, 21 years after the organization of Christ Church as the first parish of the Episcopal Church west of the Mississippi River. Its first bishop was chosen in 1844 and, as rector also of Christ Church for several years, Bishop Cicero Stephens Hawks served until his death in 1868. Bishops who succeeded him were Charles F. Robertson, Daniel S. Tuttle, Frederick F. Johnson, William Scarlett and Arthur Lichtenberger. Bishops Tuttle and Lichtenberger served also as presiding bishops of the Episcopal Church.

The present bishop, George L. Cadigan, came to Missouri at the time of his consecration in 1959. He will preside over this, the 132nd convention.

The convention will convene in the cathedral at 3 p.m. Friday and will hear reports of various officers and commissions. It is expected a budget for 1972 will be submitted by the Standing Committee for approval during the afternoon session.

The convention dinner will be served at 6:15 p.m. in Bishop Tuttle Memorial. During the dinner Bishop Cadigan will present citations and awards to a number of lay persons who have shown distinguished work in the cause of the church and their communities. The names of the honorees are always closely guarded secrets and are not revealed until the bishop reads their names.

The convention service will be held in the cathedral at 8 p.m. Friday. During the service the cathedral choir will sing and Bishop Cadigan will deliver his annual address to the diocese.

The business session will reconvene at 9 a.m. Saturday and is expected to be concluded by noon.

Professor Of Bible To Speak

Parole Urged For Minister

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Pardon and Parole Board recommended 37 state penitentiary inmates for parole Sunday, including an ordained Baptist minister.

Loyal P. Scott, 31, who was ordained as a Baptist minister in 1968, was unamiously recommended for parole.

Scott is serving a 15-year sentence for a $100 drug store robbery in Tulsa in 1967.

Scott told the board he was "the second man in the history of this penitentiary which the Baptist Church has licensed."

Leonard Sullivan, Baptist minister at Heavener, Okla., wrote the board on behalf of Scott.

Don Glover Leaving Shady Acres Church

Don C. Glover

Don C. Glover, minister of Shady Acres Church of Christ, 1440 Ables Road, will deliver his last sermon to the congregation Sunday. The following Sunday he will become minister of the 1,000 - member White Station Church of Christ in Memphis, Tenn.

Glover has served the church here for the past 10 years. Four years ago, the congregation sold its building on South Kingshighway and erected new facilities on an 11-acre site one mile east of the Sikeston Field House on Ables Road.

In 1971, the congregation broke ground for the Shady Acres Children's Home. The home, which will care for needy children, is nearing completion. Glover has spoken every weekday morning over radio station KSIM for the past 9½ years.

During his stay in Sikeston, Glover made two trips abroad. In 1969, the congregation raised money to send him to Egypt, Israel, Lebanon, Turkey, Greece and Rome. In 1971, Glover traveled to Russia, the Holy Land, Greece and Rome.

"It is very difficult for us to leave Sikeston," said Glover. "The people here have been so good to us. Perhaps someday we may be able to return."

A successor has not been named.

Coming Attraction: Real Trials on TV

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The man who is probably America's most famous trial lawyer believes that courtroom proceedings should be televised.

F. Lee Bailey says they should—and will. He is convinced that it's only a matter of time until trials are regularly available on home screens. He says some Minneapolis cases are already being televised.

"Televising trials," Bailey says, "is now feasible because the equipment has become unobtrusive. It doesn't disrupt the court anymore to have cameras around. And I think it would be a good thing for justice and for informing the public."

It would make existing lawyer shows on TV seem pretty pallid, of course. And Bailey is pretty strong—but not as strong as you might think—in his opinion of the legal shows now offered by the networks.

"They range," he says, "from bare mediocrity to pretty good. But I don't watch TV very much."

That becomes pretty obvious when he mentions the shows he thinks are pretty good—he cites "most of The Defenders and some of Judd for the Defense," and both those shows have been off the air for some years.

Bailey has a new book, "The Defense Never Rests," which deals with some of the important cases he has handled. And he says there is some interest among Hollywood movie producers in taking parts of the book—notably, those sections dealing with the Shepherd and Coppolino cases—for a feature film.

He thinks that acting training would be advantageous for lawyers (although he had none) but says there is one big difference between acting and appearing in a courtroom.

"There are no retakes in court," he says. "Lawyers must give everything they've got the first time."

My Blue Havens

Richie Havens was in town for a concert. He was in and out of Hollywood like a wisp, because that's his style. He comes to a city, does his thing, and is off again. He says that he does three or four concerts a week, 40 weeks a year. And he spreads joy wherever he goes.

But he makes use of his time. Unlike most touring artists, he doesn't spend what free time he has watching other performers work. Havens brings along a virtual library of his own, and the dresser in his hotel room was loaded with books about psychology, sociology, religion, astrology.

Havens springs from the notorious Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. When he was growing up there, he says, it was the heyday of the gangs. But he says the gang scene is over.

Jonesboro Crime Rate Lowest In Nation

JONESBORO, Ark. -- Jonesboro has apparently bettered its own national record for the lowest crime rate in its size category, according to the FBI's Uniform Crime Report.

Jonesboro, with a population of 27,000, has the lowest crime rate for cities with more than 25,000 population in both 1970 and 1971. The police department's criminal division investigated 653 cases in 1970, a record nationally, and bettered that figure in 1971, when only 589 criminal cases were investigated.

Police Chief Jim Hanley of the Jonesboro department attributed the low crime rate to a "city of good citizens. We just don't have a city of hoods," he said, estimating that 80 per cent of Jonesboro residents "don't even know where the circuit courtroom is and most traffic violators have to ask what to do with their tickets." He said other factors contributing to the low crime rate included an efficient up-to- date police department "and not having a lot of honky- tonks."

Leading the list of offenses for the year were burglary, forgery and uttering, with 129 reports for each offense. During 1971, there were no reports of manslaughter by negligence, prostitution and commercialized vice, gambling or vagrancy. Of the 589 total cases reported, 415 were closed, 13 believed unfounded and 161 were still under investigation.

Big Deficits Bad News For Nixon's Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The huge deficits announced in Monday's budget messege--more than $64 billion in two years—are a bad political break for President Nixon's re-election campaign.

They are sure-fire ammunition for Democrats, on whose past deficits Nixon has blamed his own problems with inflation, recession and the soaring federal debt.

The rich red ink, $38.8 billion worth in fiscal 1972 and $25.5 billion in the coming government year, could prompt demands for higher taxes and traditional Republican "fiscal responsibility" from the conservative wing of the President's own party. Conservatives have shown rising irritation with the Nixonian economics.

Nixon did his best to minimize a political backfire. The deficits are just the right tonic for the tired economy, he contended, and he implied that it is the Democratic-controlled Congress which needs to show fiscal discipline, not the Republican administration.

The message gives his administration credit for $22 billion in income tax relief gained by Americans since 1969, omitting the fact many of the cuts were unasked by the White House and some were opposed.

The budget shows evidence of tinkering with the timing of outlays. This has crowded more deficit spending into this fiscal year, before June 30, and less into fiscal 1973. The latter budget is the one that will be in the voters' minds next November.

The emphasis on spending planned this spring will provide the economic stimulus when it is needed to get the recovery rolling, a high White House official explained, instead of later on when, presumably, the recovery will have gained enough momentum to revive inflationary hazards.

The shift also will enable Nixon to tell voters—as he told Congress in the budget message—that even though the deficits are large they are being reduced, and federal budgets are being brought under control.

A White House source said about $1 billion in federal welfare payments to the states which normally would come after the turn of the fiscal year are being handed over to the states before the new bookkeeping year begins.

In fact, about $4 billion of the outlays now scheduled for fiscal 1972 could be shifted to fiscal 1973 if the administration wished to delay the spending, this source acknowledged. But, he added, "We think the fiscal thrust should be greater in 1972."

There is little doubt that both deficits are swollen by some items that Congress is unlikely to approve, including revenue sharing. If Congress balks, the $2.2 billion budgeted for that program this fiscal year would be a handy cushion to offset possible cost increases in other programs—or to point to as evidence that the deficits are being reduced.

The message alternately attacks Congress for overspending Nixon requests on programs it favors and scolds the lawmakers for not voting the funds for programs he favors.

Congress has made "costly mistakes" in past reductions of defense budgets, Nixon said in advocating more money for the Pentagon. Older people "have waited long enough," he said, for Congress to provide Social Security reforms. He complained that his plan to aid needy students is stalled: "There it sits, in Congress, while thousands of young people miss their chance."

On the other hand, the message bespeaks the President's pride that "the rate of increase in government spending has been cut nearly in half" compared to what it describes as comparable years of the Johnson administration. The Johnson years were those of the Vietnam buildup.

The current deficits are pictured as being of exactly the right size to speed the recovery without reviving the price-wage spiral.

His critics in Congress already have taken a line that ignores such fine-tuning of fiscal policy.

We're planning to be here for awhile so possibly things and information aren't so important — do we stop doing things NOW because it sounds less important. When we first arrived, I was most hungry for knowledge about my "new town" and looked for a place to go to find it. Just because I have a time extension does it matter — yes!!! Let's find a place where youth and new people can seek information about the roots of this wonderful enterprising city and where those who DO know can happily reminisce. Why not a museum where all of us can browse and see graphically and interestingly why Sikeston IS here and what makes it stay and grow. What's it all about.

All mankind must face life's problems
And whatsoever that the day may bring
Altho' we try to escape them
It would all be in vain
And as we travel along life's journey
And there's trouble on the way
We must try to accept it, for
--
There's no other way
But we will all come to the end of our journey
And cross over the chilly stream -- of death--
There to stand before the judgment
And be judged by Christ our King.

What's The Law

Patriotic Law Gone

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A state law was passed that provided a hefty $2,000 fine and or seven years in the pokey for discouraging anyone from enlisting in the United States Armed Forces. Almost immediately, a group of outraged citizens declared war on the statute. Up-in-arms, their first skirmish was in court.

"That law couldn't be any more un-American," they told the judge, "had it been written by George III and his redcoats. What it does, in effect, is to gag free expression. It prevents people from voicing their opposition to unpopular wars."

"No war is popular," was the response. "It's just that some wars are less unpopular than others. And, if we find ourselves involved in one, the object is not to handicap the country in its operation. Therefore, the statute under attack is both reasonable and necessary. The good of the country comes first."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the statute?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the statute was much too broad a restriction on free speech. Since it is not a crime not to volunteer one's services to the military, noted the judge, the statute, by threat of prosecution, prohibited the urging of a lawful act.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1972. There are 338 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1878, the world's first commercial telephone switchboard was installed in New Haven, Conn.— with 21 subscribers plugged in.

On this date:

In 1547, King Henry VIII of England died.

In 1871, the French surrendered to the Germans in the Franco-Prussian war.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson signed legislation creating the U.S. Coast Guard.

In 1916, Louis Brandeis was named an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

In 1932, in the depths of the depression, the song "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" was sweeping the country.

In 1945, the first American truck convoy traveled the reopened Burma Road in World War II.

Allen M. Blanton
Editor
Daily Sikeston Standard

Last Saturday, Jan. 15, an article appeared on the front page of The Standard. It was proported to be my answer to a questionaire sent out by a group calling themselves the "Citizen's Lobby". Although it was only a part of my answer, carefully edited. The part left out in my estimation changed the entire mood and intent of the letter. I will quote one of the parts left out and you may judge for yourself.

"This letter is not one of criticism, as I am very interested in your movement and wish you well and will do all in my power to be of service to you. But you can do so much good if you are really serious or you can just become another voice in the crowd as you have started out to be, with no real contributions to offer.

Please feel free to drop in and discuss these matters at your convenience."

I am used to seeing something happen in your government, or hearing a speech, and when I read about it the next day, finding out that the thing reported is not at all what happened or the words reported spoken, are not correct or else so slanted the real meaning could never be figured out. But when I read the letter to the mailbox printed in the same paper I decided to do some checking and answer. I probably should add here that, that letter printed in the mailbox had been chanded from its original context to eliminate the mention of a phone call which had set all this farce up.

My first question was who is the "Citizens Lobby". I know that they are a "special interest" pressure group, which uses slanderous & libelous tactics to threaten & coerce elected representatives of the people to vote the way this group wants. All you have to do to see a perfect example of this tactic is read the letter in the mailbox Jan. 15 writted by the director of this group. I also know that they have a nice office on the main street in Jefferson City with nice furniture, phones, stationery etc. They have a staff of at least three people, and the man who appears to be the head of this group says his father, a farmer, pays for it all along with a few other members of his family. I don't think I need to go much deeper for you to get the idea of the type of group this is. If I need to later I will.

I ordinarily ignore this type of thing, but I have not in this case for one important reason. It proves very well why I oppose opening the executive sessions of the Legislative committees to people & groups like this to whom distortion, lack of understanding, and plain untruthfulness, are all fair when dealing with peoples minds.

As one final point I will repeat again as I have hunderds of times before. My votes or opinions have never been withheld from any constituent or member of the press, in the eight years I have been priveledged to serve my district. They are yours along with any information you wish concerning your state government. The intent of this article is to increase your awareness of the world of politics. These tactics really don't bother me much, because I know you are not deceived by them, and I am exposed to this stuff daily and have grown a pretty thick hide. If you have any questions please write me.

Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Mr. Blanton:

With the exception of a few returns which are still coming in the 1971 Tuberculosis Christmas Seal campaign is now past history. It was a most successful campaign, and we of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Society of St. Louis and Eastern Missouri would like to thank you for your interest. It is people like yourself who make our continuing work possible, and we are grateful.

Therefore, on behalf of the Board of Directors, I wish to extend a sincere thank you for your help. We hope our programs of case finding, health education, research and rehabilitation will continue to merit your interest and support in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,
TUBERCULOSIS AND RESPIRATORY DISEASE SOCIETY OF ST. LOUIS AND EASTERN MISSOURI

Dexter Man Killed In Wreck

BLOOMFIELD — Dennis Wayne Moore, 25, Sam Drive, Dexter, died instantly Thursday at 12 p.m. north of Bloomfield on highway 25 when his 1966 Chevrolet pickup traveling south hit headon with a 1971 Ford truck driven by Ronald Martin of Ozark. Both were apparently in the center of the road. Martin was taken to the Dexter Memorial hospital with a broken leg and cuts and was reported today in satisfactory condition.

Moore was born Oct. 24, 1946 near Fisk. He married Brenda Ray Jan. 9, 1965 at Dexter. He was a truck driver for Monarch Feed Mills at Dexter.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Gale Wayne Moore and one daughter, Sherry Lynn Moore, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Moore of Dexter; two brothers, Carol Moore of Kennett and Ronnie Moore of Dexter.

Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Rainey Funeral Home chapel in Dexter with Rev. Gerald W. Beam officiating. Burial in the Dexter cemetery.

Sikeston Fender Bender

Two Sikeston residents were involved in a minor two-car accident in front of the Cream Castle drive-in on East Malone about 5 p.m. yesterday.

Police said that a 1964 Pontiac driven by Ina Claire Tate, Box 701, pulled out of the Cream Castle parking lot and into the path of an eastbound city cab driven by Ollie Cole, of 221 Ruth.

The Tate woman was charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Pravda Analyzes Peace Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda's correspondent in Hanoi reported today that President Nixon's peace plan is being "attentively analyzed" by North Vietnamese leaders.

"Outwardly these proposals could be seen as something new," correspondent A. Serbin wrote, "but here, in the political circles of Hanoi, their real contents are being attentively analyzed and note is being taken of what is hidden behind the new cover."

He said Nixon's offer to withdraw all U. S. forces within six months after an agreement does not reply to the Viet Cong demand for an unconditional U. S. withdrawal after a firm date has been named.

Serbin said the cease-fire proposed by Nixon is regarded in Hanoi as "a striving on the one hand to retain pro-American regimes in countries of Indochina and on the other hand to deprive the peoples of these countries of the opportunity to fight for their rights of self-determination."

Nixon's proposal for new elections in South Vietnam came in for the sharpest criticism.

"Local political circles note that the so-called 'elections' ... will only repeat the farce of the presidential elections held in Vietnam last October," Serbin said.

Named MU Chancellor

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Hebert W. Schooling has been named chancellor of the University of Missouri's Columbia campus, C. Brice Ratchford, university president, announced today.

Dr. Ratchford's recommendation of Schooling as chancellor received the approval of the university board of curators.

Dr. Schooling has been serving as interim chancellor the past year, after the resignation of John W. Schwada, who left the university to become president of Arizona State, Tempe.

In making the announcement, Ratchford said "in the past 13 months he has done a tremendous job as interim chancellor in handling the many difficult matters requiring his attention, as well as providing necessary guidance and leadership."

Dr. Schooling began his administrative career on the Columbia campus as dean of the college of Education on Sept. 1, 1963. He was the first person to be named provost of the Columbia campus and second to become dean of faculties.

He was named to the latest post Feb. 1, 1966 and was given the added assignment of provost in 1969.

Born in Lawrence County near Pierce City in 1912, Schooling was superintendent of schools at Webster Grove for six yearsn associate professor of education and director of pre-collegiate education at the University of Chicago for two years and superintendent of schools at North Kansas City, where he served 11 years.

Schooling received his doctorate of education at the University of Missouri in 1954. He is a graduate of Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield.

Fred E. Wachter, Jackson Route 1; Charles Arnold, Scott City, and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrill Dirnberger, Chaffee Route 1, were among 85 agents of the Farmers Mutual Hail Insurance Co. of Columbia, Mo., attending a district meeting Thursday in Sikeston. Local fieldmen in charge of the meeting were Henry Butler of Dexter and Robert Hesselrode of Kennett.

Longshoremen And Teamsters

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Longshoremen and Teamsters Union members opened a picket line today at the Mexican border that stopped cargo from crossing into California from the Baja California port of Ensenada.

About 60 pickets were marching peacefully in a circle at the San Ysidro border crossing, and trucks from Mexico stopped short of the line, apparently in some confusion, about what to do, said Robert Lasher, supervisor of the U.S. Customs office there.

It was the first time the longshoremen and teamsters had tried to seal off cargo getting through this end of their 2,000mile-long strike line. Throughout the strike, many ships have unloaded their cargo in the Ensenada port, and trucks have brought it into the United States.

At Vancouver, B.C., Canadian members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union reportedly are set to refuse work on any ships diverted from struck American ports. The Canadians have been uninvolved in the dispute which has idled 24 ports in California, Oregon and Washington since Jan. 17.

Hayti Girl Hit By Bus

A four- year- old Hayti girl suffered a broken hip yesterday when she was hit by a school bus on a gravel road on the south edge of Hayti.

Sagryln Elaine Mason was struck by a bus driven by Embree Kingcad, 59, of Hayti. Kingcad told the highway patrol that he had stopped to let children off the bus and hit the girl when he started up. He said that he thought that all the children had cleared the bus.

Seven Elected To MU Council

Seven persons have elected to the University of Missouri Extension council in Stoddard county.

They are John F. Johnson of Painton, Fred Skelton of Puxico, Leo Lowery of Puxico, Mrs. Paul Ralaford of Bloomfield, Jim Miller of Dexter, Earl Swinger of Essex, and Rudy Robinson of Dexter.

All were elected to two year terms.

WITH ICY tree limbs falling and slick streets everyone who could was staying off the road. This peaceful scene is looking East on Front Street across from the St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church.

U.S. Aid Offer To Hanoi Disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam was told last year it might get up to $2.5 billion of a potential $7.5-billion, five-year U.S. postwar reconstruction program for Indochina following a peace settlement, Nixon administration officials have disclosed.

Administration strategists said also that the test still lies ahead on whether Hanoi will negotiate seriously on President Nixon's eight-point peace offer.

A current theory here is that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, reportedly building up for an offensive next month, will want to decide first whether South Vietnam can defend itself without U.S. troops and whether Nixon's offer has wide public support in the United States.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told newsmen Thursday he was somewhat encouraged because North Vietnamese negotiators did not reject Nixon's plan as it was publicly presented at Paris that morning, though they piled invective on it. He said it was a good sign that they asked questions about it.

But Rogers acknowledged the continuing clash of goals. He said the North Vietnamese insist that a "Communist government takeover" in Saigon and "we can't accept that."

In his Tuesday night disclosure of secret negotiations by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger in Paris, Nixon said an aid offer was made last July 26, but he gave no figures.

Administration officials said that the "illustrative" figure of $7.5 billion over 5 years for Indochina's reconstruction, with up to one-third going to North Vietnam, was given after Hanoi envoys had presented their secret nine-point settlement plan.

One of the nine points called for reparations, the officials said. They said the reparations demand was rejected because, in the U.S. view, to pay this would be an admission of guilt by the United States.

For this reason Nixon's response totaled eight points instead of nine, they said, and the prospective U.S. aid following the war was outlined separately.

The $7.5 billion for the two Vietnams, Cambodia and Laos, if it came to pass, would be a massive amount by current U.S. economic-aid standards.

The Agency for International Development figures its worldwide economic-aid authorization this year at $1.87 billion. Nixon is seeking $2.26 billion for next year.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson proposed a $1-billion postwar economic-development outlay for all of Southeast Asia, including North Vietnam, in his April 1967 peace offer.

Sikeston Hit With Ice Storm

The ice storm has made it's weight felt throughout the Sikeston area, bringing down utility lines, trees, and causing a rash of accidents.

Power and telephone lines are down throughout the area. Most of the lines have been brought down by falling trees, although some may have come down under the weight of the ice. Work crews have been busy through the night trying to restore the lines.

A spokesman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Shirley Davidson, said that as of 9:15 a.m. today, 90 telephone lines were reported down with 139 telephones out of order. In Charleston 60 lines were reported down.

Extra work crews from Perryville, Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Farmington, Van Buren, Hayti and Kennett are in Sikeston helping to repair the lines, Mrs. Davidson said.

Long distances circuits to Risco, Bernie, Malden, and Gideon are out of service, she said. Mobile units have been set up in Malden and Bernie to enable residents to make emergency calls.

Mrs. Davidson said the Southwestern Bell hopes to have all service restored today.

Dick Inman of the Sikeston Light and Water Co. reported that all sections of the city were without power for a time last night including the east side of town, which was without power for over an hour.

The Missouri Utilites Co. reported that their lines to over 150 houses and businesses were down. A spokesman said that the company hopes to have power restored by tonight.

The R.E.A. Electrical Co-op reported that it too had a large number of lines down, but no time was given as to when their power would be restored.

Police reported a rash of minor traffic accidents due to the icy conditions. throughout the area. No serious accidents caused by the bad conditions were reported . In one unusual accident, James Earl Chappell reported to police that two cars parked at his home at 814 Lake St. were damaged last night whan a large ice coved tree broke in half and fell on the cars.

The fire department responded to three calls last night. At 6:35 p.m. they were called to the Blanche Jones residence at 711 E. Katheleen. A neighbor told the fire department that there were wires down in the back yard and that the house might catch fire but it did not.

At 8:48 p.m. they were called to 504 Carroll where a broken wire had set fire to a light pole. The fire department said that damage was minor.

At 9:35 p.m., fireman were called to a trailer park at 810 Hunter where broken lines had set fire to a tree that stood over a butane gas tank. The fire was quickly extinguished.

Candidate Protection Plan May Exclude Two Hopefuls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to provide Secret Service protection for presidential candidates according to their standing in public-opinion polls could exclude two prominent Democratic hopefuls: Sens. George S. McGovern and Henry M. Jackson.

The plan, drawn up Thursday by the Candidate Protection Advisory Commission and likely to be accepted by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, could give protection to the party's most prominent noncandidate, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The protection is unlikely to begin until March 20, which means the current large field of Democratic candidates will have to campaign through the March 7 New Hampshire and March 14 Florida primaries without the aid of the Secret Service.

But those primaries could narrow the field of candidates.

Under the commission proposal, Secret Service protection would be provided starting March 20 to announced candidates receiving at least 5 per cent in either the Harris or Gallup polls, and unannounced candidates receiving 20 per cent in either poll "subject to the legal determination of the secretary of the Treasury under the law."

The most-recent polls show Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey well above 5 per cent, and former Senm Eugene J. McCarthy and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay at or barely above that figure.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, also seeking the Democratic presidential nomination prior to a likely repeat of his 1968 third-party race, has not been measured in the recent Gallup and Harris polls.

Bike Stolen

A mini-bike was reported stolen from a building at 400 S. Main, owned by the Gipson construction co.

Greg Gipson, Rt. 3, told police that the theft occurred sometime Wednesday night. He placed the value of the bike at $200.

Workmen Ruff It

Funds Requested

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Marvin Jones, chairman of the Missouri Public Service Commission, said today he has requested Congress to supply funds for an investigation of several aspects of the telephone industry.

The Federal Communications Commission has declined past requests for such an investigation, Jones said.

In a telegram to members of Congress, Jones urged that an investigation focus on four points:

—Allocation of costs between interstate and intrastate calling.

—Consequences of allowing competition from specialized communication companies.

—Use of customer-owned equipment.

—Prices and profits of Western Electric, which supplies subsidiaries of American Telphone and Telegraph with equipment.

Jones charged the FCC with failure to carry out its responsibilities in those areas and said only Congressional action could correct that failure.

Signs Of New Tet Offensive Mount

SAIGON (AP) — Sharp fighting broke out today only 10 miles from Saigon in one of the closest battles to the capital since the enemy's Tet offensive of 1968, the Saigon military radio said.

The surprise battle was reported as new intelligence reports indicated the enemy was preparing for a second Tet offensive next month. As a result, the big U.S. military base at nearby Bien Hoa was placed on increased alert.

The Saigon military radio reported two battalions of South Vietnamese rangers battled enemy troops for seven hours beginning at dawn just to the east and southeast of the Quang Trung Military Training Center. This was the scene of heavy fighting in the last Tet offensive.

The radio claimed 23 enemy soldiers were killed in the clash and many important documents were captured. There was no report on South Vietnamese casualties.

Military sources in Saigon were unable to verify the report as given by the military radio.

Field officers said the alert at Bien Hoa, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, was ordered after captured enemy prisoners told interrogators attacks were being planned in that area during Tet, which falls on Feb. 15.

In the central chighlands, North Vietnamese troops were reported moving into positions to encircle a fire base on the frontier. a possible forerunner to a big attack.

The U.S. Command indicated that a higher state of readiness would be ordered shortly for all American forces throughout South Vietnam to guard against increased enemy rocket, mortar, sapper and terror attacks during Tet.

The command also reported the 20th air strike inside North Vietnam this year and the loss of two American aircraft due to mechanical failures.

Killing Of 2 Policemen Called Assassination

NEW YORK (AP) — Two young city policemen, who had been Marine Corps buddies in Vietnam, were fatally shot Thursday night in what officials called an "out-and-out assassination."

Deputy Police Commissioner Robert Daley said the two men had walked past their killers on a street in Manhattan's East Village and were shot in the back.

The officers had volunteered for one of the city's new neighborhood police teams and had asked to be partners because of their experiences together in Vietnam.

Sgt. Frederick Reddy, commander of the team, called them "two of the best men we had—young, aggressive, intelligent...tough but fair."

Witnesses told police they saw three men fleeing from the scene, one of them waving a gun aloft and firing into the air as if in glee. The attackers took the service revolvers of both policemen.

A police artist went to work on composite sketches of the three men, although there were no witnesses to the shooting itself.

The fatal shootings were the first of New York City patrolmen this year. Nine were killed in the line of duty last year.

Police scoured the area and within an hour of the 10:50 p.m. shooting had seized at least 30 men, some armed, for questioning. None was listed as a suspect, however.

Killed were Patrolman Gregory Foster, 22, who was hit eight times, and his partner, Rocco Laurie, 25, who was hit seven times, police said.

Tree Limbs Down

THIS LARGE TREE on the corner of Tanner St. and Park Ave. came down Thursday afternoon under a heavy load of ice. City work crews began clearing fallen trees early this morning, beginning first with trees blocking streets, according to city officials. Clean up work will continue until all trees and branches are removed.

National Guard Is Prepared Better Today

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. AP - A reorganization of the Missouri National Guard to make it "better prepared than ever before in its history" was announced today by Maj. Gen. L.B. Admas Jr., adjutant general.

He said the reorganization was necessary to keep guard units organized parallel to their regular Army counterparts. Total number of units will be unchanged when the reorganization becomes effective March 1 and authorized strength is approximately the same.

With the reorganization will come such new equipment, including "Huey" helicopters, new model Army personnel carriers, newer communications equipment and other modern items.

WEST GERMANY EDGES TOWARD SOVIETS

"A totally new foreign policy" by West Germany under Chancellor Willy Brandt was the subject of a recent warning talk to the National Press Club in Washington. The speaker was Axel Springer, widely known West German publisher. He said:

"When I discuss today here in Washington the trends of the present West German policies towards Communist Europe, I do so because I fear that by these policies the whole West is endangered.

"If this goes on unchanged, the result will not be a peaceful, prosperous, quiet, united Europe which is a partner of the United States; the result will be rather a Europe whose total resources would be at the disposal of the Soviet Union."

He pointed out that in the West's agreement of Sept. 3, 1971, with the Soviet Government, Berlin was split away from West Germany by acceptance of the Moscow demand that no sessions of the Bonn Parliament nor of the Congress that elects the West German President may take place in Berlin. West Berliners will be allowed to visit East Berlin, but East Berliners will stay forever behind the Wall.

Mr. Springer sees in the new West German treaties with the Soviet and Polish Communist Governments the "first sign of a reversal of alliances," even though "the majority of Europeans and most certainly the majority of my countrymen still hope for the pax Americana (American - dominated peace)."

This is a grave charge. Foreign affairs are too important to the American people to be left entirely in the hands of diplomats. A new Soviet - German alliance would upset the entire coherence of the free world. It cannot be allowed to creep up on us and happen. The time to talk about this trend is now.

Among the numerous items that come across our desk, we noted that the federal government was struck with $13.3 million in unpaid loans to college students as of last Sept. 30.

According to congressional auditors this is a threefold increase in an eight month period.

A lack of forceful collection is officially blamed for this raid on the treasury. Maybe so. Private lenders are not so inclined to let debts slide, as the government in this case seems to do.

The moral of this story is not in the lackadaisical collection, but in the obvious philosophy of these students that "we have a right to an education" and "and the government owes us..." They've not learned their economics lessons, because the money they were loaned came from plain, ordinary taxpayers.

How can integrity and responsibility have escaped so many intelligent young Americans? Where is their sense of personal pride in repaying what belongs to someone else?

To put it bluntly, the delinquent borrower is nothing more than a thief, making off with the tax money of Mr. Citizen.

There are indications that unless further steps are taken to improve the climate for the nation's independent business sector, the anticipated improvement of the economy in 1972 will not materialize.

This conclusion is drawn from the continuous field survey of the National Federation of Independent Business. Currently the data shows a decline in inventory investments, a critical indice.

Dollar value of the inventories held by the independents dropped a significant four points in October over August. The question is asked respondents how inventory dollars compare with the previous year, with no adjustments made for the increased cost of goods. In August, 66 per cent reported higher dollar inventories than in the previous year, but this dropped to 62 per cent in October.

However, the most significant data shows up when the retailers and wholesalers, who account for 72 per cent of the distributive function are stripped out, the margin widens.

In July, 77 per cent of both retailers and wholesalers reported higher dollar inventories but in October this had dropped to 73 per cent for retailers and 72 per cent for wholesalers.

While the investment incentive tax credit will aid all sectors of business, the major need of the independent business sector, according to Federation surveys, appears to be legislation to permit tax credits to build up inventories due to the erosion of inventory capital over the past two years through higher taxes and inflation. Increased manufacturing capacity anticiapted from the investment credit incentive will require a healthy distributive system.

The prevailing problem is tersely stated by the owner of an Ohio shoe store who says, "I'm rather new at running a small business, since my husband passed away a year ago. As new as I am, I have learned a few things. It is difficult to get ahead of the taxes, just when you think you have a few extra dollars, taxes takes it. The average employer cannot compete with union wages to hire new and good help, nor offer all union benefits. I employnine women, several on Social Security, and I believe they should earn more than $1,680 if physically able. As a recent widow I could not raise my three teenage children, one in college with Social Security benefits alone, therefore I'm grateful to be able to carry on my husband's business for extra income.

"This is far from a gripe letter, for I'm thankful for what we work for. I would say my way of life, as a small independent retailer, with a mortgaged home, and three children is average, but each day it gets a little harder."

UNVEILING MARS' SECRETS

Predicting earth's weather sometimes seems to be more of an art than a science. Men still have so much to learn about the stupendously complex mechanics of atmospheric phenomena.

Yet today, this early in the brief history of the space age, we are taking for granted daily weather reports from another planet.

Mariner 9, sent into orbit around Mars (another miracle accepted as a matter of course), is not designed to function as a weather satellite. Its mission is to scan the Martian surface with its television eyes and relay photographs back to earth which may tell scientists if there are any areas on the red planet that could support life.

But little Mariner's arrival happened to coincide with the worst dust storm — at least, they think it's a dust storm — on Mars that astronomers have ever observed. Thus its first asignment has been to photograph this conspicious aspect of Martian "Weather."

Mariner will also record, and perhaps help explain, the mysterious waves of darkenings which creep down from the Martian poles each spring. More weather in the form of some kind of precipitation?

Two Russian probes follow hard upon Mariner, and one or both will attempt soft landings. If they are as successful as Mariner, we may soon be able to say of Mars what is said of the moon — that we know more about it than we do about the bottom of our own oceans.

ENERGY—SAVING BUILDINGS URGED

The United States will have fewer power shortages and less air pollution if its buildings are designed to stop wasting energy, according to Chas. E. Pack, construction group vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.

"Inefficient buildings are wasting millions of barrels of heating oil, billions of cubic feet of gas and millions of kilowatts of electricity each year. And all of that waste fuel is spewed out into the air as pollution," Mr. Peck asserted.

He mentioned such energy-conserving building elements as reflective windows to reduce air-conditioning loads and greater insulation thicknesses. "Though initially more expensive than standard materials, these products more than make up the difference in conservation of heating fuel and the energy needed for air conditioning," he said.

HERE COMES WALLACE

Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace hasn't quit trying. Here he comes flying into the Florida presidential primary, and hinting of plans to enter those in other states.

The interesting thing is that this year, unlike 1968 when he was touting the American Independent Party, he is choosing to run as a Democratic Party candidate.

Well, for the sake of the American two-party system that's to the good. Along with a covey of other Democratic hopefuls he should make the election interesting. Although Governor Wallace has been hot on the school busing issue and critical of the Supreme Court, he does seem to have simmered down a bit.

His appeal appears to be aimed at middle-class laboring people, as it was four years ago, but this time he has decided that being a third-party candidate is not the best approach.

While President Nixon sits back to wait to see who his opponent will be, Governor Wallace is going to give the herd of Democratic hopefuls a maverick to contend with. That, at least, should strip up some interest in this year's election.——Commercial Appeal.

A new survey by the First National City Bank of New York showed that petroleum company earnings after taxes were slightly below the average for all manufacturing firms during 1968, Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said.

"The mineral, depletion provision, which was enacted in 1926, is the all-time favorite 'whipping boy' of the critics," Ikard continued. "But this provision in our tax law to encourage the search for oil and other minerals has been reviewed time and time again and been found to be valid.

"It is even more valid today," the API president said, noting that a decrease in exploratory drilling in 1968 continued a 12-year decline. "The need for incentives such as the depletion provision to spur the search for oil was never more urgent, because the nation is using up its proved reserves faster than new supplies are being found."

"Current attackes on percentage depletion can only discourage this search, and discourage investment capital," Ikard noted.

TAX AID URGED BY INDUSTRY IN POLLUTION FIGHT

Equitable tax treatment of industrial pollution control facilities by all levels of government has been urged by a special task force of the National Association of Manufacturers.

State and local tax laws, according to the task force chairman, William J. Harnisch, Legislative Counsel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, frequently penalize the environmental protection efforts of industry and thus have the effect of a "disincentive."

U. S. Red Tape — Federal measures to provide meaningful incentives to install pollution control equipment have been crippled by complicated and time-consuming regulations and restrictions, he said.

In a letter to Dan Throop Smith, chairman of the task force on the impact of tax policy on the environment of The Council on Environmental Quality, Mr. Harnisch made a number of recommendations regarding tax policy at each level of government.

Model Act Needed — Mr. Harnisch said NAM's studies indicated it would be desirable to have a model state act on tax treatment of pollution control facilities. Thirty-seven states now have at least one law on the subject, and there are many variations in the tax relief allowed. In some instances it takes the form of exemptions from real estate and personal property taxation; in others, exemption from sales and use taxes; in still others, an accelerated write-off over a period from one to five years for state income tax and/or franchise tax purposes.

"We strongly urge a model state act incorporating the best features of the existing state laws," he said. He urged that the Council on Environmental Quality recommend such action to the Council of State Governments.

COMMUNISM AND CHILDREN

One of the greatest evils of Communism is its effect on children. Under Communist tyranny, children belong to the state; their whole education and upbringing are designed to make them tools of the state.

In Castro's Cuba, the dictatorial government is not satisfied with stunting the minds of children so that they can be of use when they are older. The Cuban dictator uses children for what essentially amounts to slave labor.

Hundreds of children have been forcibly removed from their homes and brought to the Isle of Pines. There they are made to work on 30,000 acres of citrus fruit trees while living in what are little more than concentration camps. They are indoctrinated in Communist propaganda to make them submissive to this tyranny.

Castro has resorted to forced child labor because many adult members of the work force are chafing under the Communist system. Production has fallen drastically and the Cu an economy is constantly on the verge of collapse. There can be no doubt at all that Cuba is exactly the opposite of a workers' paradise.

But more importantly, the children's slave labor camp is clear proof of Communism's utter disregard for human values. A primary aim of any Communist dictatorship is the destruction of the family, and Castro's Cuba is no exception. It is no surprise that so many parents have risked everything to escape from Cuba in order to safeguard the lives and souls of their children.

Communism is not simply an alternative economic system. It ruthlessly aims for total control of the human person, including helpless children. HLH.

Crackling Election Issue: Meany Fights Nixon's Bid for Compulsory Power to End Bridges' Western Dock Strike

WASHINGTON: -- Two hours before President Nixon drove up the Hill with his State of the Union message, he swiftly scrawled some words into the script --words which will become one of the truly eruptive issues of this Presidential campaign.

"The nation cannot and will not tolerate that kind of irresponsible labor tieup in the future," he wrote, referring to Harry Bridges' harassing West Coast longshore waterfront paralysis.

The next day, after applying hydraulic personal pressure on Secretary of Labor Hodgson, to whip up a written remedy in 24 rather than 72 hours, Mr. Nixon demanded Congressional power to force a settlement.

And AFL-CIO President George Meany, now back on virtually full cigar- and -Nixon-chewing schedule in his eighth-floor office, decided the labor movement would become the immovable object in the way of what traditionally has been Presidential irresistible force.

"We will fight it all the way," said one of Meany's colleagues -- a fully authorized source -- referring to Mr. Nixon's ultra-emergency demand for Congress to empower him to ask Labor Secretary Hodgson to appoint a three-man arbitration board to dictate a settlement.

"We will not buy compulsory arbitration against anyone, any place for any reason. The fact that it is aimed at Harry Bridges (whose left-wing union was ousted from the CIO --VR makes no difference. It is consistent with the policy the federation (AFL-CIO) always has taken. And we're also opposed to his other proposed legislation for the long haul."

This was a jab at what President Nixon now has begun calling the Crippling Strikes Prevention Act, on which he said Congress has been dragging its feet for two years.

And for full measure, the labor federation will oppose confirmation of Judge George (Gid) Boldt as Pay Board chairman. So phase two of the Battle of Bal Harbour continues. Once more Meany, now well rested, and Mr. Nixon will go eyeball to eyeball.

Meany's war cry is they shall not pass --neither the oneshot legislation aimed at the West Coast longshoremen nor the broader bill which would affect all transport by subjecting transportation strikes to final and binding arbitration. Meany always counts the votes before he moves and presumably he believes he has the votes in the Congress and on its key labor committees to checkmate the President.

This confrontation could determine how many votes Mr. Nixon or Meany's candidate gets in November -- which is the final and binding count for the career of each of these powerful men.

There's some obvious political skimming here for the President. Again it is he against the cigar-chomping curmudgeon and the labor troops. It is he -- Mr. Nixon -- who is championing the farmers whose grain has wasted and rotted in fields, small town streets and over-spilled silos. And he can show that he has gone all the way including talking to the 70-year-old Bridges face to face.

It was Bridges who said, a few minutes after the President demanded compulsory arbitration legislation, "Any legislation proposed by the President will not settle the strike." Meaning, of course, that Harry, a little more polished than in the old bloody Embarcadero general strike days, was telling the Congress and the President to go to hell.

But the President is uptight on this one for other than political reasons. As one of his intimates said the other day when asked why the President had scrawled the anti-strike words into the State of the Union speech – which was extraordinarily unusual:

"Well, every time it looked like we might have a settlement --which Bridges once said we'd have in a week – it would blow. This could have serious long-range effects not only on the economy in California but across the nation. We were just showing recovery from aerospace layoffs. This is a critical moment. Unemployment there is over 6 per cent. Everybody is getting hurt."

What disturbs the President are reports disclosing the strike is costing the 24 West Coast ports – aside from those in Alaska and Hawaii -- some $24 million daily in cargo losses.

As the President put it, "There is an increasing danger that some of these trade losses will become permanent.....Japan, a billion dollar market for agricultural imports, has already asked other suppliers to step up production so that it can lessen its dependence on American exports."

During the previous West Coast 100-day longshoreman strike late last year, U.S. farmers lost to Japan alone 25 million bushels of wheat worth $40 million. On Jan. 19, hours after the Bridges strike crippled the ports again, Japan bought 8.7 million bushels of what for delivery in March and April -- mostly from Canada and Australia. Only 1.6 million bushels were ordered from the U.S.

That's what's got the President uptight. That's why he used words such as "I am determined that we shall end it at once."

But this will depend on who has the votes on the Hill in coming days – not in the precincts this coming November.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Poor Man's Philosopher:

"I am a shy and modest maiden, the only one left in our neighborhood, my mother says.

"But I am tired of being single. I want to get married like all my girl griends have, and spend all day lying on the sofa reading books on astrology or playing gin rummy with the janitor. But I don't know how to win a husband. Since this is Leap Year, can you tell me how to break the ice and land a man?

Weary Wallflower."

Dear Wallflower,

Despite your reticent nature, I think you should be able to get a man to wed you if you simply modernize your views on marriage.

The kind of marriage you visualize rarely exists any more.

You speak of becoming a wife and spending the day on a sofa studying your astrological chart or playing gin rummy with the janitor. How quaint and old-fashioned. You are over 12, aren't you?

Marriage isn't like that anymore. The success of the women's liberation movement has turned things topsy turvy. It isn't the wife who stays home and slops around the house in bedroom slippers all day. It's the husband.

You probably think of a husband as a man pretty much like your father, a man who worked himself to death early trying to earn enough money so his wife could keep up with Mrs. Jones.

Well, get with it, honey. There aren't any men like that left.

What you have to settle for, dear, is a new-fashioned man. This is the kind of man who doesn't want to fight the liberated woman.

You can't win this new type of man by winsome charms or romantic appeals. His attitude toward marriage is cold, crass and realistic—just the same attitude that women used to have before they lost their minds and decided to run the world rather than relax and enjoy it.

I suggest that if you have found the man of your dreams you simply make him the following Leap Year speech:

"Harry, baby, you're living in a fool's paradise, letting all those girls turn your silly head with their gifts of roses and candy. Yes, they're willing to wine and dine you now, but when your good looks fade they'll go for a newer and prettier face and leave you with nothing but a hatful of stale memories.

"Harry, I got a better deal for you, honey. I want to marry you. Now, don't look so startled, honey. Here, let me light you up a four-bit cigar.

"I don't want a fly-by-night affair with you, pet. I want to work my heart to the bone forever for you. I'm making $15,000 a year now. I'll buy you more expensive suits and a snazzier apartment. You can spend every day improving your pool game if you want to, honey, just so you're home when I get there.

"I won't turn you out when you're old and gray and 60, Harry. My $150,000 insurance policy matures then, and you can have it all, my captivating darling. Oh, please, say yes!"

He'll say yes, all right. It would be cheaper for you to buy a cat and become an old maid. But if you want a husband today, Miss Wallflower, you have to move with the times and make it worth his while—or some other liberated woman will.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- The South Vietnamese are now so hostile toward Americans that U. S. commanders are warning their troops to stay off the treets.

We have already disclosed from calssified surveys that the people, for whom American boys have fought and died, are now overwhelmingly anti-American.

Inevitably, their smoldering emotions have boiled over into demonstrations and violence. In sheaf after sheaf of memos and classified reports, U.S. civilian and military bigwigs have cited this accelerated animosity.

A typical memo was issued by Brig. Gen. Willard Scott to billet occupants in the Saigon area. Titled "Vietnamese-US Relations," the Scott memo warns:

"There has been a marked increase in recent weeks throughout Vietnam of apparently innocuous incidents raising tensions and mushrooming into a major confrontation between US and Vietnamese personnel.... Such an occurrence took place last week.

"An accidental splashing of mud on a Vietnamese woman quickly aroused the anger of local nationals. Tempers flared, and a mob quickly gathered, barricading streets and threatening to burn a U.S. installation.

"Similar violence from otherwise inconsequential incidents is likely to occur in the coming weeks. This can be avoided by diminishing the evidence of theAmerican presence on the streets of theSaigon/Cholon/Tan Son Nhut areas.

"U.S. military personnel are advised to 'play it safe.' We ask that all personnel make only those trips which are really essential....Live by the adage, 'discretion is the better part of valor."

A classified "Program Review" states that the potential for such violence exists in every province in South Vietnam, in the cities and countryside alike.

Backing up this secret report, Col. William Humphrey, acting Chief of Staff, Third Regional Assistance Command, warned his men in a recent daily bulletin that "assaults of US forces by ARVN (Vietnamese Army) personnel have been increasing....

"The seriousness of these incidents and the potential impact in terms of loss of life, injuries and damage to cooperation between US and ARVN personnel are obvious."

In summary, American troops in Vietnam are not only fighting a rear guard action against the communists, but must be wary of the South Vietnamese as well, whom the U.S. is supposed to be defending from communism.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Soviet Spy -- U.S. intelligence sources tell us the cultural mission, which brought the Soviet arts and crafts exhibit to Washington, included a ringer. The exhibition's deputy director, Pavel Gevorkyan, say our sources, is a "three-letter man," meaning he works for the KGB, the Soviet secret intelligence agency. The dark-complexioned, nattily dressed Armenian admitted to us he works for Novosti press agency, a well-known cover in Moscow for the KGB. But Gevorkyan heatedly denied he works for the KGB, spluttering: "This is a silly question. I don't like this kind of provocation.

Gas Bills - Householders, who are worried over their rising gas bills, have been assured by the Nixon Administration that it is conducting an independent, impartial survey on the need for high-cost synthetic gas in this country. But the impartiality of the survey should be weighed against our telephone call to the office of Emergency Preparedness which is conducting the study. We asked for the questionnaire on which the study is to be based. To our astonishment, we were referred to the American Gas Association. This group is made up of the gigantic gas companies, which stand to profit most from the import of synthetic gas and the resulting rise in gas bills. The Association's gas supply manager, Ed Hardy, acknowledged to us that not only was he mailing out the forms, but that the gas moguls had drafted the final version of the government questionnaire.

Romance and Espionage -- The French weakness for women has resulted in a spy scandal in the French military attache's office in Prague. The affair has been hused up, but the U.S. military attache in Paris has been given the details. In a secret report to the Pentagon, the attache has quoted the French adjutant in Prague as confessing under interrogation "that he was not the only one mixed up with women." The French have advised the U.S. attache that they "intend to make a detailed analysis of the entire situation not only in Prague but in other iron curtain countries as well with the intention of tightening security."

Tet offensive -- Intelligence reports continue to warn of another, likely limited Tet offensive next month. A typical report states that "boats will be used to ferry men and supplies across rivers and streams during the offensive" and "labor teams will be used to transport food, weapons and ammunition overland, load and unload boats at river crossings, and remove casualties." The source of this report, an agent inside the Viet Cong, "deduced from discussions with other VC cadre that the offensive was to be launched during Tet, 1972."

Ready For Alert

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force's 1st Airborne Command and Control Squadron waits, as it has for 10 years, for doomsday.

At any hour, day or night, one of its three planes stands fueled and ready for takeoff from a runway only 10 minutes by helicopter from the White House.

Within minutes of alert of impending nuclear attack on the United States, the president and his military command staff could be airborne in one of these flying command posts.

Sophisticated electronics and communications equipment aboard the plane would enable the president to direct the nation's defense and counterattack while cruising more than 40,000 feet above the earth.

The president would be in constant touch with U.S. military commands around the world even if the White House or Pentagon were destroyed in the first wave of a surprise nuclear attack.

An underground sanctuary at Ft. Ritchie, Md., in the Catoctin Mountains, serves as an alternate command post. Or, the president could keep his finger on the nuclear trigger at a hardened underground shelter in Virginia, at the headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command buried deep inside Cheyenne Mountain, Colo., or aboard the flying command posts of the Strategic Air Command.

All are part of an elaborate system designed to maintain uninterrupted control of U.S. air, ground and sea forces under all circumstances.

"Silver Dollar," the code name for the three national emergency airborne command planes based at Andrews AFB, Md., marks its 10th anniversary of operation this year.

Its planes are converted fourengine KC-135 tankers, derived from the commercial Boeing 707 jetliner, which are capable of staying aloft for several days.

Although never used in a real emergency, the planes have piled up thousands of flying hours in simulated alerts.

The Pentagon says the planes are getting old and are too small for the improved electronics computers and communication equipment that has come along in recent years. It wants them replaced with a fleet of seven bigger and more costly Boeing 747 jumbo jets.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird asked Congress this week for $113.8 million to buy four 747s immediately. Two more would be bought next year and the seventh the following year.

With new and bigger planes, Laird explained, "We will be able to obtain greater endurance, more flexibility, larger battle staffs, a larger group of varied experts to support toplevel decision making, and additional space to put improved communication and automatic data-processing equipment as it becomes available."

Laird suggested Soviet weapons developments may have made the existing flying command posts vulnerable to communications blackouts in a nuclear attack.

The presidential command planes are much like the command-post planes operated by the Strategic Air Command since 1961. Pentagon officials indicate the SAC fleet also may be replaced with 747s in the future.

For The Birds

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Prison is for the birds, says an ex-con who can prove it.

Charles Jeffries has parlayed a parrot training program into a parole, a $25,000 business and a passport to freedom for other prisoners.

He is now instructor of animal psychology at the Institute for Men at Chino, Calif., a minimum security prison.

The 50-year-old Jeffries was serving 18 months at Chino on a securities law violation in 1968 when he hit on the animal rehabilitation project.

He had worked animals acts before, specializing in parrots, and won approval to start an informal training club. It mushroomed and he submitted an outline for a federal grant.

Jeff Wood, manager of Sarasota's Jungle Gardens, had done his college thesis on correctional rehabilitation. He heard about Jeffries' program and made the job contact for Jeffries with the California prison system.

"This was about the only thing of its kind going on in the country," said Wood. "The more I learned about it, the more I was impressed."

Jeffries said in three years 125 prisoners have taken his course and 100 have been paroled. Two have been arrested and returned to jail, he said.

"Inside you see men with high IQs, sitting in a cell rotting," said the Palm Springs, Calif., man. "Nothing to motivate them."

When they are granted parole, he said, they're given a few bucks, a pat on the back and they're back in a cellblock in a year.

"All they needed to learn was self-control and work habits," he explained.

"It's a wonder he didn't con the judge out of his gavel," Don DeSaw, one of Jeffries' pupils at Chino, said with a grin.

The 35-year-old DeSaw is a recent parolee who spent 10 years behind bars.

"I'll never be rich, but I got a job and a choice of dressing on my salad," he said Wednesday at Jungle Gardens, a tourist attraction where Jeffries found DeSaw a job.

Jeffries came with DeSaw from the coast to set up the show at Jungle Gardens. They brought five trained parrots.

"In prison I was withdrawn, afraid if somebody said the wrong thing I'd erupt," Desaw said.

He said he took the animal training course and forgot the hostilities.

"I learned if you work smoothly with them the response is good. They reflect your attitudes," DeSaw said.

Counter-Advertising Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you've ever wanted to talk back to your television set when a particularly stupid commercial came on, you soon may get your chance.

That's the word from Federal Trade Commission Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick who told a consumers' organization today that guidelines are being considered to give prime air time to people who want to gripe about products.

Kirkpatrick urged the Consumer Federation of America, which opened a three-day convention here, to get behind the "counter-advertising" idea by coordinating a program with its 192 member groups to answer objectionable product promotions on television.

The television campaign which the American Cancer Society staged against cigarette advertising is evidence that counter-advertising is workable, Kirkpatrick said in a statement.

The FTC is encouraging the counter-advertising concept, but it is up to the Federal Communications Commission to set up the ground rules, he explained.

Close Route J Feb. 1

W. H. Shaw, district engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department at Sikeston has announced that Route J in Dunklin County will be closed to through traffic between Route JJ and Route H in Dunklin County on February 1.

The closing of Route J is necessary for the construction of a new bridge on Drainage Ditch No. 12. This work is part of a $500,935.80 roadway improvement on Routes 53 and J. J. W. Githens Company of Poplar Bluff is the contractor on this project.

It is anticipated the project will be completed by late fall 1972.

Blind Couples Son Has Disease, May Go Blind

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Two-year-old Tommy Davis of St. Joseph has a disease that may cause blindness by the time he reaches maturity but his parents don't consider it an overwhelming affliction.

Tommy's parents are blind.

Thomas A. Davis, sightless since birth, thinks "Blindness is not the end of the world." Neither does his wife, Joan.

Davis is a masseur at the St. Joseph YMCA and maneuvers freely around this city of 72,000 located on the Missouri River about 50 miles north of Kansas City.

He and his wife agree their biggest concern is "other blind people who have not had the opportunity to become self-sufficient."

Tom and Joan Davis manage their lives with the confidence of those who can see, possibly because they are both natives of Iowa, one of the most advanced states in treatment of the blind.

Tom attended the Iowa Braille and Sightseeing School at Vinton and the Iowa Commission for the Blind in Des Moines. He took special training at St. Paul, Minn., to prepare to be a masseur.

His wife was born with a hereditary disease that meant by the time she was a young woman she could distinguish only light and dark. She began to study Braille at the Des Moines center and learned to be a switchboard operator.

The two met at the center, and married in 1968.

Tom was offered the job in St. Joseph in 1970 and arrived alone in the strange city to prepare a home. "The YMCA and Sammy's Drug Store were my bases and from there I learned the pattern of the downtown streets," he says.

A relative helped him move into a duplex on a bus line, and the Davises learned the layout of their new house and location of electrical outlets.

"We didn't need anyone to show us," Joan explained. "We rely on logic and touch. We discover and we remember. In a few days we felt at home."

Organization and order are key words to a blind person. Even 2-year-old Tommy has learned that. He is allowed to strew his toys around the house during the day, but he puts them away at naptime and night.

Joan accomplishes the housework by touch, cleaning the floors on her hands and knees. "This way I feel with one hand and scrub with the other and know when things are clean," she says.

Grocery shopping is Tom's job. He is familiar with one store, and traces the raised numbers on the bottom of cans with his fingers to identify the contents.

The Davises are proud they are bringing up their son on their own. They both became good at bathing, changing and feeding him as a baby.

When he became a toddler, they were careful about objects that could hurt him. Tommy seems to understand his parents' handicap, and follows their directions explicitly. He is showered with affection, and giggles through many roughhouse sessions with his father.

Like all kids he brings his father broken toys to fix, and Tom handily replaced a wheel on a plastic lawnmower.

The Davises love to read and subscribe to Braille periodicals. They have an audio-reader hook-up with Kansas University. Tom plays the piano mostly by ear, and has written about 40 songs. The Davises love to swim, fish and go camping. They are movie and television fans, which they say they enjoy more than one would think.

They recently organized a St. Joseph chapter of the National Federation of the Blind to encourage others without sight toward self-sufficiency.

Although their small ton Tommy can see, he is afflicted with the same disease that made his mother go blind. Medical techniques may slow his visual regression.

But if Tommy does lose his sight, his parents don't consider it a tragedy. They don't think blindness is the end of the world.

Short Work Session Little Accomplished

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bad weather and worsening road conditions cut the Missouri Legislature's session short Thursday with little work accomplished.

Before quitting for the weekend after less than an hour, the Senate moved into position for later passsage a bill to revamp the present retirement systemfor state employes and legislators.

Sponsors say it is being offered as an alternative to a pay increase because state workers would have more take home pay.

State employes would no longer have to contribute toward their pensions and the state would pay $10 per worker to finance a health, accident and life insurance program. Basic benefits would remain unchanged.

Legislators would have their contributions increased from 4 to 5 per cent and their pensions would increase 25 per cent from $30 to $37.50 a month under their separate and more liberal retirement formula.

There was little debate as the bill moved ahead with less than a quorum present.

The Senate tried to take up an important environmental bill that would set up a system of solid waste disposal controls under the stae health division.

Before the bill was alid over because of its controversial nature, the senate defeated an amendment that would have exempted third and fourth class counties from the proposed system. They make up most of the state's area.

Also laid over because of a shortage of members was a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges and another to set up a public defender system along different lines than in a pending house bill.

Sho-Me Power Rate Increase

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission today approved a temporary 17 per cent rate increase for Sho-Me Power Corp. of Marshfield.

The utility provides power in 26 south and Central Missouri counties.

The company said it will seek a permanent rate hike because of a $879,694 deficit in its last fiscal year due to a rate hike granted its supplier, Associated Electric Cooperative Inc.

The PSC said if the rate increase proves excessive, the company will later have to make refunds to its customers.

Sho-Me supplies wholesale power to the communities of Ava, Cabool, Cuba, Ft. Leonard Wood, Houston, Lebanon, Mansfield, Mountain View, Newburg, Richland, Salem, Seymour, St. Robert, Steelville, Sullivan, Waynesville, Willow Springs and Winona.

It also serves about 7,500 retail customers in and around Conway, Camdenton, Doniphan, Diggins, Fordland, Linn Creek, Marshfield, Mountain Grove, Niangua, Northview, Phillipsburg and Rogersville.

Wider Opportunities For Area Girl Scouts

The Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council, in conjunction with the National Council, is facing its responsibility through the Wider Opportunities Program, as a leader in providing for the youth of our area the training, the experience, and the broad outlook so necessary in the life of the well adjusted youth of today. This scouting organization has taken the lead in moving into the field of Social Issues by preparing our youth to meet these issues through training.

1971 was a year brimfull of opportunities for the youth of the Cotton Boll Council. Eighty-three Cotton Boll Girl Scouts were privileged to participate in programs ranging from a fun filled educational trip to Washington, D. C.; live on a plantation setting in North Carolina while experiencing an adventure in the world of arts; attendance of the First Human Relations Conference on the campus of University of New Mexico where the scouts came to know themselves; participating in and planning of a special event entitled "The Road Not Taken", attendance of a State Youth Environmental Quality Conference on a college campus, to a troop experience of a week's stay in the wilds of Wyoming.

1972 has started off with a bang. Miss Liz Ann Davis, Cadette Girl Scout of East Prairie has been selected for an event in New Jersey "Footprints in the Jersey Sands!" The following girls have been selected by Cotton Boll Council as applicants for 1972 Wider Opportunities:

Miss Barbara Meredith, Caruthersville, "Treasure Trails; Miss Lynne Baldwin, Poplar Bluff, "Florida Potpourri"; Miss Melodie Powell, Sikeston, "International Opportunity"; Miss Melodie Powell, Sikeston, "Petticoats, "Pot", & Politics"; Miss Michele Fugate, Sikeston, "Tropical Seas"; Miss Megan Wright, Caruthersville, "Trophical Seas"; Miss Susan Dement, Sikeston, "New Mexico mystique"; Miss Kimberly Wolf, Poplar Bluff, "Kentuckian Pedal Pusher"; Miss Caroline Moore, Sikeston, "Kentuckiana Pedal Pushers"; Miss Sheila Hellman, Kennett, "Kentuckiana Pedal Pushers".

On April 29th the Girl Scouts of American will join with the Boy Scouts of America and Keep America Beautiful, Inc., as co-sponsors f of "Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day." This day has been set aside for a massive anti-litter drive focusing attention on the proportions of the litter problem and the benefits of recycling for environmental improvement. Leaders of the business field, labor, government, conservation and national civic organizations have joined forces with the Scouting Organizations in support for the effort.

On July 2nd fifteen Girl Scouts from this Council will be wished a Bon Voyage as they depart from Nassau Harbor on a weeks Caribbean Cruise in the Bahamas. Aboard will be girls interested in oceanography marine ecology, sailing, shell collecting, skin diving, and fishing. The girls attending are: Caroline Moore, Sikeston; Amy Johnson, Caruthersville; Ann Merritt, Kennett; Barbara Miltenberger, Kennett; Candy Poe, Dexter; Linda Greene, Dexer; Sharon DeArman, Dexter; Deborah Pope, Essex; Marshal Dement, Sikeston; Becky Thomason, Charleston; Mary Schuerenberg, Essex; Sondra Little, Gideon; Rosemary Alsup, Sikeston; Alice Franks, Kennett; Karen Lawrence, Dexter.

This year the Girl Scouts of America will celebrate their Sixtieth Anniversary Year. The organization has gone a long way from the cookie baking outdoor image of the past. Today, it takes quite a mature young lady to be a Senior Girl Scout ... It takes years of learning by doing through the program. Wise are the girls who see the advantages of the Girl Scout Program, and wise are the parents who know the depth of training and opportunity available through the Girl Scout Program.

Japan Has Olympic Bunnies

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Keiko Okudaira giggled, blushed and said it takes a tall, dark and handsome man to catch the eye of the Japanese girl.

"I think most of us prefer the slim figure-skating type—not the big bobsledders," she added.

"Clean cut, not much hair, no mustaches and beards," said Misako Date, 21, who can speak articulately in six languages.

"Dark like the Italians and French, not blond like the Scandinavians," said Keiko Akiyama, 21, who has the biggest and most expressive brown eyes in all of Japan.

The two Keikos and Misako are part of the 600-member hostell corps serving as interpreters and aides for the 1,089 athletes from 35 nations, thousands of badge-wearing officials and visitors descending on this remote island outpost for the XI Winter Olympic Games.

They are the "Olympic bunnies."

They move about this festooned winter wonderland like Oriental dolls, always at one's elbow for any emergency. Wind them up and like toys they move with graceful mincing steps, bow, smile and say, "please," "so sorry" and "thank you."

They are the cream of Japanese young womanhood, most of them college girls ranging in age from 18 to 23, few much more than five feet tall, personable, demure and almost indistinguishable in their tall fur hats, black pants suits and snow-white fur-collared coats.

Fifty of the more mature hostesses serve as companions for the Olympic officials and their families, the other 550 performing as interpreters and office personnel at the Olympic Village, press center and various venues.

For most of them it is a great adventure—exposure to the world's most glamorous snow and ice competitors—but promiscuity among them is said to be virtually non-existent.

"You must remember these girls are from the best families," said Marilyn Barber, an English teacher from San Francisco serving as an interpreter in the Olympic headquarters.

Ann Landers

Cruel Mother Needs Counseling

Dear Ann Landers' As I was walking along a busy downtown street, I noticed a woman (no lady) ahead of me, screaming at her child to walk faster. The little girl was no more than three years old. The mother threatened to kick thechild to the next bus stop if she didn't hurry up. Then the mother proceeded to hit the youngster on the head with her purse. As if that wasn't enough she literally kicked the little girl in the backside, causing her to stumble. The poor little thing dirtied her white stockings when she fell. Her mother gave her a hard slap across the cheek for being clumsy.

By this time I was furious. I hurried to catch up with them so that I might give the mother a look of disapproval, but she ignored me. By then I was nearing the parking lot and decided to go to my car and forget the incident. But somehow I can't get it out of my mind. I keep seeing that small child being abused by an insensitive, bully of a mother. What should I have done? Is it proper for a stranger to interfere in a family matter? Please comment. -- Southern Gentleman

Dear Gentleman: That was more than a family matter. It was a case of public injustice and cruelty. Each of us has a responsibility to speak out when we witness brutality.. You should have told the mother that you were sure she didn't realize how hard she was hitting the little girl, and in the interest of her own peace of mind as well as the child's mental health, she should get some counseling.

Dear Ann Landers. I didn't think that letter was very funny -- the one from the bride who gave her husband a vigorous kiss at the altar and yelled, "Turn me loose, will Ya?" The guests all heard and laughed.

When we were married in a large church ceremony my husband didn't kiss me. He just stood there. I was hurt and showed it. Several people mentioned it later and that made the hurt worse. Every time I go to a wedding and see the bride and groom kiss I am reminded that I was a kissless bride and I relive the shame and embarrassment.

Please, Ann, tell all couples that the wedding kiss is the sweetest kiss of all. Those of us who were deprived never forget. --Fort Worth.

Dear F. S.: You told 'em. And I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Do millions of people a favor and print the address of Gamblers Anonymous. It is P. O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, California 90017.

If more people were aware of the help that is available to the compulsive gambler and his family, they would seek it. As one who has lived through hell I can tell you that a gambler's wife gets so desperate after a while she'll try anything. The basic philosophy of Gamblers Anonymous is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous. A.A. has proven that people who share a common problem give one another strength and encouragement. Meeting with folks who have been cured of a sickness is proof that it can be done.

I feel as if my husband owes his life to Gamblers Anonymous. He thinks so, too. Please tell people. Thanks, Ann. --Salvaged

Dear Sal: Here's your letter with an added word from me. Compulsive gambling is as much a sickness as arthritis -- and it can be equally crippling. Gamblers Anonymous has been the answer for thousands. I recommend it and hope your letter generates a zillion responses.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious -- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelopw to this newspaper.

New N.M. Teachers

HOWARDVILLE — New faculty members in New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district are Karen Ann Kramer, Lilbourn, Karen Sue Bagus, Matthews, and Mrs. Barbara Lee Stallings, Matthews.

Pride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy and sloth are the seven capital or deadly sins.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Mend Stretch in Shorts By Adding New Elastic

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. J. H. T. could add a new length of ½-inch elastic to the waistbands of her husband's shorts. Stitch to the elastic already on them as that is quicker than ripping off the stretched-out band. Stretch both the old and the new out fully and stitch the new on the old by machine as you stretch. The new band will draw up the old with it and careful stitching will give a flat job with no bulkiness, all in quick time.—TESSIE

DEAR POLLY—My answer to Mrs. J. H. T.'s stretched elastic problem is to never stretch elastic when it is wet. Hang all elastic-topped articles upside down to dry. I have been washing men's shorts for more than 20 years for my husband and three sons and always have worn-out shorts with still good elastic that can be used on pajamas and the like.—MRS. L. E. C.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I hope someone can tell me how to wash a raincoat that is stained with newsprint. Dry cleaning did not remove it.—C. B.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with parents and organizations who send children out to sell tickets without instructions about overlapping territories or how to approach people when wanting to make a sale. Within five minutes two groups rang my doorbell and with the same approach: "Would you like to buy a ticket to ——?" One little girl came, saying, "Would you like some candy?" and I did not know if she was selling it or giving it away, whether or not it was store bought or homemade nor what she was selling it for.—A. B. C.

DEAR POLLY—Recently our church installed new carpeting and there were many small scraps left. One of our members suggested cutting these into strips to fit in the bottom of the hymn book racks. Now the loud clunking of hymn books being returned to their racks is muffled. Naturally, if I get a Polly Dollar it will go to our church.—MRS. C. M.

Shirley Chisholm Says She Has Brain Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shirley Anita Chisholm nodded toward the chamber of the House of Representatives and said: "They laughed at me seven months ago when I said I might run; but they're not laughing now."

In the House cloakroom, congressmen greeted her, "Hi, Shirley!" The eyes of the first black woman to run for president of the United States flashed as if she had taught a big bully a thing or two.

The Brooklyn-born congresswoman, 47, had returned from a swing through Florida and California to test the political waters. She found them just fine.

"Fantastic, fantastic, fantastic," she described public reception to her plan to announce that she will seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I don't give them warmedover rallies, over-heated cliches or plant nice young women to start the hoopla to make people forget the issues," the New York Democrat said in an interview.

The trim, 100-pound exschoolteacher in 1969 became the first black woman in the U.S. Congress, representing Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant ghetto.

As a freshman she shook up Capitol Hill protocol by challenging the seniority system— she calls it the senility system—and refusing to accept an assignment on the Agriculture Committee's forestry subcommittee. She finally won a seat on the Education and Labor Committee that she considered more relevant to her constituents.

White colleagues haven't been alone in feeling the sting of Mrs. Chisholm's temper. She drew herself up to her full 5foot-4 frame and angrily scolded black leaders at a public meeting last year for leaving her out of a panel discussion on political strategy.

While other black politicians talk about the need to build black political organizations, Mrs. Chisholm talks of a coalition of women, blacks, Chicanos, Indians, Orientals, the young and the poor to squeeze out a better deal from the major parties.

"While they're rapping and napping, I'm mapping," she tells audiences.

One problem that bothers her is news coverage of her campaign. "The Gallup poll people seldom include me in their polls, and the news media don't consider me a serious contender because in the first place I'm not white and worse than that, I'm not male," she said.

In her autobiography, "Unbought and Unbossed," Mrs. Chisholm, the eldest of three daughters born to West Indian parents from the Barbados, described the economic nardships the family went through during the 1920s in New York.

Her mother took the girls to live in Barbados for five years until her husband could save enough money to support the family in the United States.

Mrs. Chisholm is not unduly modest: "I have the brain power. I went through college all on scholarships. I'm a near genius with an I.Q. of 150 or 151." She has a bachelor's degree from Brooklyn College and a master's degree from Columbia University. She majored in sociology and early childhood education.

Mrs. Chisholm married a Jamaican, Conrad Chisholm, a special investigator. They have no children.

The congresswoman, who claimed she has been oppressed more as a woman than as a black, said that if there were more women in politics it would be possible to start cleaning up the system.

Will a lack of money hurt her chances? Mrs. Chisholm said she believes that money isn't everything in politics, but she conceded it's nice to have some around the campaign office. "One candidate said to me: 'Shirley, if you had the money, we might be frightened.'"

Deadline For Nursing Program At Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. -- A deadline has been established for applications for admittance to the second class in the Associate Degree Nursing Program of Three Rivers Community college, Paul H. Hillis, dean of the Division of Occupational Education, announced today.

All applications must be in the hands of the director of admissions by February 18. That applies to new applications and re-applications by those who were not accepted last summer for the first nursing education class. Those not accepted in the first class must re-apply to be considered for the second class, Hillis said.

Two other dates are important to applicants, he pointed out. The first is March 4 when the Missouri College Placement Test will be given, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the Poplar Bluff Senior High School cafeteria. The test must be taken before admittance by all who have not had the test previously. On March 5 the Henmon- Nelson Test will be given in the auditorium of the college Academic Building.

Interviewing of applicants for the nursing education class will be conducted the weeks of April 3 and April 10, Monday through Friday. Those selected will be notified by mail.

The second class, as in the case of the first one, will be limited to 20 students under the terms of the provisional accreditation by the Missouri State Board of Nursing. One new requiremtnt is being established for the second class. Those accepted will start their studies in the summer session by taking Integrated Life Sciences I before the beginning of other studies in the fall semester. The first year's experience indicated that this would be of benefit to most students.

The Three Rivers Community College nursing education program leads to an Associate Degree in Nursing on successful completion of two years of study in classrooms and laboratories and supervised experience in hospitals. The degree qualifies the graduate to take the state examination for certification as a registered nurse.

Women Can Join ROTC At MU

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri-Columbia will accept enrollment of women students in the Air Force ROTC program, Col. Joseph Connolly, professor of aerospace studies, has announced.

Dr. Herbert W. Schooling, interim chancellor, has approved the new program through which women cadets may earn commissions with their degrees.

Recruiting operations will begin immediately with a view of attracting women into the twoyear program next fall. Freshmen and sophomore students may now enroll in general military course classes.

Col. Connolly said women cadets will complete the same Air Force courses and have the same opportunities as other cadets enrolled in the non-flying program.

The coeds also may compete for two-year and three-year scholarships that provide full tuition, fees, textbook allowances and $100 monthly subsistence allowances for the full period of the scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wrather

Wrather-Wibbenmeyer

A candlelit altar decorated by two large bouquets of white mums formed the background for the Jan. 8 wedding of Joanie Wibbenmeyer and Richard Wrather in the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church. Father Justin Monaghan performed the double ring ceremony at seven in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Wibbenmeyer of Sikeston and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earlin Wrather of Canalou.

Mrs. Richard St. Mary of New Madrid sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day O'Beautiful Mother." Mrs. Carl Schorle provided the music.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a Victorian styled gown of winter white peau de soie. The bodice stand up collar and cathedral train were trimmed trellising lace. The Camelot sleeves were also trimmed in the same lace.

She wore a satin bow headpiece with lace petals and leaves with pearls and crystals. The headpiece was secured with an attached three tiered veil of English illusion. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white rose buds.

The maid of honor was Miss Mickey Bass of Memphis and Mrs. Karen Wibbenmeyer of Cape Girardeau was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Debbie Carter, Mrs. Rose Mary Dickhans of Indiana, and Mrs. Marty Boyer.

Junior bridesmaids was Miss Shirley Wibbenmeyer, sister of the bride.

The groom chose for his best man, Charles Wibbenmeyer of Cape Girardeau. Groomsmen were Randy Porter, John Dickhans of Indiana, Bobby Wrather of Canalou and Charles Irwin. Rickey Wrather, Jr., son of the groom, carried the rings.

Kenny and Rickey Wibbenmeyer, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Mary Miles of Vanduser attended the guest book.

The reception was held following the ceremony in the Knights of Columbus hall. A buffet luncheon was served by Connie Bolden, Mrs. Susan Miller and Mary Wrather of Canalou.

After a brief wedding trip the couple returned to their home at 208 Wakefield.

A rehearsal dinner was given Jan. 7 at the Rustic Rock by the groom's parents.

Out of town guests were Margie Theophilus of Dexter; Mr. and Mrs. Barney Blankenship of Catron; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Faulkner of New Madrid; Mr. and Mrs. John Jansen, Miss Carol Balsman, all of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Odell Wrather of Oran; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lumsden of Canalou; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McCollum, Maggie Lathum, all of Matthews; Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Ponder, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ponder, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ponder, all of Perryville; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ponder of St. Ann; Mr. and Mrs. John Probst of Vanduser; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Seiler of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schnurbusch, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Schloss, all of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Balsman of Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shy of Chaffee; Mrs. Vickie Chandler, Kim Turner and Nancy Chandler, all of Charleston; Mr. and Mrs. TomMack of Bertrand; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ernst of Morehouse; T. C. Keith and Eva Jean Gamblin both of Portageville.

Hairstylist Bill Dodd has recently returned from Hollywood, Calif. where he received an achievement award for outstanding work in advanced hairstyling and hair chemistry from Redkin, Inc.

"Women demand more today in professional hair care," Dodd said, "and I and my personell try to meet this demand." He is the owner of Mr. Bill's Hairstyling clinic.

Window Treatment Workshop Feb. 29

An area Window Treatment Workshop will be held on February 29 at the Hunter Memorial Presbyterian Church in Sikeston. R. L. Cary, a professional designer from St. Louis, Ed Van Weelden, a representative for a shade manufacturing company, from Cape Girardeau, and area home economists will present what is new in fabric and treatments for windows.

According to Mrs. L. O. Whitworth of Sikeston, member of the planning committee, enrollment for the workshop will be limited to 80 persons. She says that persons interested in attending should contact the University of Missouri Extension Center in Benton, Bloomfield, Charleston, or New Madrid for details on enrolling.

Other persons on the planning committee are Mrs. Edna Francis, Oran; Mrs. Jay Blankenship, Kewanee; Mrs. Don Cain, Essex; and Mrs. Freeman Finley, Charleston.

Cary will explain the making of curtains, draperies, valances, and trims. Van Weelden will demonstrate personally designed treatments for window shades.

Jewel Grady and Rebecca Nistendirk, Area Home Economists from Bloomfield and New Madrid will present information on fibers and fabrics. Fredericka Plummer and Virginia Twitty, Area Home Economists from Charleston and Caruthersville, will show functions and principles of window treatments.

Community Club Meets

CANALOU — Mrs. E. B. Hinson, president of the Canalou Community Club, was the hostess for the January meeting at her home last Wednesday.

Mrs. Hinson called the meeting to order using the gavel presented the club by the Sikeston Production Credit in recognition of the clubs standard of achievement for 1971.

Mrs. Frederick Mitchell read a short poem, "Good Memory Rules", then led the prayer for the devotional.

Mrs. David Croom, treasurer, reported a balance of $166.10 at the end of 1971.

Mrs. Elmer Gruen asked the members to collect glass and newspapers for the 4-H members to take to Sikeston Feb. 12 as part of an ecology project.

The members agreed to help the 4-H club with the birthday party they give every month at the Sells Rest Home in Matthews.

Mrs. Nelson Lumsden, New Madrid county president, reported that the council had given $25 to the memorial fund for Mrs. Goldie Twitty.

Mrs. Croom showed slides and gave a talk about her recent trip to Isreal.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 23. Mrs. Fred Lasters will have the program on "Human Relations".

Lanvin Mixes Bright Colors

PARIS (AP) — The Lanvin lady may choose not to be heard, but she definitely will be seen.

Jules-Francois Crahay, whose summer collection for Lanvin was shown Tuesday, is as colorhappy as ever. He mixes red, kelly green and royal blue, purple, apricot and yellow with what would be reckless abandon in anyone else. But his clothes are young, amusing and can't be missed.

For day, he likes striped jersey, awning or chalk-style and often both together. Pants flop loosely over his very high platform sandals. For the beach there are his jumpsuits with bare backs and halter necks. The aperitif hour calls for long double-breasted blazers or bright wool jackets with short sleeves.

Lanvin's first collection will be presented in New York Monday.

For evening, the fabrics are silk crepe and taffeta. Long crepe dresses in pastel shades are pleated all over, belted at the waist and trail big gathered sleeves.

Dior, who showed Monday, has lots of pants for day too. Designer Marc Rohan likes them very wide and cuffed in wool. They come with big suede and wool three-quarter coats and a miniscule beret in any color.

The new length is at midknee for dresses and just over it for the bulky bathrobe coats. Navy is not only for short freeflowing pea jackets but for just about anything, including little suits with white straw rollers.

At night it's crepe Georgette for long dresses with bare backs and white blazers. And, of course, there are innumerable beautiful dresses, beaded, sequined, embroidered and all with nine-foot scarves.

The name dry ice comes from the fact that solid carbon dioxide does not return to liquid form when it melts. It changes directly into a gas.

Plants and trees are very clever. They breathe without lungs: circulate sap hundreds of feet without a pump or arteries; regulate their life processes without a nervous system or glands; distribute their seeds over great distances via winds and animals; derive energy directly from sunlight. Animals put oxygen and hydrogen together to form water; plants take water apart to get oxygen and hydrogen.
Water Refiner units are engineered also to perform spectacular results everywhere in your home. Our patented process removes impurities, chemicals, minerals, and rust, and filters out unpleasant taste and odors from regular tap water. Although compact, the Water Refiner unit does all these tremendous jobs for all the water used in the home. For more information, call

Yanks Sign Owens

Gary Owens of Vanduser became the third Southeast Missouri athlete to sign a professional baseball contract in the past two years when he inked a bonus pact with the New York Yankees today. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Owens.

The Yankees signed up Greg Buys of Kennett in 1970 and the Kansas City Royals picked up Gideon's Mark Littell in 1971.

Owens, who stared for the Sikeston American Legion team two years ago, will report to the Yanks Hollywood, Fla., training camp in early March.

The 6-foot-3 athlete, who is better known in the bootheel for his basketball talents which led Scott County Central into the state tournament in 1968, led the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association in batting in 1970 with a .500 average while playing at the School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout, Mo. Last season Ownes batted .437.

New York senior scout, Tom Greenwade, got Owens' signature on the contract today. Greenwade has signed such Yankee greats as Micky Mantle, Hank Bauer, Jerry Lumpe, Bill Verdon, Elston Howard and Clete Boyer.

The Yankees drafted Owens in the 15th round of the regular phase of the baseball drafter in June and signed him to a Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.– contract in the Class A division.

Owens, who pitched and played first base in high school and Legion ball, will devote his duties to playing the outfield for the Yanks.

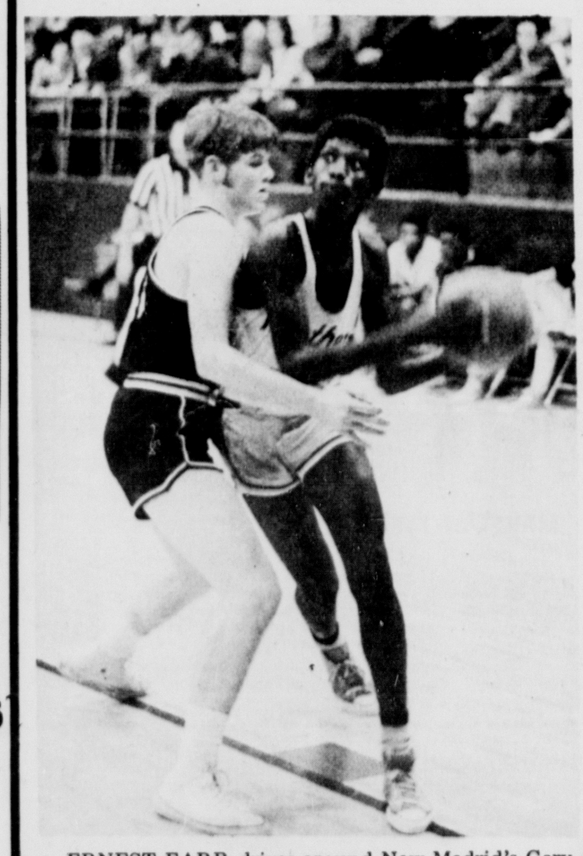
SAM JONES (35) leads a group of Matthews players after a rebound during Thursday night's semifinal round match against New Madrid. The Pirates moved into tonight's varsity division final against Lilbourn with a rousing 72-48 win.



ERNEST FARR drives around New Madrid's Gary Hunter during Thursday night's junior varsity semifinal contest of the New Madrid county tournament at Risco. Farr scored 22 points to lead the Panthers into tonight's title game against the Matthews Pirates at 7 p.m.

Shoot-Out Set

RISCO — Clear the streets ...call the doc, because they'll be a shoot out at the Golden Tiger gymnasium tonight when the Matthews Pirates and Lilbourn Panthers tie up for the New Madrid county tournament championships.

The stage was set and casts let Thursday night when New Madrid was eliminated from the seven team affair. Coach Carroll Compton's Indians suffered a 60-52 setback in its junior varsity tilt against Lilbourn and then the varsity quintet took it on the chin, 74-48 at the hands of neighboring Matthews.

New Madrid's JV cagers made a late game bid for victory, but a 16 point lead the Panthers had build early in the second half was too much to overcome. Lilbourn held on for the narrow eight point win and get a chance to redeem themselves against the top seeded MHS cagers tonight at 7 p.m. in the JV title game. The Pirates beat the Panthers one point during the regular season.

Edward Farr pumped in 22 points to head up the Panther offense. Frank Phillips scored 24 for the Indians top effort and high game honors.

Matthews had a rather easy time with New Madrid in the night's varsity tilt as the Indians were playing their first game without the services of their leading scorer and rebounder, Richard Williams.

Coach Sam Wiggins' Pirates breezed to a 20-8 first quarter lead and then out-scored the Tribe in each of the next three quarters to record the victory.

Earl McCaster and Audie Davis teamed for 40 of the Pirates points, scoring 29 and 21 respectively, in leading the MHS cagers into the title bout.

Matthews was playing its second game since losing the services of big center, Raymond Bledsoe.

ABA Stars Assemble

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Disgruntled by the "black tie affair" but safe from the thunder of Archie Bunker, the American Basketball Association's top stars converged on Louisville today to prepare for Saturday night's 5th Annual ABA All-Star game.

Some players came grumbling over having to dress formally for tonight's league dinner—a pomp and ceremony affair for leagues big-wigs and fans willing to cough up $15 per ticket.

"Where does a guy 6-foot-8 find a tuxedo to fit?" mumbled New York Nets star Rick Barry, one of the East's starting forwards.

"If Artis Gilmore, who is 7feet-2, can find a tux," retorted Kentucky Colonels general manager Mike Storen, perpetrator of the black tie edict, "then Barry can find one. I hope he has that much class."

The East, bolstered by the presence of eight of the ABA's top 10 scorers and with superrookie Gilmore providing an intimidating force in the pivot, is favored to break the series' 2-2 tie by repeating its victory of a year ago.

The game will be televised to 70 major markets nationally on a special American Basketball Association Network, with tipoff at 8:30 p.m. EST. That's a half-hour later than originally planned because, one official said, it would avoid conflict with the CBS series "All in the Family" and its beloved bigot, Archie Bunker.

Gilmore will be joined in the East starting lineup by Kentucky's Dan Issel and New York's Barry at forwards, and Virginia's Charlie Scott and New York's Bill Melchionni at guards.

The West will counter with veteran Zelmo Beaty of Utah at center, Utah's Willie Wise and Indiana's Roger Brown at forwards, and Utah's Glen Combs and Denver's Ralph Simpson at guards.

Kentucky's Joe Mullaney will coach the East, with Utah's LaDell Anderson guiding the West.

Tarkenton Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — "Don't worry," one defensive lineman said to another after Fran Tarkenton had eluded them in a wild behind-the-scrmmage-line chase. "He'll be back in a moment."

And so Tarkenton, the quarterback who turned the oncedesperate act of scrambling into a fine art in the National Football League, is, indeed, returning from whence he came.

The New York Giants, who obtained Tarkenton from Minnesota in 1967, traded him back to the Vikings Thursday for a raft of present and prospective talent.

In return for their No. 1 quarterback, who ran and passed New York to a five-year, 33-37 record including last season's 410 last-place finish in the National Conference East, the Giants acquired:

—Bob Grim, the Vikes' AllPro wide receiver whose 1971 performance was the best of his six-year career,

—Norm Snead, a journeyman quarterback who, in his 11th pro year last season, was Minnesota's No. 3 signal-caller behind Gary Cuozzo and Bob Lee,

—Vince Clements, a rookie running back who missed the entire season with a knee injury,

—One of the Vikings' two first-round draft picks in Tuesday's NFL draft of college seniors, and

—Minnesota's second-round choice in the 1973 draft.

Tarkenton was delighted with the trade. Grim was not.

"We are very happy about going home to Minnesota ... back home, almost, to where we started," Tarkenton said from his home in Atlanta.

Grim, on the other hand, finding himself on the four-time NFC Central Division champion one minute and on an also-ran the next, hinted he might balk at the trade.

"Who knows at this time," the disgruntled wide receiver said from his parents' home in Red Bluff, Calif. "But should this trade materialize, I'd say the Giants came out way ahead.

"I'm a little upset about it. I'm not happy about leaving a contender. I don't think any two or three players can make a contender out of a club," Grim said of the Giants, adding that he felt Tarkenton is a fine quarterback "but I think Minnesota gave up too much to get him."

Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks agreed his team gave up a lot, "but I don't think we've destroyed the nucleus for our club."

Tarkenton came off the Georgia campus as the Vikings' No. 3 draft choice in 1961, theer first year of play as an NFL expansion team. Six seasons later he went to the Giants in exchange for four valuable draft picks.

But he had only one winning year in New York—the 9-5 mark in 1970 when the Giants missed the divisional title by one game—then slumped last season to perhaps the poorest of his career.

He completed 226 of 386 passes for 2,567 yards and a 58.5 completion percentage in 1971 but had 21 passes intercepted while connecting on ly 11 for touchdowns.

Grim, meanwhile, blossomed last season as one of the more potent weapons in a generally shaky Minnesota attack.

Fishing Seminar Set At EP

Fishing expert Art Reid of Carbondale, Ill., will conduct a fishing seminar Monday night at the annual membership meeting of the Mississippi County Recreation Association at the East Prairie High School auditorium.

The meeting, which is open to the general public at no charge, will begin at 7 p.m., according to James Ponder of Charleston, president.

Mr. Reid, founder and editor of "Lunkerhole" magazine, is also a frequent contributor to "Field and Stream" and "Outdoor Life" magazines. He is also tournament master for the bass tournament held at Kentucky Lake, Barkely Lake and Monroe Lake.

The speaker will discuss fishing for several varieties of fish, demonstrate fishing tackle and answer questions from the floor.

Other items on the agenda, Mr. Ponder said, include a report by the project engineer on the 143-acre Big Lake development project north of Charleston; a discussion by Conservation Commissioner Robert DeLaney of the proposed one-cent tax on soft drinks for conservation; reports from various associated committees; and election of officers and two new board members.

Botts Will Retire

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Tom Botts will end more than 30 years of coaching track and cross country at the University of Missouri this spring.

Botts, 67, announced his retirement Friday and Wilbur Stalcup, athletic director, said a successor would be appointed soon. c

The dean of Big Eight track coaches, Botts became head coach at MU 28 years ago after serving as assistant to the late C. G. Simpson three years.

Missouri won four indoor and four outdoor conference titles and an NCAA indoor title under Botts. The Tigers took five of a possible six indoor and outdoor crowns in 1947-48-49.

Botts was named Cross Country Coach of 1970 after his team won the Big Eight title and placed sixth in the NCAA. In 1961 he helped coach a U.S. team on an undefeated tour of Europe.

He was a member of the gncaa track rules committee, past president of the NCAA Cross Country Coaches Association, and a referee at the Kansas, Texas, Michigan State and Drake Relays.

As a collegian, Botts was a hurdler at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., under Brutus Hamilton, former Missouri Olympian and track coach at Kansas and California.

Although Botts could teach until he is 70, he will sever all academic ties at the university.

"I have no definite longrange plans," he said, "but I hope to keep reasonably active, doing something worthwhile and useful. I feel it is time to retire while my health is good."

RIDE CHANGES HANDS

DALLAS (AP) — The directors of the State Fair of Texas have decided to purchase one of Fair Park's major attractions, the Swiss Sky Ride, for $300,000.

The ride, which in 1971 grossed $114,400, was installed in 1964 by Paul Rogers, who purchased it at a factory price of $220,000 and paid an additional $230,000 for transportation, duty and installation.

The ride was shipped to Dallas from Switzerland.

Charleston, PB In Tourney Final

POPLAR BLUFF — Top seeded Charleston muscled its way into the championship of the 20th annual Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament Thursday night with a rousing 88-48 win over Twin Rivers while the hosting mules made easy work of the district's 10th rated Kennett Indians, 62-46 to set the state for tonight's 8:30 p.m. title bout.

Coach Lucian Black's CHS Bluejay cagers rolled up a 17-7 first quarter lead and then scored over 20 points in each of the next three quarters to record the win.

Richard Lawrence picked up 23 points to head a 10-player offensive barrage by the Bluejays, which included 18 by Albri Cassell, 15 from Alvin Pierce and 11 by Alfred Gordon. Mike Collard bucketed 14 for Twin Rivers top effort and only double figure mark.

Coach Tom Hoover got a big effort from his Mules to make easy work of second seeded Kennett, 62-46.

Poplar Bluff jumped out to a 20-12 first quarter lead and used its defense to hold the Indians to 28 points through three quarters of play.

Curtis Hinton scored 19 points to lead the PBHS offense, which included four other players in double figures. Griffin had 15 and Holeman and Locke added 13 each. Greg Gilmer had 17 for KHS.

Kennett and Twin Rivers tied up for the consolation prize tonight at 7 p.m.

Stram Signs 10 Yr. Pact

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hank Stram has signed a new 10-year contract as head coach and vice president of team operations for the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League, Lamar Hunt, Chiefs' owner, said today

Hunt hired Stram when the American Football League was formed in 1960 and the Chiefs originated as the Dallas Texans.

Stram has been the only head coach in the team's 12-year history. He was completing a fiveyear contract that began in 1967.

Terms of the new pact were not announced.

"We are very happy to have signed Hank to a new contract," Hunt said. "Though the vice president title is a new one, his responsibilities have not changed dramatically.

"He has earned the distinction as one of the game's great coaches and I am confident he will continue his winning tradition in the next decade."

Hunt said Stram will continue to be in control of all facets of team operation, including scouting, the draft, signing players, trades "and any other responsibilities involved with the preparation of the team for competition."

Stram was the winningest coach in the 10-year-history of the old AFL before it merged with the NFL. He had an 87-485 regular-season record in the AFL.

The Chiefs were the only AFL club to win three league titles and the lone club to represent the AFL in two Super Bowl games.

The highlight of Stram's career came on Jan. 11, 1970, when the Chiefs defeated the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl IV.

Kansas City posted a 10-3-1 record for last season, its seventh straight winning season, bringing Stram's regular-season career total to 104-56-8.

Only George Halas with the Chicago Bears, Steve Own with the New York Giants and Curley Lambeau with the Green Bay Packers have won as many professional games with the same team.

"I sincerely feel that I have the best coaching job in football," Stram said. "I will always be grateful to Lamar for providing me with my initial opportunity to be a head coach and for the confidence he has expressed in me through our 12-year association, as lell as the continued confidence he is diplaying with this new contract."

Royals Sign Pair

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Outfielders Amos Otis and Lou Piniella were among five Kansas City Royals whose contract signings were announced by the American League club today.

Also signing were outfielder Richie Scheinblum, second baseman Bobby Knoop and pitcher Art Demery, bringing the number of ROYALS IN THE fold to seven.

Otis led the league in stolen bases in 1971 with 52, and batted .301. Piniella, hampered by injuries, hit .279 after a .301 season in 1970.

Movie Has Underlying Religious Message

NEW YORK (AP) — A tiny, cheery old lady travels the lecture circuit these days telling how faith in God rescued her from a life wrecked by wealth, self-indulgence and booze.

"Churches call it witnessing or giving a testimonial," says Gert Behanna. "I call it a pitch."

Mrs. Behanna, 77, a pert, snappy woman with merriment in her lined face, is the subject of a current movie, "The Late Liz," starring Anne Baxter, with an underlying religious message.

Based on Mrs. Behanna's autobiography, it portrays her monied, party-going descent through hedonistic flings, three broken marriages and deepening alcoholism to a point of utter desperation and attempted suicide.

There, at the bottom, she cries out, "If there is another way, could I reach for it? Show me the way, God! Oh dear God, is it possible? I do believe!"

From then on, groping at first, uncertain, she starts back up the road to authentic life.

"That's the way it was," she said in an interview, after watching a preview of the movie. "That was me."

In actuality, the turning point came 14 years ago, and ever since Mrs. Behanna, now of San Antonio, Tex., has kept up a heavy schedule of talks, about 300 yearly, before churches, college and other groups, recounting her experience.

"I just tell them what God did for somebody like me," she said. "I don't say what they should do—I just tell what happened to me. All I know is that I was blind and now I can see."

Although she's now an Episcopalian, a member of St. Peter's church of San Antonio, Mrs. Behanna said that in temperament, she is "about as unchurchy as you can get."

"I'm shocked at the lack of love shown by most people in churches," she added. "Christ said He had come to find those who are lost. But if a drunk comes into a church, who will even move over?"

In her own case, she said, her conversion came like that of Paul in the New Testament. "Christ knocked him down," she remarked. "For most people though, it's not by spontaneous combustion like that, but a slow process."

She also had some help at the start from an Episcopal priest, the Rev. Tom Rogers, now associated with the Episcopal Cathedral in Chicago—played by Jack Albertson—with whom this conversation is depicted in the movie:

"I hope God sticks around through my growing pains," she (Miss Baxter) says.

"You're the one who has to stick around," says the priest, advising her to read the Bible daily and that through it God will speak to her.

"In English?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Behanna, daughter of the late millionaire industrialist Samuel Ingram, turned her fortune over to a charitable trust after her conversion, to devote it to helping others.

DAVID POLING, D.D.

Paying for War in Draft, Debt, Death

By REV. DAVID POLING

She has been a waitress for more than 10 years. You know that she needs the job and since the food is good and the service first rate, you always tip heavy when she handles your order.

You never knew her husband and only heard about her son when he went into the Army. Suddenly he was in Vietnam. Connie read his letters to the diner crowd and you could tell that she wanted others to bear the burden of waiting and hoping. Then, toward the end of the war and the conclusion of his tour of duty in Vietnam, he was killed. Dead at 20. Home in a box.

That waitress will never be the same again and all the kidding and all the heavy tips and all the sympathy in the world will not restore her life. Her son is dead and now she will pay through the heartbreak for as long as she remembers.

America is paying for Vietnam, just as the peasants of Southeast Asia are paying. Says Edmund Stillman in this month's issue of Commentary:

"The dominant characteristic of the American Establishment today is exhaustion: exhaustion of will, exhaustion of ideas, and most damaging of all, exhaustion of the power to generate popular faith in its ideals."

Stillman traces the effect of this Asian war and paints a bleak picture for America after Vietnam. Although the damage has been heavily centered in the paddies, hamlets and cities of Southeast Asia, the real, long-term victim is America. It has moved from rugged innocence to wary guilt. Stillman recalls those chilling words of Karl Marx who wrote:

"The redeeming feature of war is that it puts a nation to the test. As exposure to the atmosphere reduces mummies to instant dissolution, so war passes extreme judgment on social systems that have outlived their vitality."

A hundred years after Marx, Karl Barth, perhaps the leading Christian theologian of this century, observed:

"Communism can never be defeated solely by anti-Communist propaganda and military strength. Only if the West works out a positive social order, guaranteeing the freedoms essential for individual and social justice, will it have responded truly to the challenge of the Communists . . . In this respect, the colonial wars of the West are the highest trump cards in the Communist deck."

This gem of the ocean walked into the worst folly of the age and now is paying in so many ways — death, debt and draft. Each of these factors takes its toll in our national life. Our youth have been spent, our resources drained and our future committed to military ways and manners. The effect is already reaching down to the next generation.

Recently, the Central School Boards Committee for Educational Research published its findings of attitudes among schoolchildren, grades 3-8. These children in New York and New Jersey grade schools were asked if war was sometimes necessary. Fifty-four per cent said war was needed. Fifty-two per cent said they would die for their country.

When asked if they thought the President always told the truth, only 22 per cent said they did. Finally, of all the children polled (2,700) three per cent of the white youngsters had a Vietnam death within the family circle. But of the black kids, 12 per cent reported family losses.

Some sections of our society have paid a higher price for this war, but every home is touched when a nation mourns its dead and considers the wariness of its youth.

This week's Uniform INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR JANUARY 30, 1972

Scripture: Luke 16:1-15, 19-31 20:15-21:4

FAITHFUL WITH POSSESSIONS

It has been said that "when wealth is lost, nothing is lost; when health is lost, something is lost; but when character is lost, all is lost."

Jesus talked more about money and possessions than about any other topics. Nevertheless, there are many who criticize ministers today for what they claim to be excessive sermons about money.

The concern that Jesus stressed was over the way persons utilized their possessions. Too many individuals fail to admit that God gives man the ability to acquire money and other possessions.

Jesus lived in a period when contrasts were evident. He witnessed the wealthy parading around the Temple while others in the community were poor, many starving.

Should He return today He would encounter similar conditions. And he would hear many question the role of our churches that overstress buildings and equipment rather than services for the needy.

The first lesson today is familiar to many Bible readers, the story of the unjust steward. It is a story that can be misquoted and thus misunderstood. It can be quoted out of context with interpretations counter to those Jesus wanted His followers to hear.

Jesus used a corrupt social order to provide today's teaching lesson. When the master fired the "clever steward" for the poor use of his money, the steward made friends with his former debtors to prepare himself for the future.

The steward worked on a commission as did many men in those days. He was accused of mismanagement, not of fraud. When he was fired he called upon the tenants and collected from them, remitting his own share of what they owed.

Such shrewd dealings impressed the master, who applauded his actions.

What was Jesus seeking to teach in this message?

Obviously, we are all stewards, all working on commissions. We all work under one Master, allowed to use our resources as we desire. We should follow Jesus' instructions to make friends with the people who are dependent upon us.

It is questionable whether money is the root of ALL evil. Jesus seeks to instruct us in the wise use of money, not in its accumulation.

It isn't wrong to make money since it is needed for survival. However, it is wrong to lust for money. It is also wrong to place the thought of money ahead of the thought of God.

Obviously there are many ways in which we reveal our lust for money. The land owner who charges his renters more than the houses are worth is guilty of lust. The storekeeper who charges more for his products in ghetto areas than in other areas also is guilty.

Such men were the scribes who went about displaying their proud and pious attitudes. They were greedy men who profitted from their holy offices. They used their position to take advantage of others.

At the opposite end Jesus tells of the widow's mite. She was poor yet sacrificed for God. The wealthy gave more, yet made little sacrifice.

Two concepts are stressed. It is the spirit in which something is given; it isn't what one gives but what he has left.

Billy Graham once said that "God has given us two hands—one to receive with and the other to give with."

Not only is a person judged by the ways in which he receives his money, but also by the ways he spends it. We need to use our material possessions to assure our spiritual future.

Evangelical Group Fights Witchcraft

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — An evangelical group is launching the "world's first antiwitchcraft traveling mobile unit" on a nationwide tour.

Stocked with the trappings of the occult, including books, a human skull and the ingredients for witches' brews, the trailer will tour 45 U.S. cities, said a spokesman for World Evangelism Inc.

The trailer "was prepared to warn people of the dangers arising from exposure to the occult and to reveal the innocuous instruments used to lure people into the sinsiter world of evil spirits," says Morris Cerullo, president of World Evangelism, based in San Diego.

The potions and brews aboard the trailer were mixed by Michael Warnke, who described himself as a "satanic dropout." He says he was once a "high priest" in a Satan-worshipping Organization which had 1,500 members. Now he's converted to Christianity.

New Nazarene Church Pastor Native Of Butler County

The Rev. Coy O. Presson, a Butler County native, is the new pastor of First Church of the Nazarene at the corner of Scott and Trotter Streets.

Rev. Presson assumed the pastorate the last Sunday in November as successor to the Rev. William G. Ardrey, who departed a month earlier to move to Nashville, Tenn.

The Presson family came here from Hannibal where he had pastored for four years. In addition to the Rev. and Mrs. Presson, the family includes a daughter, Dawn, 11, and a son, Kent, 9. Dawn is a sixth grader at junior high and Kent is a fourth grader attending Lee Hunter school.

Other pastorates Rev. Presson has held during 11 years in the ministry were at Caruthersville, Ironton and Redford.

He is a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College of Bethany, Okla. Previously, he attended Arkansas State University at Jonesboro and served two years in the Army. Born and reared in Broseley, he also graduated from Broseley High School.

Mrs. Presson, a Texas native, also attended Bethany College and is a substitute school teacher.

A hobby of Rev. Presson's is collecting old clocks and he now has around 50 he estimates.

First Assembly Installs New Youth Officers

The Christ Ambassadors (CAs), the youth organization of the First Assembly of God Church, 306 South Kingshighway, held a service of installation last Sunday for newly-elected officers.

Elected president was Don Savage; vice-president, Harvey Hull; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Sharon Savage.

Rev. Erny McDonough, minister of music and youth, was in charge of the installation ceremony.

Each officer was given a pledge of office. The president, Don Savage, was presented a gavel and a boutonniere of white carnation symbolizing purity and serenity. Harvey Hull, vice-president, was presented a Bible and a red carnation boutonniere which symbolized courage and enthusiasm. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Sharon Savage, was presented the secretary's record book, a money bag, and a corsage of blue carnations trimmed with purple ribbon. The blue symbolizes truth and the purple is symbolic of the royal example of Christ.

After the officers' pledges to lead the youth group in the fear of God, the Christ Ambassadors pledged to cooperate and enthusiastically support the newly elected officers.

Mrs. Edna McKown sang, "Give of Your best to the Master" at the conclusion of the pledges.

Pastor T. A. McDonough spoke to the CAs on the subject, "Tell It Like It Is", and the service was closed as all joined in singing, "To Be Like Jesus.

Missouri Episcopal Annual Meeting Set

ST. LOUIS — The Episcopal Diocese of Missouri will hold its annual convention in Christ Church Cathedral Friday and Saturday, Feb. 4-5. It is expected that about 250 lay delegates and clergy will attend, with an equal number of visitors and observers.

The Diocese of Missouri was formed in 1840, 21 years after the organization of Christ Church as the first parish of the Episcopal Church west of the Mississippi River. Its first bishop was chosen in 1844 and, as rector also of Christ Church for several years, Bishop Cicero Stephens Hawks served until his death in 1868. Bishops who succeeded him were Charles F. Robertson, Daniel S. Tuttle, Frederick F. Johnson, William Scarlett and Arthur Lichtenberger. Bishops Tuttle and Lichtenberger served also as presiding bishops of the Episcopal Church.

The present bishop, George L. Cadigan, came to Missouri at the time of his consecration in 1959. He will preside over this, the 132nd convention.

The convention will convene in the cathedral at 3 p.m. Friday and will hear reports of various officers and commissions. It is expected a budget for 1972 will be submitted by the Standing Committee for approval during the afternoon session.

The convention dinner will be served at 6:15 p.m. in Bishop Tuttle Memorial. During the dinner Bishop Cadigan will present citations and awards to a number of lay persons who have shown distinguished work in the cause of the church and their communities. The names of the honorees are always closely guarded secrets and are not revealed until the bishop reads their names.

The convention service will be held in the cathedral at 8 p.m. Friday. During the service the cathedral choir will sing and Bishop Cadigan will deliver his annual address to the diocese.

The business session will reconvene at 9 a.m. Saturday and is expected to be concluded by noon.

Professor Of Bible To Speak

Parole Urged For Minister

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Pardon and Parole Board recommended 37 state penitentiary inmates for parole Sunday, including an ordained Baptist minister.

Loyal P. Scott, 31, who was ordained as a Baptist minister in 1968, was unamiously recommended for parole.

Scott is serving a 15-year sentence for a $100 drug store robbery in Tulsa in 1967.

Scott told the board he was "the second man in the history of this penitentiary which the Baptist Church has licensed."

Don Glover Leaving Shady Acres Church

Don C. Glover

Don C. Glover, minister of Shady Acres Church of Christ, 1440 Ables Road, will deliver his last sermon to the congregation Sunday. The following Sunday he will become minister of the 1,000-member White Station Church of Christ in Memphis, Tenn.

Glover has served the church here for the past 10 years. Four years ago, the congregation sold its building on South Kingshighway and erected new facilities on an 11-acre site one mile east of the Sikeston Field House on Ables Road.

In 1971, the congregation broke ground for the Shady Acres Children's Home. The home, which will care for needy children, is nearing completion. Glover has spoken every weekday morning over radio station KSIM for the past 9½ years.

During his stay in Sikeston, Glover made two trips abroad. In 1969, the congregation raised money to send him to Egypt, Israel, Lebanon, Turkey, Greece and Rome. In 1971, Glover traveled to Russia, the Holy Land, Greece and Rome.

"It is very difficult for us to leave Sikeston," said Glover. "The people here have been so good to us. Perhaps someday we may be able to return."

A successor has not been named.

SHOWBEAT

Coming Attraction: Real Trials on TV

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The man who is probably America's most famous trial lawyer believes that courtroom proceedings should be televised.

F. Lee Bailey says they should—and will. He is convinced that it's only a matter of time until trials are regularly available on home screens. He says some Minneapolis cases are already being televised.

"Televising trials," Bailey says, "is now feasible because the equipment has become unobtrusive. It doesn't disrupt the court anymore to have cameras around. And I think it would be a good thing for justice and for informing the public."

It would make existing lawyer shows on TV seem pretty pallid, of course. And Bailey is pretty strong—but not as strong as you might think—in his opinion of the legal shows now offered by the networks.

"They range," he says, "from bare mediocrity to pretty good. But I don't watch TV very much."

That becomes pretty obvious when he mentions the shows he thinks are pretty good—he cites "most of The Defenders and some of Judd for the Defense," and both those shows have been off the air for some years.

Bailey has a new book, "The Defense Never Rests," which deals with some of the important cases he has handled. And he says there is some interest among Hollywood movie producers in taking parts of the book—notably, those sections dealing with the Shepherd and Coppolino cases—for a feature film.

He thinks that acting training would be advantageous for lawyers (although he had none) but says there is one big difference between acting and appearing in a courtroom.

"There are no retakes in court," he says. "Lawyers must give everything they've got the first time."

My Blue Havens

Richie Havens was in town for a concert. He was in and out of Hollywood like a wisp, because that's his style. He comes to a city, does his thing, and is off again. He says that he does three or four concerts a week, 40 weeks a year. And he spreads joy wherever he goes.

But he makes use of his time. Unlike most touring artists, he doesn't spend what free time he has watching other performers work. Havens brings along a virtual library of his own, and the dresser in his hotel room was loaded with books about psychology, sociology, religion, astrology.

Havens springs from the notorious Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. When he was growing up there, he says, it was the heyday of the gangs. But he says the gang scene is over.

Jonesboro Crime Rate Lowest In Nation

JONESBORO, Ark. -- Jonesboro has apparently bettered its own national record for the lowest crime rate in its size category, according to the FBI's Uniform Crime Report.

Jonesboro, with a population of 27,000, has the lowest crime rate for cities with more than 25,000 population in both 1970 and 1971. The police department's criminal division investigated 653 cases in 1970, a record nationally, and bettered that figure in 1971, when only 589 criminal cases were investigated.

Police Chief Jim Hanley of the Jonesboro department attributed the low crime rate to a "city of good citizens. We just don't have a city of hoods," he said, estimating that 80 per cent of Jonesboro residents "don't even know where the circuit courtroom is and most traffic violators have to ask what to do with their tickets." He said other factors contributing to the [illegible] rate included an efficient up-to- date police department "and not having a lot of honky-tonks."

Leading the list of offenses for the year were burglary, forgery and uttering, with 129 reports for each offense. During 1971, there were no reports of manslaughter by negligence, prostitution and commercialized vice, gambling or vagrancy. Of the 589 total cases reported, 415 were closed, 13 believed unfounded and 161 were still under investigation.

Big Deficits Bad News For Nixon's Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The huge deficits announced in Monday's budget messege--more than $64 billion in two years—are a bad political break for President Nixon's re-election campaign.

They are sure-fire ammunition for Democrats, on whose past deficits Nixon has blamed his own problems with inflation, recession and the soaring federal debt.

The rich red ink, $38.8 billion worth in fiscal 1972 and $25.5 billion in the coming government year, could prompt demands for higher taxes and traditional Republican "fiscal responsibility" from the conservative wing of the President's own party. Conservatives have shown rising irritation with the Nixonian economics.

Nixon did his best to minimize a political backfire. The deficits are just the right tonic for the tired economy, he contended, and he implied that it is the Democratic-controlled Congress which needs to show fiscal discipline, not the Republican administration.

The message gives his administration credit for $22 billion in income tax relief gained by Americans since 1969, omitting the fact many of the cuts were unasked by the White House and some were opposed.

The budget shows evidence of tinkering with the timing of outlays. This has crowded more deficit spending into this fiscal year, before June 30, and less into fiscal 1973. The latter budget is the one that will be in the voters' minds next November.

The emphasis on spending planned this spring will provide the economic stimulus when it is needed to get the recovery rolling, a high White House official explained, instead of later on when, presumably, the recovery will have gained enough momentum to revive inflationary hazards.

The shift also will enable Nixon to tell voters—as he told Congress in the budget message—that even though the deficits are large they are being reduced, and federal budgets are being brought under control.

A White House source said about $1 billion in federal welfare payments to the states which normally would come after the turn of the fiscal year are being handed over to the states before the new bookkeeping year begins.

In fact, about $4 billion of the outlays now scheduled for fiscal 1972 could be shifted to fiscal 1973 if the administration wished to delay the spending, this source acknowledged. But, he added, "We think the fiscal thrust should be greater in 1972."

There is little doubt that both deficits are swollen by some items that Congress is unlikely to approve, including revenue sharing. If Congress balks, the $2.2 billion budgeted for that program this fiscal year would be a handy cushion to offset possible cost increases in other programs—or to point to as evidence that the deficits are being reduced.

The message alternately attacks Congress for overspending Nixon requests on programs it favors and scolds the lawmakers for not voting the funds for programs he favors.

Congress has made "costly mistakes" in past reductions of defense budgets, Nixon said in advocating more money for the Pentagon. Older people "have waited long enough," he said, for Congress to provide Social Security reforms. He complained that his plan to aid needy students is stalled: "There it sits, in Congress, while thousands of young people miss their chance."

On the other hand, the message bespeaks the President's pride that "the rate of increase in government spending has been cut nearly in half" compared to what it describes as comparable years of the Johnson administration. The Johnson years were those of the Vietnam buildup.

The current deficits are pictured as being of exactly the right size to speed the recovery without reviving the price-wage spiral.

His critics in Congress already have taken a line that ignores such fine-tuning of fiscal policy.

We're planning to be here for awhile so possibly things and information aren't so important — do we stop doing things NOW because it sounds less important. When we first arrived, I was most hungry for knowledge about my "new town" and looked for a place to go to find it. Just because I have a time extension does it matter — yes!!! Let's find a place where youth and new people can seek information about the roots of this wonderful enterprising city and where those who DO know can happily reminisce. Why not a museum where all of us can browse and see graphically and interestingly why Sikeston IS here and what makes it stay and grow. What's it all about.

All mankind must face life's problems
And whatsoever that the day may bring
Altho' we try to escape them
It would all be in vain
And as we travel along life's journey
And there's trouble on the way
We must try to accept it, for --
There's no other way
But we will all come to the end of our journey
And cross over the chilly stream -- of death--
There to stand before the judgment
And be judged by Christ our King.

What's The Law

Patriotic Law Gone

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A state law was passed that provided a hefty $2,000 fine and or seven years in the pokey for discouraging anyone from enlisting in the United States Armed Forces. Almost immediately, a group of outraged citizens declared war on the statute. Up-in-arms, their first skirmish was in court.

"That law couldn't be any more un-American," they told the judge, "had it been written by George III and his redcoats. What it does, in effect, is to gag free expression. It prevents people from voicing their opposition to unpopular wars."

"No war is popular," was the response. "It's just that some wars are less unpopular than others. And, if we find ourselves involved in one, the object is not to handicap the country in its operation. Therefore, the statute under attack is both reasonable and necessary. The good of the country comes first."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the statute?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the statute was much too broad a restriction on free speech. Since it is not a crime not to volunteer one's services to the military, noted the judge, the statute, by threat of prosecution, prohibited the urging of a lawful act.

Today In U.S.History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1972. There are 338 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1878, the world's first commercial telephone switchboard was installed in New Haven, Conn.— with 21 subscribers plugged in.

On this date:

In 1547, King Henry VIII of England died.

In 1871, the French surrendered to the Germans in the Franco-Prussian war.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson signed legislation creating the U.S. Coast Guard.

In 1916, Louis Brandeis was named an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

In 1932, in the depths of the depression, the song "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" was sweeping the country.

In 1945, the first American truck convoy traveled the reopened Burma Road in World War II.

Ten years ago: An American unmanned spacecraft, Ranger 3, failed to hit the moon and passed by at a distance of 22,000 miles.

Five years ago: Communist China and the Soviet Union exchanged bitter charges over an incident involving Chinese students and Russians in Red Square.

One year ago: Secretary of State William Rogers said the United States had no intention of expanding the American military role in Cambodia.

Allen M. Blanton
Editor
Daily Sikeston Standard

Last Saturday, Jan. 15, an article appeared on the front page of The Standard. It was proported to be my answer to a questionaire sent out by a group calling themselves the "Citizen's Lobby". Although it was only a part of my answer, carefully edited. The part left out in my estimation changed the entire mood and intent of the letter. I will quote one of the parts left out and you may judge for yourself.

"This letter is not one of criticism, as I am very interested in your movement and wish you well and will do all in my power to be of service to you. But you can do so much good if you are really serious or you can just become another voice in the crowd as you have started out to be, with no real contributions to offer.

Please feel free to drop in and discuss these matters at your convenience."

I am used to seeing something happen in your government, or hearing a speech, and when I read about it the next day, finding out that the thing reported is not at all what happened or the words reported spoken, are not correct or else so slanted the real meaning could never be figured out. But when I read the letter to the mailbox printed in the same paper I decided to do some checking and answer. I probably should add here that, that letter printed in the mailbox had been chanded from its original context to eliminate the mention of a phone call which had set all this farce up.

My first question was who is the "Citizens Lobby". I know that they are a "special interest" pressure group, which uses slanderous & libelous tactics to threaten & coerce elected representatives of the people to vote the way this group wants. All you have to do to see a perfect example of this tactic is read the letter in the mailbox Jan. 15 writted by the director of this group. I also know that they have a nice office on the main street in Jefferson City with nice furniture, phones, stationery etc. They have a staff of at least three people, and the man who appears to be the head of this group says his father, a farmer, pays for it all along with a few other members of his family. I don't think I need to go much deeper for you to get the idea of the type of group this is. If I need to later I will.

I ordinarily ignore this type of thing, but I have not in this case for one important reason. It proves very well why I oppose opening the executive sessions of the Legislative committees to people & groups like this to whom distortion, lack of understanding, and plain untruthfulness, are all fair when dealing with peoples minds.

As one final point I will repeat again as I have hunderds of times before. My votes or opinions have never been withheld from any constituent or member of the press, in the eight years I have been priveledged to serve my district. They are yours along with any information you wish concerning your state government. The intent of this article is to increase your awareness of the world of politics. These tactics really don't bother me much, because I know you are not deceived by them, and I am exposed to this stuff daily and have grown a pretty thick hide. If you have any questions please write me.

Mr. Charles Blanton Jr.
Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Mr. Blanton:

With the exception of a few returns which are still coming in the 1971 Tuberculosis Christmas Seal campaign is now past history. It was a most successful campaign, and we of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Society of St. Louis and Eastern Missouri would like to thank you for your interest. It is people like yourself who make our continuing work possible, and we are grateful.

Therefore, on behalf of the Board of Directors, I wish to extend a sincere thank you for your help. We hope our programs of case finding, health education, research and rehabilitation will continue to merit your interest and support in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,
TUBERCULOSIS AND RESPIRATORY DISEASE SOCIETY OF ST. LOUIS AND EASTERN MISSOURI
